ITALY DEMANDS U. S. CUT DEBT IF GERMANY DOES

Says America Must Shoulder the Loss.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Jan. 11.—Carrying instructions from the Fascist government to the effect that any modification of reparations received from Germany must be accompanied by a cognate reduction of Italy's war debt to the United States, Alberto Beneduce left Rome for Paris tonight to confer with French and British treasury experts on the situation arising from Chancellor Bruening's demand for annulment of the German payments.

The preliminary meeting between Beneduce, who was chairman of the world bank committee which recently studied Germany's capacity to pay, will be followed by a meeting with the Germans either at Paris or Berlin, according to an Italian spokesman tonight. From these conferences is expected to evolve a definite plan of action by those nations who receive German reparations before the opening of the Lausanne conference on Jan. 25.

Put Everything Up to U. S.

The upshot of this plan, according to information here, will be a solid front, which Italy, France, and Great Britain will put up to the United States, providing that they will renounce reparations to the extent that the United States is ready to cut down debts.

An Italian spokesman tonight said Italy is disposed to make any sacrifice of reparations provided the problem is examined "in its entirety," which means if the connection between war debts and reparations is admitted by the United States.

Italy will never take the initiative to modify the present arrangements on the war debt question, the spokesman continued, in a carefully prepared statement, but, considering that the Italian point of view is that debts and reparations are interrelated and cannot be separated, it is clear that if reparations are modified the whole question of debts must be taken up.

Open Drive on Congress.

Accordingly, the stage appeared set today for a concerted European drive to shake, if possible, the stand of the American congress against cancellation and make the American government responsible for whatever happens in the economic world if the Lausanne conference fails.

Before leaving for Paris tonight, Beneduce had long conversations with both Premier Mussolini and Foreign Minister Grandi.

Mussolini's government, it was announced, does not share the excitement of some other nations, meaning France, over Chancellor Bruening's statement for, the official spokesman declared, in a certain political way Italy shares Bruening's views in regard to what is necessary for world economic reconstruction.

Britain Waits on France.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 11.—The British cabinet today discussed the international situation caused by Germany's declaration that she can no longer pay reparations. The cabinet agreed that it could not decide anything until it heard from Sir Frederick Leith-Ross, treasury expert, who is now in Paris discussing the matter with French experts, and adjourned until Wednesday. There is a growing doubt here as to whether the Lausanne conference will be able to meet even on the postponed date of Jan. 25.

It is felt here that the French are trying to stall off the meeting until it becomes coincident with the international disarmament conference at Geneva in February. It is not expected here that Premier Laval will be able to reconstruct his cabinet in less than two or three days. Then he must seek a vote of confidence from the chamber of deputies, which may take a few days more. After that the new ministers are entitled to ask for time to familiarize themselves with the situation.

The British feeling is that Germany acted tactlessly by speaking too soon. Every one knew they would say the same thing at Lausanne, but it is felt here that they have given the French the excuse to stall for which they were looking.

Laval Rebukes Bruening.

PARIS, Jan. 11.—(AP)—Premier Laval today told Leopold von Hoesch, German ambassador, that a bad impression had been created in France by Chancellor Bruening's statement that Germany no longer was able to pay reparations. Laval used what was

SENATE ORDERS INVESTIGATION OF HAWAII CRIME

Wants Island Safe for White Women.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 11.—[Special.]—A sweeping investigation of the enforcement and administration of criminal laws in Hawaii with special reference to the recent killing of a native following an assault on the wife of a naval officer, was begun today by Attorney General William D. Mitchell.

WM. D. MITCHELL. [U. & U. Photo.]

The attorney general acted on the authority of a senate resolution calling for an exhaustive investigation of recent Hawaiian crimes and a report indicating whether a change in the organic law for the territory would be necessary to make the island safe for white women. Chairman Hiram Bingham [Rep., Conn.] of the senate territories committee introduced the resolution and it was passed without opposition and without debate.

Congress Shows Concern.

The prompt passage of the resolution of inquiry indicated the grave concern manifested in congress over the tense conditions in Hawaii, caused by the killing of Joseph Kahahawai, a native, and the arrest, as the slayers, of Lieut. Thomas H. Massie, U. S. N.; Mrs. Granville Fortescue, mother-in-law of Massie and wife of a prominent soldier and author, and two seamen. Kahahawai was alleged to have raped Mrs. Massie.

Immediately following the passage of the Bingham resolution, Senator Kenneth McKellar [Dem., Tenn.] offered another resolution calling for a senatorial investigation of the whole Hawaiian situation. Simultaneously, the house naval committee called upon the navy department for all their records on their dispute with the civil authorities over island disorders which culminated in the shooting.

Early this afternoon all records held by the navy department, as well as such reports as have been received by the department of the interior which has charge of the island government, were turned over to Attorney General Mitchell.

Navy Issued Warning.

The navy department files carried records showing that the department had called attention to serious conditions of lax law enforcement in Honolulu as early as Dec. 12. They also declared that Admiral William V. Pratt, chief of naval operations, stated on several occasions that unless the territory was cleaned up further trouble was likely to occur, as American men would not stand for the rape of their women.

While navy department officials continued to emphasize the gravity of the situation in Hawaii, calling attention to the fact that it had been necesary to cancel arrangements for having the fleet stop there for several days in February, following a joint army and navy problem, interior department officials remained calm.

Secretary of the Interior Wilbur announced late in the day he had received cabled assurances from Gov. Judd that conditions there had been exaggerated. Secretary Wilbur expressed complete confidence in Gov. Judd's ability to handle the whole situation. Whether President Hoover will take a hand in the matter was not clear, late tonight.

The secretary expressed deep regret over the incident.

Navy Wants Venue Change.

In the meantime sentiment in the navy crystallized against any plan for turning Lieut. Massie over to local authorities for trial. Late today orders were issued to Rear Admiral Stirling, advising him not to turn the naval officer over to the city without first obtaining consent from Washington. Admiral Pratt ventured the hope that a change of venue could be obtained which would permit the trial of the naval officer in California.

"I would like to see that done, if it were possible to do so," Admiral Pratt said. "It would be better for all concerned. To hold the trial in Honolulu now would be to keep the situa-

STILL RESISTING

MR. BAR SOLVES MYSTERY, BUT HE'S IN HOSPITAL

For some time blankets assigned to Kilbey lodge, an unemployment relief station at 1210 South Morgan street, had been disappearing with alarming frequency. Yesterday, when the fiftieth blanket had gone, Maxwell street police were notified.

Sergt. Charles Anderson investigated. After inspecting a group of casuals, he beckoned to Albert Bar, 45 years old.

"You look as if you'd make a good detective," observed Sergt. Anderson. Bar smiled modestly. "I'm going to deputize you as a detective to solve the mystery of the fifty stolen blankets."

Sergt. Anderson pinned a brilliant star inside the coat of Mr. Bar. It was engraved "House detective." Sergt. Anderson returned to his station. A few hours later Mr. Bar informed him he had recovered thirty-five of the blankets.

Still later the Maxwell street police received a riot call from the shelter house. Half a dozen bluecoats arrived in time to pick a limp and badly beaten figure from the floor. It was Mr. Bar. They took him to the county hospital for repairs. Mr. Bar looked up at Sergt. Anderson and sighed:

British Learn Thar's Money in Gold Coins

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 11.—Thousands of British hoarders are going off the gold standard at a combined profit of 50 per cent on every sovereign melted down and sold with other demonetized coins in bars. [A British sovereign is a gold coin valued at $4.8665.]

This is contrary to the law against defacing gold sovereigns—gold pounds—and half sovereigns, but it has been discovered that an elaborate organization has spread throughout England buying up as many as possible of the 5,000,000 to 10,000,000 gold coins habitually hoarded in the country.

Buy Them in Saloons.

Since Britain went off the gold standard, a yellow disc once worth 20 silver shillings now brings 30.

Considerable illegal purchasing is carried on quietly in country saloons. Sovereigns are purchased at a premium, sometimes as high as 25 shillings, but the ring is still showing a big profit. Even reputable assayers and refiners are swamped with calls to melt down coins. Although they refuse to abet violations of the law, the money eventually finds its way into the hands of illegal refiners.

How They Escape Detection.

One method of escaping detection through the testing of bars later, is to melt the coins down with wedding rings, the gold of which is about the same quality. Otherwise the distinctive quality of gold used in sovereigns would easily be detected.

All sorts of heirlooms and jewelry of various kinds are also being sold for refinement at a profit. Even jewelers with stocks long "out of date" are cleaning up on once profitless merchandise because of the reconversion value of watches, rings and unsaleable gewgaws.

EVANSTON CUTS $273,073 OUT OF BUDGET FOR 1932

A reduction of $273,073 under the 1931 budget was made by the Evanston city council last night in passing its 1932 budget.

The 1932 budget is $1,929,612. That for 1931 was $2,202,685. The council worked over the new budget, trimming costs in every department, and distributing the savings as equably as possible. The council also agreed on the amount of taxation to be collected in 1932 as $1,357,969. The 1931 tax was $1,562,367.

From the mayor down, every city employé will receive a pay reduction amounting to two weeks salary.

ONE OUT OF 8 IN CHICAGO CALLS POLICE ON PHONE

Chicagoans evinced a grand impulse during 1931 to step to the telephone and call Police 1313. Approximately one out of every eight citizens in the city did that very thing with the result that 488,654 Police 1313 calls were turned in from Jan. 1, 1931, to Dec. 31.

The figures are those of Capt. William Killeen, in charge of the bureau of criminal records and statistics. Capt. Killeen had a few words to say on the subject.

"Of those Police 1313 calls, 190,297 wanted to know the time, the age of certain policemen traveling beat or something on that order," said the captain. "Then 160,628 more were of a minor nature, concerning boys playing on the street and other trivial matters. Of the remainder, many were false alarms, some intentional, and of this remainder, 86,322 resulted in reports being flashed over the radio. These included, of course, many bona fide alarms."

The 86,322 radio broadcasts included 12,198 pertaining to thirty-nine suburban districts, reducing the Chicago proper flashes to 74,124.

COURT PERMITS HUSBAND TO PAY ALIMONY IN HAM

Until times get better, George Klupta, 5724 Sunnyside avenue, may continue to pay his alimony in hams and sausage, Judge Harry B. Miller ruled yesterday in the Superior court.

Klupta was summoned at the request of Attorney Elizabeth Perry of the county bureau of public welfare, representing Mrs. Katherine Klupta, 5723 Windsor avenue, who divorced him three years ago. Klupta is several hundred dollars in arrears on the $15 a week payments he was ordered to make for the support of his wife and their three children.

"I live over a garage, and all the job I can find is as a porter in a delicatessen," Klupta explained. "I don't get any money. They pay me in hams and sausage. Every week I give my wife three-fourths of the meat I get."

"I don't believe you ought to go to jail," Judge Miller told him after Mrs. Klupta had admitted receiving the meat. "In times like these, I guess I'll have to hold that hams and sausage are legal tender."

Rock Island Lines Call 1,700 Shopmen to Work

The Rock Island lines yesterday announced that 1,700 shopmen will be returned to work in its locomotive and passenger repair shops at Silvis, Ill.; Cedar Rapids, Ia.; Horton, Kas., and Shawnee, Okla. They will work on a five day week. A stabilized force of about 3,700 shopmen is maintained on the regular maintenance and running repair work.

Independent Slain in Street by 3 Assassins

Benjamin Rosenberg, 46 years old, manager of an independent cleaning and dyeing plant and author of a pamphlet attacking racketeering in his industry, was shot and killed early last evening at 3d avenue and Green street, Maywood.

An automobile, bearing an Indiana license, drew up beside Rosenberg as he was walking toward his home at 1102 South 2d avenue, Maywood. Three men leaped from the car. With the butts of their pistols they beat their victim to the sidewalk and as he lay there helpless they fired six bullets into his body.

The killers then climbed into their sedan and sped away.

Wife Tells of Threats.

Rosenberg was in charge of the plant of the International Cleaners and Dyers, Inc., at 2310 South State street. He left his office late in the afternoon and rode on an elevated train to the 5th avenue station in Maywood. He intended to join his wife and their three children for dinner.

Mrs. Rosenberg and Harry Alpert, president of the International concern, told investigators that numerous threats had been received by Rosenberg and that they believed his death was due to the enmity of a powerful faction in the cleaning and dyeing industry.

"It was his fondest hope," said the widow, "that he would be able to do away with racketeering in the business. This is his reward."

Prosecuting Two Hoodlums.

It was recalled that Rosenberg was one of the principal witnesses against two gangsters who are to be tried on charges of throwing acid on a truckload of garments belonging to his firm, which is not affiliated with the Cleaners' and Dyers' institute.

These hoodlums, Philip Mangano and Louis Clementi, were arrested last August a few days after the acid had been used in a garage of the International firm at 10 East 29th street. Mangano is a brother of Dago Lawrence Mangano, one of the leading lieutenants of Al Capone. Their trial was scheduled to be held late this month.

"I regard this as a bold attempt to seal the lips of a state's witness and to intimidate others," declared Assistant State's Attorney Edwin C. Dufficy of the racket bureau. Mr. Dufficy requested the arrest of Mangano and Clementi for questioning. Both are now at liberty on bonds.

Assault Victim Is Witness.

Moe Buchalter, an overall broker, 6714 South Sangamon avenue, who was beaten last Saturday evening while hauling an automobile load of overalls that were to be cleaned in the International plant, went to the detective bureau last night and identified pictures of Philip Mangano and Clementi as those of his assailants.

Buchalter also declared he had been warned not to do business with "unauthorized" concerns like the International. This warning came from another source.

Chief of Detectives William Schoemaker learned that the officials of the concern had been threatened by Murray Humphreys and Machine Gun Jack McGurn, Capone gangsters who are said to have obtained a foothold in the numerous rackets connected with the laundry and linen service businesses.

Early yesterday afternoon Rosenberg was in the office of Lieut. Frank Johnson, chief of the detective bureau's bomb squad. He told the lieutenant that for a week or more strangers had been approaching his concern's plant and that he was fearful they might be shadowing him. Lieut. Johnson offered him additional

SENATE PASSES BILL TO THAW FROZEN ASSETS

It Is Biggest Fund in U. S. History.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 11.—[Special.]—By a bipartisan majority of 63 to 8 the senate tonight passed the administration's reconstruction finance corporation bill, making available to banks, railroads, insurance companies, mortgage loan companies, farm credit associations and other associations two billion dollars' worth of credit.

Half a billion dollars worth of this credit is to come direct from the federal treasury, through the purchase of stock in the corporation.

A billion and a half dollars worth, in the form of bonds issued by the corporation, will be guaranteed by the government, and through a federal bond issue, the treasury is authorized to purchase the bonds if the necessity arises.

The fund is to be administered by a board of directors to consist of the secretary of the treasury, the governor of the federal reserve board, and the farm loan commissioner, together with four others to be appointed by the President with the consent of the senate.

Biggest Credit of U. S. History.

The passage of the bill by the senate marks the first substantial step forward of the President's most ambitious plan to get the country back on its economic feet.

Meanwhile the house has started work on a similar bill, which is expected to pass Thursday, and will be rushed to conferences. The measure in its final form is expected to reach the President for signature late this week or early next week.

With the largest extension of federal credit in the history of the country, surpassing even the War Finance corporation, which served as model, it is the expectation of the administration that frozen assets in the hands of the banks and other credit sources will be temporarily taken over by the corporation in the form of collateral, and their places taken by ready money in the form of loans.

The bill's final day in the senate was one of long debate and a barrage of many amendments. It was not until 10:30 in the evening that the last amendment was disposed of and the last argument heard and the final vote taken.

Insurgents Fight to Last.

At the last but a small handful, largely composed of insurgent senators, held out against the persuasiveness of the administration combined with the necessity of the country's financial situation.

The eight senators who finally voted against the bill were all from western states in the "Wild Jackass" belt. The recalcitrant senators were Norris of Nebraska, Brookhart of Iowa, and Blaine of Wisconsin, all radical Republicans, and Bratten of New Mexico, Bulow of South Dakota, Connally of Texas, McGill of Kansas, and Thomas of Oklahoma, all Democrats.

Paired for the bill were Couzens of Michigan, Townsend of Delaware, and Fletcher of Florida, and against the bill were Black of Alabama, McKellar of Tennessee, and La Follette of Wisconsin.

Help for Cities Voted Down.

In one of the concluding acts before the measure's passage, the senate, by a vote of 45 to 28, rejected the Copeland amendment which would have meant that cities like Chicago which are in financial straits would have been eligible to receive loans from the corporation to tide them over their difficulties.

The amendment was proposed by Senator Royal S. Copeland [Dem., N. Y.] and it was assiduously seconded by Senator J. Hamilton Lewis [Dem., Ill.].

Senator Lewis pleaded especially for help in paying the Chicago school teachers, who, he said, had not only gone without pay for many months but had drawn on their slender resources to help the hungry children in their schoolrooms.

"We are in an era as dire as that of war," Senator Lewis declared. "Never was there any time of war which threatened such destruction and misery to our country. In war, we went to the aid of foreign countries.

Let's Not Quibble, He Pleads.

"Now is no time to draw delicate distinctions between the relative functions of the various governments. Let the people of the cities be inculcated with patriotism anew by remembering that they were not driven away when they asked to be fed."

Senator Copeland sought federal aid to meet the situation in New York, where the bankers, he said, refused to loan the city money for relief purposes unless the city would abrogate the five cent subway fare agreement and raise the fare to ten cents. He charged that the bankers were attempting to enhance the value of the securities of the privately owned transportation lines at the expense of the riders on the city owned subway. He termed the bankers' attitude "outrageous and inexcusable" and charged them, in President Hoover's words of the last session, with "playing politics with human misery."

States Barred from Bill.

Just before the bill went to a final roll call the senate reconsidered and cut out provisions authorizing loans to states for rural credit systems. The amendment killed would have permitted loans to states that set up rural credit systems.

An amendment to provide that corporations receiving aid under the bill should declare no dividends during the period of the loan also was defeated, 38 to 32.

Two last hour amendments were adopted, however, one by Senator La Follette, to prohibit the use as collateral of bankers' acceptances for the shipment of arms or munitions; another by Senator Elmer Thomas [Dem., Okla.], cutting the directors salaries from $12,000 to $10,000.

Senator Robert Bulkley [Dem., O.] successfully added an amendment adding to the proviso that loans might be made to closed banks, which readily could be restored to solvency, a further proviso permitting loans to institutions which have taken over such closed banks.

Debate Is Heated.

Arguments in the closing hours revolved about the limitations to be thrown around the directors and their activities. With the federal government standing directly liable for half a billion dollars and guaranteeing three times as much in addition, many senators expressed fears as to how the money would be used.

And the sentiments of many senators were voiced in the final speech of the day by Senator George W. Norris, radical of Nebraska, who declared he had been called Socialist, communist, and more because of his past efforts in connection with such measures as those for government operation of Muscle Shoals.

"But never," he declared, "have I ever dreamed of putting the government in business as far as this goes. You are using the taxpayers' money and giving to the very bankers, many of them international bankers, who are largely responsible for the condition in which the country now finds itself.

"Never for the relief of any one, in time of peace or war, have we gone as far as this. Not only are we locking the stable door after the horse has been stolen, but we are replacing the horse with something else of value and giving that something to the man that stole the horse."

The Bankers Catch It.

The whole debate was marked by many attacks on the banking interests. They were put forth against the background of the recent revelations before the senate finance committee, where witnesses have told of the methods used to float foreign—particularly South American—bond issues in this country.

Senator C. C. Dill [Dem., Wash.], referring to this testimony, remarked that the banks had got safely out from under and had left the public holding the burden of these depreciated bonds. He denounced certain New York bankers for saying that "private debts were sacred, but the intergovernmental debts were only political obligations."

"And to do what the bankers are trying to do in New York—to change the city's policy for the sake of their own profit—while this bill is pending, which places a two billion dollar liability on the treasury for the benefit of the banks, is," said Senator Dill, "the most damnable proposition within my knowledge."

"The bankers don't show up so well, either as to their patriotism or their financial ability."

$50,000,000 More Farm Aid.

Senator Smith's was the most important amendment adopted during the day's debate. It added a new section to the bill authorizing an appropriation of $50,000,000 for use by the secretary of agriculture to extend loans to small farmers. It stipulated further that the $45,000,000 now remaining in the drought relief fund should be applied to such loans.

HOW NEW CREDIT CORPORATION IS TO DO BUSINESS

Details of System of Aiding Public.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 11.—With its $500,000,000 of capital furnished by the government and its power to issue $1,500,000,000 worth of bonds, to be guaranteed and, if necessary, purchased by the government, the Reconstruction Finance corporation, proposed in the bill passed by the senate tonight, will be the administration's largest single effort to conquer the depression by direct aid from the federal treasury.

The corporation is expected to do for the banks what the Bankers' Credit corporation could not do in the way of trading credit for frozen assets, and it goes even farther. Leaving the relief of the definitely suspended banks to the promised aid of the 600 million dollars depositors' relief bill introduced in congress yesterday, the corporation is empowered to make loans to closed banks with assets enough to permit their ready restoration to solvency.

Its purpose is to furnish new credit where credit is now lacking, as in the case of the railroads, with their imperative need of money for refinancing, and to loan money on assets, sound but non-liquid, such as are held by banks, insurance companies and mortgage loan companies. It is authorized also to go to the aid of building and loan associations and of agricultural and livestock credit corporations.

Treasury to Prove Capital.

Except in the case of these agricultural institutions, where the financing of new ventures will be permitted, the corporation's purpose is strictly to relieve the present existing credit stringency and not to finance future enterprises.

The capital stock of the corporation, of 500 million, will be furnished as needed by the federal treasury. And as needed, the corporation will have power to issue bonds up to three times the amount of the paid in capital stock. Thus, the potential credit facilities of the corporation reach a total of two billion dollars.

The liability of the government also reaches that amount. For the bonds are to be guaranteed by the treasury, both as to principal and interest. And in case of necessity, that is, if the bonds do not find a ready market, the treasury is required to issue government bonds and with the proceeds buy bonds of the corporation. The bonds are not to be eligible for discount or purchase by a federal reserve bank.

All obligations of the corporation are to be exempt from federal taxation, except estate, inheritance and gift taxes.

Seven Directors in Control.

The management of the corporation is to be vested in a board of seven directors, composed of the secretary of the treasury, the governor of the federal reserve board, the farm loan commissioner, and four other persons to be appointed by the President and confirmed by the senate.

Loans made by the corporation may be made upon promissory notes, or by way of the discount or rediscount of obligations offered for that purpose, or in other ways to be fixed by the directors, who also will have the power to fix interest and discount rates. It is thought the corporation will borrow at 4½ per cent and loan at 5 or 6. Loans will be made originally for a period not to exceed three years, with the right of extension to not more than five years. Loans must be made within a period of one year from the passage of the act, but the President may extend this period to not more than two years.

In the case of loans directly to railroads, the approval of the interstate commerce commission must be had, and the commisison shall join in fixing the terms and the extent of the security.

The corporation is authorized to accept drafts and bills of exchange growing out of actual export transaction and having a maturity of not more than twelve months. The total of such acceptances is not to exceed 500 million dollars at any one time.

All such drafts and bills of exchange are to be payable in American dollars, adequately secured and guaranteed by a sound American bank. Loans on foreign bonds are absolutely forbidden.

The reports, records and other information of the treasury, the farm loan board, the controller of the currency, the federal reserve board, the federal reserve banks, and the interstate commerce commission are all to be made available to the corporation in confidence. All applicants for a loan shall be required to submit to any examination required of them.

As soon as the one or two year loan making period is over, the corporation management is expected to liquidate its affairs as fast as possible. Any profits remaining at the close of business will go to the treasury, and the treasury will stand any losses. It is hoped that the entire liquidation will end within 5 years and it must be ended within 10 years.

Transfer Generals

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 11.—[Special.]—Maj. Gen. John L. Hines, commander of the army's forces in the Philippines, was transferred today from that post to duty in the office of the chief of staff in the war department. He will leave Manila, his headquarters as commander of the Philippine department, about April 9, 1932, the war department stated.

Maj. Gen. Ewing E. Booth, commander of the First calvary division at Fort Bliss, Tex., was named to the command of the Philippine department, to succeed Maj. Gen. Hines.

Maj. Gen. Hines, a native of West Virginia, saw active duty during the world war, having commanded the First division in the Cantigny sector, the Montdidier defensive and the Aisne-Marne defensive. In August, 1918, he was promoted to the rank of major general and commanded the Fourth division in the battle of St. Mihiel and during the Meuse-Argonne offensive.

SUPREME COURT UPHOLDS LIQUOR NUISANCE GUILT

Washington, D. C., Jan. 11.—[Special.]—In a single opinion handed down today the United States Supreme court upheld the conviction of James Dunn of California for maintaining a common nuisance by keeping intoxicating liquor for sale.

Dunn was indicted on this count and for unlawful possession and unlawful sale but was found guilty on the nuisance count alone. On the other two counts, he was acquitted. His counsel asserted that this was inconsistent.

"Consistency in the verdict is not necessary," said Justice Holmes in the court's majority opinion, from which Justice Butler dissented.

"Each count in an indictment is regarded as if it was a separate indictment. If separate indictments had been presented against the defendant for possession and for maintenance of a nuisance, and had been separately tried, the same evidence being offered in support of each, an acquittal on one could not be pleaded as res judicata of the others."

DAWES TO BACK HOOVER, HE SAYS, SPIKING GOSSIP

Praises Economic Record of President.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Gen. Charles G. Dawes, retiring ambassador to Great Britain, declared last night that any intimation by the politicians that President Hoover would not have the loyal and complete support of Dawes is "an insult to me."

The ambassador said that Hoover has made a record of accomplishment without parallel in world economic history, and that economically America is on the upgrade. He remarked that on his return from London he finds the American people have risen above party politics and that the two parties are backing a reconstruction program.

Dawes Issues Statement.

Gen. Dawes' utterances were in the form of a formal statement, prompted by the furor caused in politics by his resignation as ambassador to Britain. The avalanche of political conjecture and speculation concerning the presidency and vice presidency in the impending campaign, which followed Gen. Dawes' note of withdrawal as a diplomat, led the general to amplify his utterance of Saturday when he dismissed the political talk with the phrase "all damn nonsense."

He gave his statement out with an announcement that it would stand without amplification, and in answer to one question on politics he remarked: "I'm entirely out of politics." Gen. Dawes' statement was as follows:

"I note the discussions of politicians seeking, as usual, to read petty political significance out of my return to Chicago. I cherish for President Hoover the highest admiration and deepest affection. Any intimation to the effect that in any possible way or under any possible contingency he will not have my loyal and entire support is an insult to me.

Finds Parties Coöperating.

"My last visit to this country was in July. I came back to find the people risen above partisan politics. They will remain above them. I find both the Republican party and the Democratic party united in a determination to balance the national budget and limit global expenditures. I find both parties and all the people standing behind a legislative program of reconstruction, which is a common sense program. It is based upon an old fashioned idea that our government should always raise the money to pay its expenditures and not borrow it.

"As for President Hoover, whatever may be temporary political reactions—and they are unimportant in such times—he has made a record in presidential initiative and constructive accomplishment unparalleled in the economic history of this nation or of any other. He has done this without faltering and without discouragement.

"Economically this country generally has started on the upgrade; we have passed the bottom. The American people, with indomitable spirit, have resumed their onward march."

Political Gossips Busy.

The Dawes declaration for Hoover and his remark that "temporary political reactions" are of no importance in such times as these, capped a day in which local politicians still found the Dawes resignation as a fruitful topic of conjecture.

Some of the Republicans voiced approval of Ruth Hanna McCormick's action Saturday in declaring herself for Dawes, and there was considerable talk of the possibility of entering the general's name in the Illinois presidential preferential primaries. To do this, however, under the law, written permission must be filed by the person for whom such petition is entered with the secretary of state. Early in the day the politicians doubted whether the ambassador would permit this, and last night it was bowled over by the formal statement of the general himself of his "highest admiration and deepest affection" for President Hoover.

Several Republican ward leaders, however, pointed out that in the primaries a battle is expected in most of the congressional districts between Hoover and anti-Hoover candidates for delegates to the national convention, and that Illinois may be represented at the big meeting by delegates who are footloose. Many of them talked of Dawes for the running mate for Hoover, instead of Vice President Charles Curtis. The main idea they expressed was that the state and local tickets will be carrying a load, and that to strengthen the party throughout Illinois, to run Dawes for Vice President would give the national ticket the pulling power of a "dynamic personality."

ROOSEVELT TO TOSS HAT IN RING THIS WEEK IN NO. DAKOTA

New York, Jan. 11.—[Special.]—Gov. Roosevelt is expected to announce his candidacy for the Democratic Presidential nomination between now and the end of the week.

GOV. ROOSEVELT.

It is understood the governor will not in so many words make an out-and-out declaration, but will say to political leaders of North Dakota that the Democratic state committee there may do as it chooses regarding the indorsement of his candidacy.

If the governor does this, it will be the first time that he has taken official notice of the campaign being conducted throughout the country in his behalf, a campaign which his friends look upon as good as won already.

The reason why North Dakota should so be singled out is because state political leaders are meeting there this Thursday. These leaders, it is reliably reported, have notified or shortly will notify the governor that they intend to commit the Democratic party in that state to him. Gov. Roosevelt will send an answer to the North Dakota politicians.

The Roosevelt people here are frankly delighted by the course of the recent Democratic National committee meeting in Washington. They feel that they controlled the committee meeting, as they predicted they would.

Meanwhile, friends of the governor are holding conferences to determine in which states his name shall be entered. They will seek to avoid hurting the feelings of any favorite sons by going into their states.

Tack 'Imperialism' Sign on U. S. Embassy in Mexico

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 11. — (AP) — Signs reading "Down with Yankee Imperialism" were found painted on the walls of the American embassy, the American consulate general and other buildings in Mexico City today. The sign at the consulate general added the words, "Liberty for the Negroes of Scottsboro," while others bore the slogan, "Long Live Communistic youth." They were quickly removed.

Peter Hoover, President's Grandson, Has Sinus Illness

Pasadena, Cal., Jan. 11.—[Special.]—Four year old Peter Hoover, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Hoover Jr. and grandson of the President, was described as "a rather sick little boy" at Pasadena hospital tonight. The child was taken ill with a sinus infection last week and underwent a minor operation.

Harold T. Ray, 625 Ridge avenue, Evanston, former head of a brokerage house bearing his name, and his divorced wife, Mrs. Evelyn Ruth Ray of Daytona Beach, Fla., who obtained her decree last Oct. 29, obtained a license to remarry here yesterday. Mr. Ray gave his age as 41 years and Mrs. Ray said she was 30.

Suggests Interests Benefited Should Pay the Cost of Federal Paternalistic Bureaus

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 11.—[Special.]—If the paternalistic activities of the central government are to be continued, why not assess their cost upon the interests benefited?

This is a suggestion that has been made in the interest of reducing the burden of federal taxes imposed for the maintenance of federal functions which it was originally conceived pertained to the exclusive jurisdiction of the states. Reimbursement of the government for the cost of paternalistic, subventionary and regulatory services obtained by various interests would reduce the two billion dollar deficit for this year, it is estimated, not less than 600 millions of dollars.

Demand Would Fall Off.

National legislators who have been giving the matter attention are inclined to the opinion, furthermore, that a requirement of reimbursement of the federal government by beneficiaries of Uncle Sam's paternalism would result in a sharp curtailment of such activities. Finding themselves compelled to foot the bill for perquisites now paid for from the public purse, the interests affected would decide they could dispense with many of the services or could procure them more cheaply from private organization than from the expensively operated government bureaucracy.

The question is raised, for example, how many of Aunt Sammy's recipes, dress patterns, hints on window curtaining, directions for beautifying the home grounds and other maternalistic guidance the farmers would insist on having if they were required to dig up the $246,700 the bureau of home economics is costing the taxpayers this year. Or whether the farmers would think they could obtain instructions in crop raising at a lower cost than the 25 millions of the department of agriculture's extension service of which Washington contributes 10 millions. Or how many investigations of insect pests they would think worth while if compelled to shell out the 3 millions the bureau of entomology is costing annually, exclusive of special expenditures such as five millions on the pink boll worm and 7 millions on the Mediterranean fruit fly.

Various Methods of Assessment.

The costs of government services, it is pointed out, might be assessed upon the beneficiaries in various ways. Fees might be collected for all services, as is now done in some instances, such as that of grazing privileges in the national forests. Instead of distributing 200 millions of publications annually, either free or at a nominal price, the government might fix a price on documents which would yield the cost of preparation, printing, and handling.

Take, for example, the bureau of animal industry, which this year is costing a trifle more than 16 millions. Its multitudinous services performed by a staff of 4,600 employés were furnished practically gratis. From sale of services exactly $1,530.98 was collected in the fiscal year 1931.

The inspection and quarantine of imported animals is costing $798,720 this year. There is an item of expense, reimbursement of the government for which might be procured, it is pointed out, by fixing a fee for each animal inspected to be paid by the importer.

Meat Inspection Expensive.

Similarly, meat inspection, that monument to Upton Sinclair's "The Jungle," costs the government $5,661,140 this year. This amount, it is contended, could be transferred from the back of the taxpayers by means of fees paid by the packers for the inspections. Of course, the fees would be added to the price of the meat and eventually paid by the consumers. To obtain such reimbursement of the government in the case of meat inspection, however, it would be necessary to amend the meat inspection act which prohibits the assessment of fees for this purpose.

Government supervision of stockyards and interstate transportation of live stock is costing $402,880 this year, an amount that might easily be collected from the interests benefited in the form of fees. The same is true of the enforcement of the grain futures trading act, for which congress allotted $213,300 this year.

For some services connected with the plant quarantine and control administration charges are made, but they aggregated only $57,855 in 1931, whereas the cost of the service was $5,196,979.

Lumber Interests Benefited.

The forestry service maintains an expense laboratory at Madison, Wis., for experimentation in wood products for the benefit of the lumber, paper-making and other wood industries. These interests influenced congress to establish the laboratory and to enter upon extensive forest products researches, which now cost about $700,000 a year. A new laboratory, to cost $900,000, is now under construction at Madison.

The laboratory was built at public expense without any contribution from the industries benefiting from the researches. For some investigations and experiments a few industries have reimbursed the government for the actual cost, including overhead, but the total contribution from this source is an infinitesimal part of the entire laboratory expense.

The forestry service expends $1,000,000 on timber administration annually and last year received $2,607,617 from private interests for the use of timber. Likewise, about $1,000,000 was expended on administration of grazing lands and $2,000,000 was received in fees for the grazing privilege.

Few Fees Obtained.

The food and drug administration cost $1,614,666 last year, but the receipts were only $17,692, of which $13,963 was from fees for grading naval stores and $105 from sale of services.

For years the department of agriculture has been conducting researches designed to enable apiarists to produce bigger and better bees, capable of producing more and better honey that will be productive of more and bigger profits.

The government thus expends $65,000 of public money annually on the bee industry which is not required to contribute any part of the cost.

The latest bureau created in the agriculture department is that of agricultural engineering, which began functioning July 1 last, and is already costing $564,600 for the current fiscal year. Secretary of Agriculture Hyde explains that this bureau "will strive to serve the needs of the family farm, particularly in such matters as the construction of farm buildings, the proper choice of farm machinery, the improvement of farm water supplies, and farm sanitation, the control of insects and plant diseases by mechanical means, the preservation of farm products by refrigeration, and the prevention of soil erosion."

WOMAN JUROR RULING REFUSED BY HIGH COURT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 11.—[Special.]—The Supreme court today refused to review the case of Genevieve Welosky, Massachusetts woman, who claims her conviction on a liquor charge was invalid because there were no women on the jury which found her guilty. The court held it had no jurisdiction to review such a case.

The petition for a review was based on the contention that the woman's constitutional right to a trial by a "jury of her peers" was violated by the Massachusetts law, under which only men are eligible as jurymen.

The case was one in which the National Women's party, proponents of the equal rights for women amendment to the constitution, had interested itself.

Want to Look Young?
The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.
Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound as a substitute for calomel to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

EMMERSON OUT OF RACE; FIELD IS TAKING FORM

BY PARKE BROWN.

Gov. Louis L. Emmerson's announcement yesterday that he will not seek a second term gave Republican voters of Illinois a new perspective on the field of avowed candidates and other probable entrants now seeking their favor for the nomination for the governorship in the April primary.

Three avowed candidates have been in the field for several months. At least one more aspirant is expected to announce himself before the end of this week, and it is possible that at least two more said to have the desire to run may announce themselves before the first petition filing day—Feb. 6.

Field Is Listed.

Up to this time no outstanding Cook county candidate has appeared. A strong movement to persuade Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson to enter the race has come to a standstill, at least temporarily, and no local movement of similar strength has formed behind any other possibility. The field now confronting the G. O. P. voters consists of:

Omer N. Custer, Galesburg—Expected to announce himself within a few days and considered certain to receive the support of the state administration; now chairman of the state tax commission; has served two terms as state treasurer.

Len Small, Kankakee—Announced his candidacy last September; served two terms as governor and two terms as state treasurer; was defeated in the 1928 primary by Emmerson; supported by the old city hall machine.

Oscar E. Carlstrom, Aledo—Withdrew from the race in 1928 and has been a declared candidate ever since; now finishing his second term as attorney general.

William H. Malone, Park Ridge—An avowed candidate ever since he resigned as chairman of the state tax commission a year ago.

Congressman Frank R. Reid, Aurora—Issued a "feeler" booklet last fall and toured the state looking over the ground; may not run with the old city hall supporting Small.

Prof. Charles M. Thompson, Urbana—Member of the faculty of the University of Illinois; a boom was launched for him at the state fair last August by individuals associated with the Illinois League of Municipalities.

Democrats in Race.

While Gov. Emmerson's stepping aside did not affect the Democratic situation it caused the voters to start looking over the list of possibilities there as a matter of comparison with the Republican chances.

Henry Horner, Chicago—Probate judge of Cook county; has not announced himself, but is believed to be the choice of Mayor Cermak and his associates at this time.

Michael L. Igoe, Chicago—Has issued no formal announcement, but has acquiesced in activities of his friends on his behalf throughout the state; minority leader of the state house of representatives and Democratic national committeeman.

Bruce A. Campbell, East St. Louis—Announced his candidacy last fall, but agreed to submit to the will of state conferences that are to be called soon; may run for the state Supreme court in the event Justice Duncan retires as is expected.

The principal comment among Chicago Republicans in widespread discussion of Gov. Emmerson's announcement was a conclusion that, while stepping out of the arena as a candidate for office, the governor intends to make every effort to hold his political power in the state, to take an active part in making up the state ticket and to attempt to control the Illinois delegation to the Republican national convention in June.

Keeps Interest in Race.

"The fact that I am not a candidate," he said in the statement he read to a delegation of Chicagoans which presented to him commendatory resolutions adopted at a meeting last Saturday, "will not lessen my interest in the welfare and success of the Republican party or in the election of men who can render that highest type of service to the people.

"I have been active in the Republican party ever since I was old enough to vote and I expect to continue this activity and to render whatever service I can to the party and to the people in party councils and in party organization.

"It is my hope that in the campaign which is just ahead, Republicans will lay aside their factional differences and nominate a ticket made up of men highly qualified for the various offices. Never before was there a time when unselfish leadership and patriotic service was more desperately needed."

Show Political Intentions.

The Chicagoans pointed to this part of his reply, which was made to President W. R. James of the west park board, George F. Harding and others who presented the resolutions, as full evidence of the governor's political intentions. And they emphasized another bit of action at the luncheon at which the resolutions were adopted as corroboration of their theory.

The thirty-three ward committeemen present last Saturday signed on the dotted line a round robin prepared by the Emmerson promoters of the affair. This urged Chairman B. W. Snow to call a meeting of the county committee for the purpose of starting slate making on a basis of harmony among the factions.

This round robin was presented to Chairman Snow yesterday and he said he would issue a call today for a meeting of the committee at the Bismarck hotel at 3 o'clock next Monday afternoon. In discussing the purpose urged for the meeting, however, he was critical.

"I am surprised at the proposal," he said, "as the Republican county central committee never has made up a slate or participated in the primaries. It has followed the rule of the national and state committees of leaving the primaries open to all without an attempt by the organization to foreclose anybody. After the primaries it has taken charge of the campaign. But before the primaries it has kept hands off.

"I have called the meeting because of my rule to call one whenever it is requested by any substantial number of members. But I doubt that the committee will consent to disregard precedent and start in slate making.

MAYOR CERMAK AT MIAMI FOR REST IN SON-IN-LAW'S HOME

Miami, Fla., Jan. 11.—[Special.]—Mayor Cermak's first day at the home of his son-in-law, Dr. Frank Jirka, Miami Beach, was spent quietly. He is here for a rest. He talked with Dade county Democrat chiefs in the morning and sunbathed in the afternoon. Tomorrow night Cermak and family will be guests of Frederick Breits' winter home on Miami Beach. Tomorrow morning Cermak will talk in sound films discussing future presidential Democratic problems, prohibition, etc. He announced tonight that his party's nominee for the presidential candidacy must take a stand on the question of prohibition.

Found in Garage

Agents under Deputy Prohibition Administrator A. E. Aman yesterday destroyed 537 barrels of beer that were discovered accidentally Sunday morning in a garage at 5041 South Halsted street. A policeman, strolling his beat, happened to glance through a broken window in the rear of the garage and noticed the familiar containers piled in neat rows, apparently awaiting delivery. He investigated, found no one on the premises, and reported his suspicions to prohibition headquarters. There was no brewery equipment found in the place. The beer was worth $29,535 at prevailing prices.

3 GUARDS HELD AFTER PATIENT IN ASYLUM DIES

Three guards at the Elgin state hospital, George H. Caldwell, John Ribbie, and Fred Taylor, were locked up in the Elgin city jail last night pending further investigation of charges that an insane patient was beaten to death in the ward which they supervised.

The patient, Adolph Pelli, 36 years old, lived at 165 West Goethe street before he was committed to the asylum on Nov. 6. He died in the hospital infirmary on Sunday of peritonitis and injuries resulting from a beating.

Other patients in the ward, which was for violent patients, testified at the inquest yesterday. The witnesses told Dr. Charles F. Read, head of the hospital, and State's Attorney George D. Carbary, and Coroner Herman G. Vierke of Kane county that the guards and a trusty, John McGrain, had beaten Pelli for two days.

A coroner's jury returned a verdict of death at the hands of persons unknown, but recommended that the three guards be held.

FUNERAL UNION MODIFIES RULE ON PRIVATE CARS

No trouble occurred at any of the funerals held in the city yesterday because the livery chauffeurs' union edict that private cars could not form part of the cortége, although the union drivers sought to enforce a modification of the former decree and insisted that a space be maintained between the funeral cars and private cars.

State's Attorney Swanson yesterday supplemented an injunction issued by Judge Robert E. Gentzel on Friday in which the chauffeurs were enjoined against interfering with funerals. Prosecutor Swanson told W. J. Kerrigan, president of the union, and two other union officials they could not dictate who shall or shall not take part in a funeral.

As the funeral of Mrs. Sophie Kupferberg pulled away from the chapel at 4911 Broadway for Waldheim cemetery the attitude of the unionists was observed. Drivers of private cars were told to keep a distance behind the regular funeral cars and to take any route to the cemetery they desired. This was done. The same procedure occurred at the funeral of Mrs. Mary Ohlin, daughter of David Daugherty, a Democratic leader in the 14th ward.

GLENCOE DRIVE TO GET SCHOOL FUND ON TODAY

Village Budget Is Cut by $243,300.

Two hundred volunteer workers will start a house to house canvass of Glencoe's 1,200 homes this morning in a two week's drive to obtain cash needed to reopen the village's three schools and to continue other municipal activities. The workers received a final pep talk and instructions last night at a meeting in the Central school.

To the accompaniment of loud cheers, Elmer F. Wieboldt, in charge of the drive, announced that the budget for the 14 months commencing Jan. 1 had been cut from $640,000 to $396,700, a reduction of $243,300, without impairing necessary municipal activities and without lowering the standard of the schools. The necessary budget finances must be raised within the next two weeks, he said, following which there will be a victory dinner.

Warrants Offered For Sale.

The workers were told that unless the amount is raised practically all municipal activity will be shut down. The tax anticipation warrants, all based on the 1931 tax levy, will be issued in multiples of $5 with $25 the minimum to be sold to any one person. The sales may be on the partial payment plan with a maximium of twelve payments, the warrants not to bear interest until the final payment is made.

The reduction in the budget, figuring the 12 month fiscal year from March 1, and adding January and February, was reached, Mr. Wieboldt said, by a budgetary committee headed by Maurice Karker. Among items of reduction were city lights, which will burn shorter hours, the elimination of a village skating rink and kindred items.

"The city will still have complete and efficient government despite this drastic cut," he said. "Of course we are dispensing with many things. Many of them would be nice to have and many of them will be reinstated, but at the present we are practicing drastic economy."

May Make Salary Cut.

The possibility that salaries of all city employés might be cut was expressed by several at the meeting, but was not commented upon by Mr. Wieboldt. Homer F. Horton, president of the school board, emphasized the fact that all city employés including teachers had been paid in cash to Jan. 1. Schools closed, he said, to prevent the incurring of debt.

Chicago Heights schools will remain open until Feb. 1, Robert Booth, president of the school board, said last night, following which there will be a mass meeting of the teachers to discuss the future. If the teachers will accept scrip schools will remain open, he said. Schools in Western Springs, closed for a week, reopened yesterday with funds provided by a general tax warrant sale among the village residents.

School teachers in district 76 in Evanston, who are due to get half month's pay on Friday, will be paid in deferred salary checks, David Walker, assistant superintendent of schools, said last night. Through the sale of warrants it is hoped that cash will be available for the payment falling due Feb. 1. The December salary was paid in deferred payment checks, which about half of the teachers have been able to cash, he said.

BOOST TAX RATES IN 30 DISTRICTS OF LAKE COUNTY

Increase Laid to Drop in Property Value.

Increases in tax rates ranging from 6 cents to $1.84 per $100 valuation have been made in the 1931 levy in 30 out of 36 tax areas in Lake county cities and villages. The rates, compiled by County Clerk Lew A. Hendee, were made public yesterday in Waukegan.

The increases are blamed on decreased property values and the transfer of poor relief from the county to the townships. The assessed valuation for the entire county, including railroad property and corporation stock is $114,423,440 for 1931 as compared with $117,788,425 for 1930, a decrease of $3,364,985.

The three Lake Forest school districts, district No. 32 in Lake Villa and district No. 4 in Barrington were the only ones in the county to show a decrease. The Lake Zurich rate is unchanged. The following tabulation, which is by school districts and by townships in cases in which a district is in more than one tonwship, shows the combined tax rates for 1931 and 1930:

Town's Entire Supply of Fire Hose Ruined at Fire

The village of Orland Park had to dig down in its treasury yesterday for $800 with which to buy a new 1,000 foot length of fire hose. The entire fire hose equipment of Orland Park was destroyed Sunday at a fire which burned down the residence owned by Jack Kelly. According to John Helenhouse, chief of the village fire department, a bottle of acid broke and ruined the hose.

SEEK PASSAGE THIS WEEK OF KELLY TAX PLAN

Leaders Go to Assembly; Reconvenes Today.

A number of prominent Democratic politicians, judges and sanitary district trustees entrained for Springfield with the assemblymen last night to back the passage of the Kelly plan to revise Cook county's assessment machinery in the legislature this week. The assembly reconvenes today.

PATRICK NASH.

The hope is that the income tax bill, which polled only 68 favorable votes last week, will be shelved by representatives from the larger municipalities who have thus far voted against the bill with the Chicagoans. Downstaters have threatened to kill the Kelly plan unless the income tax act is passed.

While they were emphatic in denunciation of the income tax last week, the Chicago legislators are not expected to object if a movement develops to remove the amendments placed on the bill by Charles J. Jenkins [Rep., Chicago] last Wednesday. These raised the exemptions of the tax to such a point that the downstate bloc termed it "worthless."

Believe Income Tax Doomed.

The feeling is that the bill can't muster the 77 votes necessary for passage in any form, so no harm can be done if it is put back to its original shape.

The Chicago group which will accompany the legislators will include Patrick A. Nash, chairman of the Democratic county central committee; Clayton F. Smith, county recorder and chairman of the Democratic county managing committee; Trustee Ross A. Woodhull of the sanitary district; County Commissioner Peter M. Kelly, and perhaps Judge Henry Horner of the Probate court. These men are expected to lobby for the Kelly plan.

Hold Secret Meeting.

A noon meeting was held yesterday in the Chicago club between D. F. Kelly, after whom the Kelly plan is named; Speaker Shanahan of the house of representatives; Representative Elmer J. Schnackenberg, Melvin A. Traylor, president of the First National bank; Francis X. Busch, the newspaper publishers and others. The nature of the conference was not disclosed.

Comment among some of the Chicago Democrats before they left for Springfield was that Arthur Roe of Vandalia, a former minority leader, may display some leadership this week in behalf of the Kelly plan. The present leader, M. L. Igoe of Chicago, has not made any move to push it.

Nathan Leopold Gets Job as Librarian in Prison

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The 1930 tax rates in 39 more cities and villages of the suburban area were completed yesterday by County Clerk Sweitzer.

These show an average increase of 6.4 per cent over the 1929 rates. This is considerably higher than the average increase in the previous published rates for 44 other suburbs.

This 6.4 per cent increase in the 39 suburbs is comparable with a boost of 9.06 to 9.69 per cent increase in Chicago. However, there are several cities and villages in Cook county, among the 39, where the percentage of increase has been larger than in Chicago.

One Goes Up 18.9 Per Cent.

Tinley Park has boosted its rate 18.9 per cent. Northbrook has hopped up 15 per cent and Orland Park 14.6 per cent. Wilmette has jumped up 11.3 per cent and Midlothian 11.6 per cent. Mount Prospect has advanced its rate 10.6 per cent and Niles by 9.7 per cent. But those are the exceptions.

Most of the suburbs have not asked for as much additional taxes, proportionately, as has Chicago, and a few have actually had their tax rates reduced for 1930, as compared with 1929. Olympia Fields, Robbins, Summit and Tessville are in this group; but each of these has asked an unusually large increase for 1929 over 1928.

As between 1928 and 1929, Chicago boosted its tax rates between 19 and 20 per cent. In that same period Maywood reduced its rate 5.7 per cent, Midlothian cut its rate 2 per cent, Dixmoor went down 3.2 per cent, and Tinley Park chopped off 5.7 per cent.

Raise in Tinley Park.

Tinley Park, however, decided that it had to boost its rate for 1930, and at a greater percentage than Chicago's has been boosted. But as between 1928 and 1930 Tinley Park chopped its tax rate 12 per cent, while Chicago jumped up more than 29 per cent.

The rates for the last three tax years in 39 cities and villages are presented below. These are on a comparable basis, representing the same section in the community and school district for each year. In different sections of most suburbs, as in Chicago, there are different tax rates, and it is therefore impracticable to print more than one sample rate from each suburb. The table follows:

Maywood	89	$5.88	$5.54	$5.72

Wilmette	36	4.73	4.92	5.35
Worth	127	2.86	3.01	3.20

In this list one has been omitted. This is the village of Burnham. Its tax rates are the only ones which closely approach those of Chicago. Its 1928 rate was $6.07, then it was boosted to $6.56 in 1929 and to $6.67 for 1930 in that part of the village which lies in school district No. 154½. Taxes in other parts of the village are some lower.

TEACHERS TURN DOWN PLAN TO PAY IN TAX PAPER

Chicago teachers last night rejected the school board's announced plan of issuing $10,000,000 worth of small denomination tax anticipation warrants to be offered to creditors in lieu of cash. At a meeting in the offices of Attorney Allan J. Carter the teachers and their legal representatives voted approval of the Kelly plan for reorganization of the tax machinery and for the bills legalizing investment by insurance companies in tax anticipation warrants.

"We feel that the issuance of tax anticipation warrants at this time might delay payment in cash, which is what the teachers are entitled to and need badly," said Attorney Thurlow G. Essington. "Certainly it should be deferred until every possible source of cash has been exhausted. We feel that the reconstruction of the assessing machinery is the key to ultimate relief for the teachers as well as for the other branches of government."

Library Board Reduces 1932 Budget by $400,000

The library board last night lopped $400,000 from the 1922 budget by omitting the building purpose levy. The decision to forego the tenth of a mill provided by law for building purposes was taken, according to the trustees, because it offered a maximum saving with a minimum cost in efficiency. Other items on the budget have been deferred in the hope that legislation will afford a working basis, it was said.

JOHN R. RAILTON REPORTED WED TO MISS LUXEM

Rumors current on the north side last night linked the names of John R. Railton and Miss Margaret Luxem in a wedding romance. Mr. Railton is vice president of the B. A. Railton company, wholesale grocers, and son of the owner. His reported bride lives at 441 Melrose street and is the daughter of an advertising executive.

According to the reports, Mr. Railton and Miss Luxem journeyed to Waukegan last Saturday and were married by Justice of the Peace Walter D. Wright. The justice admitted last night that he had married a couple who gave those names.

Mr. Railton denied, however, that he and Miss Luxem were married.

ORDERS TAXING OF 15 BILLION IN PERSONALTY

Would Cut Rate in Half, Officials Say.

Superior Judge Charles A. Williams yesterday issued a writ of mandamus compelling the board of review to place more than fifteen billion dollars' worth of additional personal property on the 1930 assessment rolls. The board of review, represented by Attorney Roy Massena, will take the case to the Supreme court.

JUDGE WILLIAMS.

At the present there is $750,000,000 worth of personal property on the rolls and approximately four billion dollars' worth of realty at the assessed valuation. If the higher court upholds the mandamus, $5,550,000,000 would be added in assessed valuation. Tax officials said such additional valuation would cut the tax rate in half.

Lists Untaxed Personalty.

The writ was obtained by the law firm of Watkins, Ten Hoor & Gilbert in behalf of George F. Koester, a member of the Real Estate Taxpayers' Association of Illinois. The application listed among the now untaxed personalty $4,500,000,000 in trust estates, $4,745,000,000 in bank deposits, $2,500,000,000 in collateral in banks, $2,000,000,000 in Probate court estates, $18,000,000 in Board of Trade and stock exchange seats, and $220,000,000 in automobiles, water craft, and railroad equipment.

The petition charged that large amounts of personal property were intentionally and fraudulently omitted or underassessed by the board of review. Judge Williams, in his order, cited examples of corporations whose personality had been undervalued.

Books Sent to Clerk.

The books for the 1930 roll have already been sent to County Clerk Sweitzer for extending the taxes. If Judge Williams' writ is upheld the clerk will be unable to extend taxes at the present rate, which averages $6.25 per $100 of assessed valuation. Collection of the 1930 taxes might be delayed for more than a year, officials said.

Attorneys pointed out that the reviewers are empowered to place personal property on the assessment rolls whenever discovered, which would permit the collection of back taxes on the personalty. Others saw in the court order another complication in the already snarled tax situation.

Charles E. Fox, director of appraisals, announced the measurement of property for the 1931 quadrennial assessment would be completed by Jan. 16. Field workers were in Harvey yesterday.

City Officials Lose Interest In "Offer" to Buy Tax Paper

Negotiations for the purchase of $20,000,000 in municipal tax warrants, proposed by the Associated Bond and Share corporation, 111 West Washington street, took on an Alice in Wonderland tinge yesterday. At the end of the day city officials said privately that they would not concern themselves greatly with the proposition until the company backs its promises with the showing of some cash.

During the day a Mr. Clements, who said he represented the bond and share company, called on Victor S. Petterson, deputy city controller. Originally the company proposed to buy $20,000,000 worth of 1930 city tax warrants, paying for them with $10,000,000 in cash and $10,000,000 worth of 1931 school board tax warrants.

Proposes Change in Deal.

Clements asked if it would be acceptable to the city if sanitary district warrants were substituted for school board warrants. Mr. Petterson replied that that was up to the city council. The council was summoned to a special meeting yesterday to act on the warrant sale proposition, but adjourned for lack of a quorum.

Mr. Petterson further suggested that the concern put its tax warrants in escrow as an evidence of its ability to execute a contract with the city. Mr. Clements agreed to do this, saying the warrants would be placed in escrow with the Chicago Title and Trust company, according to Mr. Petterson.

A reporter called the office of the company later, seeking more information. Mr. Clements' wire was busy, the switchboard operator there said.

Here Is the Scheme.

"We have no one named Clements in our organization," said S. C. Dunn, the manager, a moment later. "I haven't heard anything about our placing any tax warrants in escrow."

The plan by which the bond company indicates it will purchase the warrants was revealed last night. No money of the concern is necessarily used, according to the system. As outlined, the proposition is, hypothetically, as follows:

A corporation owes $100,000 taxes. It agrees to purchase a corporate tax warrant, but on the basis of paying only $95,000 for a $100,000 warrant. Under the law, $100,000 must be paid for a corporate warrant. The bond concern solves this problem by placing the $95,000 cash offered in escrow.

Next the security house finds, for instance, someone, a creditor, naturally, who holds warrants against the board of education. This creditor needs ready cash. He is persuaded to sell a $50,000 board of education warrant which he holds for $35,000. His warrant is put in escrow.

Buys with Cash in Escrow.

The company presents this $50,000 warrant [purchased for $35,000 cash] in exchange for a $50,000 corporate warrant. From the cash fund of $95,000 in escrow, it withdraws $50,000 cash and buys another $50,000 corporate warrant. It holds then $100,000 in corporate warrants.

There still remains in the cash fund in escrow $45,000 of the original $95,000. The company, or agent, withdraws $35,000 and pays the creditor who sold his $50,000 board of education warrant for $35,000. This makes a cash expenditure of $35,000 from the original $95,000 fund, leaving a balance of $10,000. That sum, $10,000, represents the company's profit. The concern has not risked a cent of its own money, dealing entirely with the original $95,000 of the taxpayer. The taxpayer saves $5,000 on his taxes. The holder of the board of education warrant is the loser, sacrificing $15,000 to sell his $50,000 warrant for cash.

Ald. Coughlin Presides.

Ald. John Coughlin, veteran representative of the First ward, took the chair at the short council meeting yesterday, which originally had been called to authorize the tax warrant transaction. The action was deferred, however, because of the absence from the city of Mayor Cermak, Ald. John S. Clark, chairman of the finance committee, and others, and the meeting was adjourned because no quorum was present.

In an effort to speed collection of vehicle license fees and obtain money for city pay rolls, Fred Fishman, superintendent of the license bureau, yesterday set Friday as the deadline for wheel tax payments. Ordinarily, automobile owners are allowed until March 15 to buy their vehicle tax tags, but the police will arrest all drivers found without tags next week, Mr. Fishman said.

The city may meet a few small pay rolls for the last half of December within a few days, Controller Szymczak said yesterday. Police and firemen have also been unpaid since Dec. 15, but more funds must be accumulated before their pay rolls can be met, he said.

Jury Gives Woman $5,000 Verdict for Auto Injuries

A jury before Superior Judge Peter M. Schwaba yesterday awarded Mrs. Lena Di Pinto, 4349 Palmer street, damages of $5,000 in a suit against Walter Kinderski, 6506 Cornelia avenue, a merchant. She received a broken leg Sept. 25, 1929 when she was struck by an automobile driven by Kinderski at Fullerton and Kostner avenue.

CHARGED WITH ROBBERY.

Walter Mack, 25 years old, of 3055 Farrell street, who, police said, was caught while holding up a department store driver Saturday night, was charged with robbery by Stanton avenue police yesterday, and ordered to appear in Felony court today.

COUNTY CHARGED WITH ILLEGAL USE OF GAS TAX

Board Votes to Back Poor Relief Bill.

The county soon will be unable to meet the bills of road contractors who now have construction projects under way. This was disclosed yesterday at a meeting of the commissioners' highway committee when J. L. Jacobs, efficiency expert, charged that $2,500,000 in 1931 motor fuel revenues which should have been saved to pay these obligations was used illegally during the last year.

The charges came when Edward L. Ryerson and Edward H. Blair, both of the Joint Emergency Relief fund, appeared and obtained the commissioners' endorsement of senate bill No. 137, which is on second reading in the assembly. Under the bill the county's share of 1931 motor fuel revenues, which presumably had been put aside without mention in the 1931 budget in order that they might be intact for use in 1932, would be used for poor relief. All the county's share of the 1932 motor fuel revenues would be used for the same purpose.

Funds Total $7,000,000.

These funds approximate $7,000,000, of which the 1931 accumulations now amount to $3,028,073.

Highway Superintendent George A. Quinlan protested against the use of the fuel tax for poor relief, saying that nearly $1,000,000 of the 1931 funds had been let in new road contracts. Assistant Controller Michael J. O'Connor added a warning word, asserting that $1,500,000 had been borrowed from the fund to pay salaries and corporate expenses.

Jacobs then arose. "If what you say is true," he charged, "then this board has violated the budgetary laws by spending appropriations which have never been set up in the 1931 budget. Neither the money used for the contracts nor that borrowed from this fund had any place in last year's budget. The 1931 motor fuel funds were put aside so that the highway department might be on a cash basis in 1932.

No Money for Roads.

"When the bills for other contracts already under construction come due there will be no cash to pay them. This will mean that the county will probably be deluged with lawsuits by the contracting firms."

Disregarding the charges, the commissioners then voted unanimously to concur with the poor relief measure. They also authorized formally the payments upon bonds and interest which were made at various times by Treasurer McDonough.

JAN. 18-24 IS SET ASIDE AS RADIO WEEK BY MAYOR

A proclamation by Mayor Cermak setting aside the week of Jan. 18 to 24 as Radio week was issued yesterday. The proclamation read:

"During the week of Jan. 18 to 24 the City of Chicago will be privileged to have the National Radio Electrical show, and those interested in the radio industry will gather in Chicago on that occasion for the common object of advancing the science of wireless communication.

3 times more for your money and greater protection against colds

PEPSODENT ANTISEPTIC goes 3 times as far, because it's 3 times as powerful as any other leading mouth wash. That's economy for you! Why waste money on ordinary antiseptics that must be used full strength?

EVERYONE wants to save money. Everyone wants to protect health. That's why millions more switch to Pepsodent Antiseptic every day. You see ordinary mouth washes must be used full strength. But Pepsodent Antiseptic really kills germs—even when diluted with 2 parts of water. That is why it is a safe and swift weapon against sore throat colds—and Bad Breath (Halitosis). It is the most economical mouth antiseptic you can use. Pepsodent Antiseptic is at least three times as powerful as other leading mouth antiseptics. Hence it goes three times as far—gives you three times as much for your money—gives you greater protection against sore throat colds, Bad Breath. You can fool yourself with weak antiseptics but you can't fool the germs. Remember there are just two kinds of mouth antiseptics—those that must be used full strength—and Pepsodent Antiseptic that is highly germicidal when diluted. When choosing your antiseptic be sure you choose the one that kills germs even when you add water. Insist on Pepsodent Antiseptic—and be safe! Be safe—and save money!

BAD BREATH (Halitosis)

Piles Go Quick

Without Salves or Cutting

Thousands of sufferers from piles have learned that quick and permanent relief can only be accomplished with an internal medicine. Neither salves nor cutting remove the cause.

Bad circulation of the blood in the lower bowel causes piles. The veins are flabby, the bowel walls weak—the parts almost dead. To end Piles an internal medicine must be used to stimulate the circulation, heal and restore the affected parts.

Dr. J. S. Leonhardt was the first to discover a real internal Pile remedy. He called his prescription HEM-ROID, and prescribed it for 1,000 patients with the marvelous record of success in 960 cases and then decided every Pile sufferer should be able to get HEM-ROID tablets with a rigid money-back guarantee.

Dr. Leonhardt's HEM-ROID has an almost unbelievable record of success right in this city. So why waste time on external treatments or worry about an operation when Walgreen's invite every Pile sufferer to try HEM-ROID with guarantee of money back if it does not end their Piles, no matter how stubborn the case?

Lost 20 Lbs. of Fat In Just 4 Weeks

Mrs. Mae West of St. Louis, Mo., writes: "I'm only 28 yrs. old and weighed 170 lbs. until taking one box of your Kruschen Salts just 4 weeks ago. I now weigh 150 lbs. I also have more energy and furthermore I've never had a hungry moment."

Fat folks should take one half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water in the morning before breakfast, cut down on pastry and fatty meats—go light on potatoes—it's the SAFE, harmless way to reduce as tens of thousands of men and women know.

For your health's sake ask for and get Kruschen at any drugstore—the cost for a bottle that lasts 4 weeks is but a trifle and if after the first bottle you are not joyfully satisfied with results—money back.

RAILWAYS' FATE SEEN AT STAKE IN WAGE PARLEY

Union Heads Begin to Debate Problem.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.

Railway union leaders gathered in Chicago yesterday to ring up the curtain on another act in which they and a committee of railway presidents acting for the principal railroads of the nation will join in an effort to bring settlement of their respective problems.

A proposed general wage cut of 10 per cent is to be sought by the railroads. Stabilization of employment, a lessening of unemployment, and relief for the jobless is the program advanced by labor.

See Future at Stake.

The railway executives maintain that in the settlement of the wage question the future of the American railroad system is at stake, and that by the same token the economic future of the country is weighed in the balance.

The labor leaders contend that the livelihood and the happiness of nearly 2 million railway employés depends upon the granting of the relief they are seeking, and the labor spokesmen yesterday said that some of the issues coming before these conferences involve problems which strike at the welfare of all the laboring classes in the nation.

Yesterday, today and tomorrow will be given over to preliminary conferences of the representatives of the 21 railway union brotherhoods. On Thursday the union men will join with a committee of nine railway presidents, who have been delegated to negotiate with the union men in the interests of railroads owning an estimated 98 per cent of all the railway mileage in the United States. A few small railroads are not participating in the conferences.

Hope for Agreement.

Both groups have expressed the hope that an agreement will be reached. Economists view the conferences as being of high significance in the relationship generally between American capital and American labor.

David B. Robertson, chairman of the Railway Labor Executives association, which is comprised of the presidents of the 21 railway brotherhoods, was host yesterday at a luncheon to which newspaper men were invited. Mr. Robertson and other union representatives explained the purposes of the conferences and the views which union labor will present.

This open door policy of the union men was hailed as a departure from the customary attitude of the unions toward the press, and Mr. Robertson said that he and his colleagues now recognized the fairness of the newspapers and welcomed the advantage of presenting their views to the public generally.

Officials Describe Conference.

Mr. Robertson, with A. F. Whitney, president of the brotherhood of railway trainmen, and other labor spokesmen described the impending conferences. Today the 1,500 general chairmen in the 21 brotherhoods will meet in individual sessions of their organizations, to canvass the extent and nature of the authority given by the members of the local lodges to their executives to deal for them on the issues raised. The various brotherhoods also will elect from their ranks small subcommittees to serve with the executives in the actual negotiations with the railroad presidents.

By agreement, each brotherhood will appoint not more than nine men on the subcommittees, three from each of the east, west, and south divisions. It is expected that some of the brotherhoods will be content to name three to six members on the subcommittee, and the entire committee to meet with the road presidents, including the union executives, probably will number no more than 170 men.

Voice for Rank and File.

The strategy of the union executives in having subcommittees appointed is to give direct voice to the rank and file of the organizations in the negotiations and to afford strength in putting over any program which is finally adopted.

The conference with the railway presidents on Thursday will open, it was explained, with a statement to be given by the presidents on what authority they hold to negotiate, and for what railroads, and when all this preliminary work is out of the way the groups will get down to cases.

The general chairmen of those union organizations which in the first place have given authority to their executives to negotiate for them, and in the second place those which are recognized by the railroad managements, will remain in Chicago during the conferences so that they may be given current knowledge of what transpires, and may express opinions on the proposals presented.

Mr. Robertson took the position that the principal part of the program before the conference is that concerning the union plan for remedying working and unemployment conditions. He conceded that the railroad presidents are pressing for a settlement of the wage question, but he said frankly that before a wage cut would be accepted voluntarily, the railroads must adopt the union program, and must give assurance that the reduction will be directed at relieving the stressing problems of the workers.

Of 1,900,000 railway workers in the United States, Mr. Robertson declared, 700,000 are out of jobs, while 500,000 to 600,000 are working on a part time-part pay basis. Many thousands of workers are not earning a bread and water wage, the union leader asserted, and he declared that 400,000 railroad men are now earning less than $20 weekly, while an additional 600,000 of the employés are earning less than $30 a week.

RAIL EXPRESS AGENCY CUTS ALL SALARIES; ASKS UNION SLASH

New York, Jan. 11.—[Special.]—The cutting by 10 per cent of all salaries of from $250 a month upward and the serving of notice for a 15 per cent wage reduction on about 50,000 unionized workers was announced today in behalf of the Railway Express Agency, Inc., by R. E. M. Cowie, president. The salary reduction involved about 4,000 persons and is effective as of Jan. 1. The notice to the unions was a formal step taken uniformly by all railroads in conformity with a recent resolution.

Four Are Hurt

Three policemen and a girl were injured and fifty persons, ten of whom were women and girls, were arrested yesterday when a crowd, composed mostly of Negroes, started an unemployment demonstration in the south side headquarters of the Joint Emergency Relief fund, Abraham Lincoln center, 700 Oakwood boulevard.

The injured girl is Edith Miller, 17 years old, 1736 West Roosevelt road, who was hit on the head by a stone hurled at the police. Her injury is not serious. The injured policemen are William Kane, who was beaten by the crowd; John Breen, whose head was cut with a brick, and Carmen Zarlinga, stabbed in the face and the left arm.

Capt. John Stege and Lieuts. George Barker and Albert Booth, with 35 policemen, the available force at the Wabash avenue station, responded to the riot call and dispersed the crowd after weathering a bombardment of bricks, bottles and stones.

One of the men arrested is Arthur Madden, 32 years old, 2144 Sedgwick street, chairman of a communist organization, who leaped upon a chair and gave the signal for the disturbance. He told the police his object was to demand $15 a week for all unemployed. Two others held as ringleaders are Harry Becker, 27 years old, 3200 Auburn avenue, and Martha Watkins, 32 years old, 4000 Federal street.

PIE THROWING BRINGS DIVORCE.

DEATH PENALTY JURY SOUGHT IN LAVANDER TRIAL

Royals Faces Court for Slaying Woman.

Prospective jurors were being qualified for the death penalty yesterday in the trial of Vernon Royals, 17 years old, for the murder of Mrs. Agnes Lavander, Forest Glen housewife, in Judge Walter T. Stanton's branch of the Criminal court.

A panel of four jurors was accepted and sworn late in the afternoon. They are John McLachlin, Northbrook; Leonard Young, 14811 Marshfield avenue, Harvey; Ralph Dumont, 11402 Stephenson avenue, and William J. Haffel, 2100 North Kilbourn avenue.

The court adjourned with three jurors on the second panel tentatively selected. The defense has used 11 of its 20 peremptory challenges and the state nine.

Slain Near R. R. Station.

Mrs. Lavander was found shot to death in a lonely neighborhood near the Forest Glen railroad station on Feb. 17, 1930, her purse containing $1.60 missing. Last October the Royals youth was arrested on a charge of raping Mrs. Jane Meyers, 53 years old, 5245 Ardmore avenue, in the vicinity in which Mrs. Lavander was killed. He has been in the county jail, charged with both crimes, since police obtained an alleged confession from him that he was guilty in both cases.

Assistant State's Attorney Harry Ditchburne had announced that Royals would be tried first on the rape charge, but after a conference with W. W. O'Brien, defense attorney, he told the court the murder charge would be heard first.

As his attorney indicated in his questioning of veniremen that the defense would be an alibi and that the alleged confession obtained by police would be attacked, Royals paid little apparent heed to the proceedings. He stared absently in front of him, not in the direction of the jurors, for the most part, his long fingers nervously picking at his face. He is 6 feet tall, thin and sallow of face. He was dressed in a freshly pressed dark suit.

Youth's Parents in Court.

In the front row of spectators sat his father, Robert Royals, formerly a department superintendent for a radio company, and his mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Royals, of 5319 Foster avenue. With them were their other sons, Robert, 22, and Jack, 19.

"Vernon was at school in Lane Technical High school when the Lavander woman was murdered," his mother said yesterday. "We didn't move out in that neighborhood until last May. I know he is innocent. The whole thing is ridiculous and tragic."

3 SUPREME COURT JUSTICES SUFFER MINOR AILMENTS

Washington, D. C., Jan. 11.—[Special.]—Three justices of the Supreme court of the United States were suffering from physical ailments today, one of them being unable to attend the regular sessions of the court.

Justice Louis D. Brandeis was confined to his home because of a cold. Justice Willis Van Devanter had a slight touch of rheumatism and ascended the bench with his arm in a sling.

Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes, who will be 92 years old next March, had considerable difficulty in reaching his seat on the bench due to an attack of lumbago. He handed down one of the two decisions rendered today.

AUTO FATALITIES FOR NEW YEAR BOOSTED TO 40

Four automobile deaths yesterday brought the Cook county toll since Jan. 1 to 40. The victims:

Jerry Lynch, 55 years old, 2669 North Halsted street. Killed in front of 2622 North Halsted street by an automobile driven by Morris C. Blas, 6426 Glenwood avenue.

Walter Stanislacki, 35 years old, 1701 West 14th place. Killed at 22d street and Washtenaw avenue by a car which was stolen in a robbery Jan. 8. The driver escaped on foot.

Blue Island police announced that they had two new witnesses who assert that the automobile of Policeman Frank Koffman of Harvey struck and fatally injured 9 year old Virginia Wiedenhoft, 13517 South Chatham street, Sunday morning. The inquest into the child's death yesterday was continued until Jan. 21.

GIRL TO TESTIFY IN HER TRIAL AS LOVER'S SLAYER

Flint, Mich., Jan. 11.—[Special.]—Introduced by the state as a surprise witness, William Downs, a Saginaw, Mich., automobile salesman, this afternoon testified at the trial of Miss Helen Joy Morgan, Flint heiress, that he had heard Miss Morgan threaten to shoot Leslie Casteel, for whose slaying she is on trial. The threat occurred, Downs said, at a garage where Casteel was working.

He said he heard Miss Morgan ask Casteel to accompany her in an automobile and when Casteel told her that he could not leave until later Miss Morgan said, "If you don't go I'll shoot you." He said Casteel replied: "You won't shoot any one."

On another occasion, Downs testified, Miss Morgan drove up to the garage in her automobile and pointed a revolver at Casteel. The weapon was concealed under her coat, Downs said. He didn't hear any conversation then, he said, because he walked away.

Ray Martin, detective who arrested Miss Morgan for the slaying of Casteel, said she confessed to him at her home that she had shot Casteel, but said it was in self-defense.

THREATEN BOMB FOR CURTO HOME IN BANK INQUIRY

Two Harvey Institutions Close Their Doors.

A threat to bomb the home of Victor J. Curto, 2100 Pratt boulevard, was under investigation by the detective bureau yesterday. The fourteen room house, valued at $100,000 by Curto and situated on a half block of land, figured recently in Circuit Judge Michael Feinberg's inquiry into hidden assets of the Sheridan Trust and Savings bank, which closed last June.

VICTOR J. CURTO.

A typewritten letter was received by Mrs. Arbutus Curto, wife of Curto, last week. It read:

"My children are starving and I want the $865 I lost in the Sheridan bank. It was all I had. If you don't send it to me, I will bomb your house."

Police Wait in Vain.

Enclosed in the envelope was a stamped envelope addressed to Sam Lappine, 3025 West Fifth avenue. Curto informed Sergt. William Balswick of the letter. A detective bureau squad under Sergt. Balswick placed a package under a porch at that address and waited in vain all Saturday night for someone to come for the package. There was no one named Lappine living at the address.

Curto, a former director of the Sheridan bank, owes the bank $150,000. He has testified that he can pay nothing on the debt. He admitted that he was paying Mrs. Flora A. Rotert, 1033 Loyola avenue, $200 a month and had made her the beneficiary of a $50,000 life insurance policy.

Mrs. Rotert was called yesterday to explain these payments. She said Curto owes her $74,000 and that she accepted a one-third interest in a vacant lot at Sheridan road and Lawrence avenue as security.

Court Collects Cash.

About $5,000 in cash was collected by the court from debtors yesterday and approximately $10,000 more was promised by those questioned.

Two banks in Harvey closed yesterday. The Bank of Harvey was closed by the state auditor at the request of the board of directors. Deposits on June 30, 1930, were $1,700,000. These deposits had dwindled to $780,000 recently. The second bank to close was the First National bank of Harvey. The amount of deposits and liabilities will be announced later by federal bank examiners.

SLAY MANAGER OF NONUNION CLEANING PLANT

Shot to Death by Three Assassins in Street.

police protection, but he said he had all he needed, he believed.

Other Attacks on Plant.

Since the arrest of Mangano and Clementi there have been several attacks on the International Cleaners and Dyers. On Dec. 17 five men entered the plant and after lining up several employes poured acid on clothing, destroying $2,000 worth.

It was the opinion of his friends that Rosenberg had been especially singled out for revenge because of the nature of the booklet he wrote last spring. In it he declared that a new racket was being directed at the trade and that four men, whom he named, were dividing $500,000 a year.

"Stop paying tribute and donating funds to war chests," the pamphlet pleaded, "to maintain a selling price to fit your inefficiency. Pass the saving to the public where it rightfully belongs. Give the public a break before it breaks you and it won't be long before you awake to the fact that it is not the business that is demoralized, but you. Then you will see the day when the cleaning business will soar to high levels.

"Don't be weaklings. Tell the world you are doing business under the golden rule and not under the rule of a clique of brigands whose allegiance is as changeable as is the skin of a chameleon and whose motives are as free from public interest as a turtle is of feathers."

The International company was in the bad graces of organized labor as well as the organized cleaners. It employed non-union workers and it was known to the adherents of the standard price institute as a price cutter. It was also said to have made an a cement not to clean overalls in its plant and to have violated the agreement. Mrs. Rosenberg said that this last was true.

Criticized by Dr. Squires.

Last August, after the earlier attempts against the company, a statement was issued by Dr. B. M. Squires, known as the dictator of the Cleaners and Dyers institute and the man who set the $1.25 price for cleaning suits. In this message Dr. Squires, who is an economist and a former university teacher, declared his organization was not responsible for any bombings or acid throwings. He criticized the International company.

"This firm," Squires declared, "signed the stabilization contract designed to protect working conditions, prices and public interest, but shortly afterward served notice it would not be bound by the contract. Because this firm has since been notoriously a price cutter, the institute has not seen fit to attempt to enforce the contract or retain this firm as a member."

Bombings and acid throwings have been frequent of late all over the city. On Jan. 6 Assistant State's Attorney Dufficy said he believed the disorders would continue unless a general reduction in cleaning prices were made.

"The $1.25 figure set by the institute is too high," he asserted.

NEW JUDGE FOR AUDITOR NELSON TRIAL REFUSED

Shurtleff Ponders Plea for Separation.

Circuit Judge Edward Shurtleff yesterday declined, at Woodstock, a suggestion of State's Attorney A. V. Smith of Lake county that another judge be appointed to hear the conspiracy trial in which State Auditor Oscar Nelson, Norman O. Geyer, and George Woodruff are defendants.

JUDGE SHURTLEFF.

The trial, which is scheduled to begin next Monday, is based on allegations that the three men to be tried committed over acts in connection with the closing of the Waukegan State bank last June. Geyer was president of the Waukegan bank and Woodruff had been vice chairman of the National Bank of the Republic in Chicago.

Ask Separate Trials.

Both the state auditor and Woodruff, through their attorneys, requested separate trials. The judge took these motions under advisement and announced he would rule on them tomorrow.

State's Attorney Smith, in bringing to the court's attention the suggestion of a different judge—the state is not allowed to make the demand in a formal motion—said that in view of Judge Shurtleff's remarks at the time he directed a not guilty verdict for Auditor Nelson last week, when he was tried for misfeasance, it was apparent he could not preside fairly.

In reply the judge asserted this was not true, adding that he had never discussed the pending case with any one but Mr. Smith, and that he saw no occasion at present to refer the trial to another jurist.

A Hardship for Auditor.

Attorney David Joslyn, in arguing for a separate trial for Auditor Nelson, said that the evidence against Woodruff and Geyer was different from that against his client, and that the auditor's defense would be prejudicial to that of the others. Mr. Nelson, the attorney declared, had no financial interest in the Waukegan bank and no knowledge of the truth or falsity of the reports the institution issued.

He also urged that it was a hardship to Mr. Nelson to be forced to sit through weeks of testimony, while he neglected the duties of his office.

Arguing against the motion, Mr. Smith said it would be impossible for Lake county, financially, to take on the burden of two trials.

ROAD BUILDERS CONVENE; TELL OF RECENT DELAYS

Thirty Nations Send Delegates.

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 11.—[Special.]—Probably 35,000 delegates from more than thirty countries, are assembling in Detroit for the twenty-ninth annual exposition and convention of the American Road Builders' association. The exhibition itself is staged at the Municipal airport, and covers many acres of ground.

William Rice Smith of Meridan, Conn., opened the convention and called attention to the difficulties of contractors, their large investments in equipment and the low cost of road building due to competition.

One of the principal objects of the convention, he said, is to educate the public to the fact that good roads have a direct bearing on prosperity, and that any curtailment of the highway would be false economy. It is pointed out by executives of the association that road work in 1931 necessitated the expenditure of approximately two billion dollars, and an equal, or even greater amount will be accomplished during the current year.

F. E. Everett, president of the American Association of State Highway Officials, asserted today that the United States needed additional highway mileage, as shown by the fact that 3,200,000 miles of highways are still in the mud road classification. Only 128,000 miles of roads have been hard surfaced.

Because of outstanding contributions to highway progress, Thomas H. MacDonald, chief of the United States bureau of public roads for twelve years, was presented with the newly established George S. Bartlett award, of a bronze wall plaque which carries the inscription "For outstanding contribution to highway progress."

This feature occurred tonight. The award was presented by S. F. Beatty, president of the Austin-Western Road Machinery company of Chicago, who directed attention to the amazing highway development since Mr. MacDonald assumed charge of federal road activities.

PRATT ATTACKS OUR HAPHAZARD NAVAL BUILDING

Pleads for Fleet of Treaty Strength.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 11.—[Special.]—A plea for congressional adoption of a naval building policy calling for annual orderly building programs designed to expand the American fleet up to the tonnage limits of the London naval treaty and keep it at that level was voiced before the house naval committee today by Admiral William V. Pratt, chief of naval operations.

Total cash withdrawals from the treasury would be less in the long run and the country would have a better and more modern fleet, the gray haired naval student said, if the nation followed an orderly, long time warship building program than if it continued its traditional practice of building vessels in a hit or miss fashion. He added that adoption of a program under which a certain fixed number of replacement warships were laid down each year would make it possible for the United States to have a London treaty navy without increasing its national defense budget.

Shows How U. S. Lays.

Admiral Pratt called attention to the present deteriorated condition of the United States fleet, as well as its inferiority in modern ships to Great Britain and Japan, as proof of his contention that this country needs an orderly building program. He produced figures showing that both Great Britain and Japan were far ahead of this country in all types of modern auxiliary tonnage.

A chart showing how far the United States had dropped behind Great Britain and Japan in modern fighting ships was read by Admiral Pratt. It included only ships actually in commission and read as follows:

	U.S.	G.B.	Jap.
8 inch gun cruisers	8	17	8
6 inch gun cruisers less than 10 years old	10	6	10
Destroyers build during the last five years	0	22	24
Submarines built in last five years	3	13	18
16 inch gun battleships	3	2	2
15 inch gun battleships	9	13	0
14 inch gun battleships	11	0	8
13½ gun battleships	0	3	0
12 gun battleships	1	0	0

Our Wasteful Tradition.

Admiral Pratt said that since the beginning of the republic the country never has had an orderly building policy. Ships have been built in humps, he said, with the navy constantly up in the air regarding what vessels it would lay down in the future.

This lack of policy, he said, was wasteful.

WILLS $25,000 TO FRIEND; $20 GOES TO KIN

The late Dr. Will R. Neff, a dentist who formerly had offices at 30 North Michigan avenue, left only $20 to be shared equally by his brother, George, and a half sister, Jennie, both of Bloomington, Ill., and bequeathed the remainder of his $25,000 estate to Mrs. Elsie Mae Faubel, 424 Melrose street, wife of Martin J. Faubel, assistant superintendent of mails here. This was disclosed when his will was admitted to probate yesterday by Oscar S. Caplan, assistant to the probate judge.

Dr. Neff had lived at the Faubel home for five years prior to his death on Oct. 30, 1931, when he was 77 years old. Attorneys representing his heirs contested the will on the charge that Mr. and Mrs. Faubel had used duress to influence the aged doctor. An appeal to the Circuit court was allowed when their objections were overruled.

Gas, Pain, 3 Yrs. Stops It Quick!

"I had a mean case of acid indigestion for the past three years," writes Miss Adeline Beljean, Brooklyn, N. Y. "Tried everything with little if any results. Then heard about ACIDINE and got some. It is wonderful. I can eat everything without gas or pain. Sleep fine."

"For ten years I had been distressed with heartburn," says Mrs. E. M. Patterson of Hartford. "I decided to try ACIDINE about two months ago. I started taking 4 doses a day and found great relief, gradually reduced to 3 and now am taking only 2 doses. I can't begin to tell you what a relief it is to be free from that distressing heartburn."

End gas, sourness, heartburn, dizziness, sleeplessness, headache resulting from acidity. Maker guarantees ACIDINE ends your stomach trouble or money back. All druggists have ACIDINE.

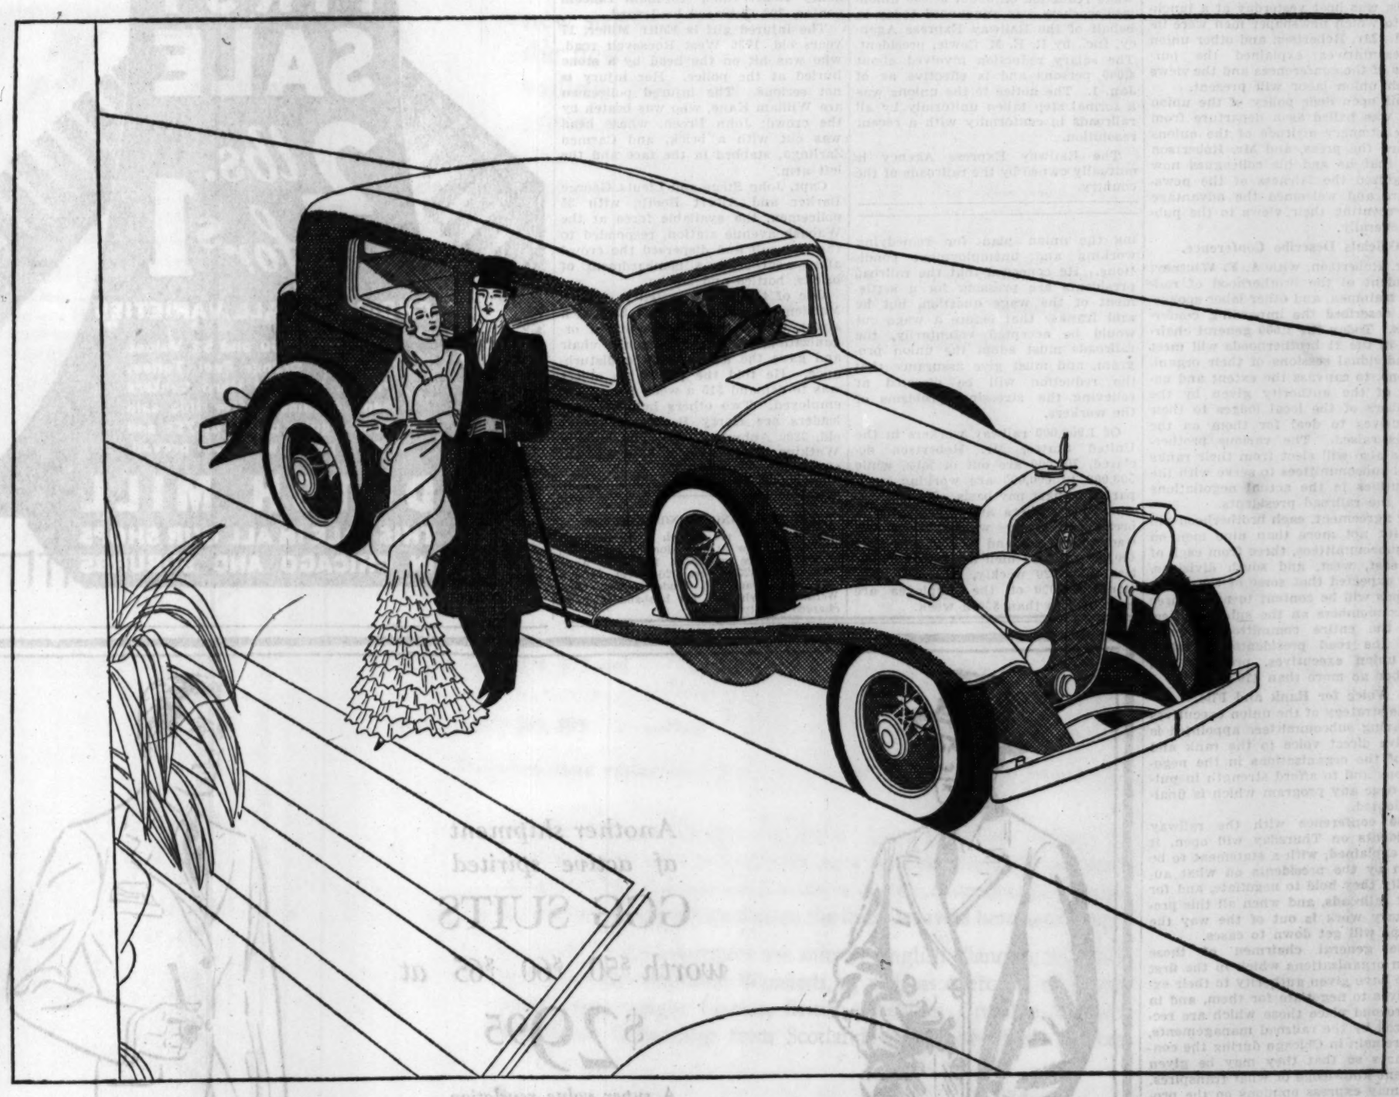
CADILLAC INVITES YOUR INSPECTION OF ITS FOUR DISTINGUISHED NEW CARS



We join with the Cadillac Motor Car Company in extending a cordial invitation to inspect and drive its four distinguished new cars. It is our firm belief that these new Cadillacs and La Salles represent a distinct step forward in the development of land transportation — and, for that reason, we should like to have everyone familiar with what they are and what they do.

Repeated tests have made it plain that their performance has not been duplicated; and the superb comfort and safety they offer are equally without precedent. In fact, the world has had no reason to anticipate cars like these —as a demonstration will most certainly reveal to you.

Come in today for a trial drive. Or, if you prefer, a car and driver will be sent to your home or your office.

REVEAL EXCESS PRICES PAID BY CROWE REGIME

Await Graft Trial Expose by Connolly.

Testimony to show the unreasonable prices paid by the sanitary district for standard merchandise during the régime of Timothy J. Crowe in 1927-1928 occupied the session of the graft conspiracy trial of Crowe and seven other defendants yesterday in Chief Justice Harry Fisher's Criminal court.

As the prosecution put in this evidence through expert testimony, preparations were going forward fo. the grand finale of the graft trial this morning or tomorrow morning by the production in court of Timothy L. Connolly, former purchasing agent, who was arrested in California recently after having been a fugitive for three years. Connolly is believed to have agreed to take the witness stand and "tell all."

Expect Connolly to Testify.

First Assistant State's Attorney John E. Northup, who has charge of the prosecution, refused to discuss the Connolly situation, but according to reports from his agents he expects to rip wide open the alleged $6,500,000 conspiracy by introducing the testimony of Connolly. Whether this will be this morning or tomorrow morning he refused to say.

Connolly and his anticipated testimony apparently were in the mind of Attorney Albert Fink, chief defense counsel, throughout the day. Attorney Fink mentioned Connolly's name frequently. At one point in the proceedings he said:

"If the purpose of dragging the trial today is to give the state an opportunity to get Connolly in here to connect up this conspiracy let us take an adjournment until such time as he can be produced and see what he has to say."

"Maybe we are laying the foundation for something to come," retorted Prosecutor Northup.

Experts' Stories in Record.

"This case will flop unless Connolly connects up the testimony," said Attorney Fink at another point, when he agreed to allow the prosecution to put into the record by stipulation through the experts the testimony of what the district paid for merchandise and what was a fair market price. The total of this testimony showed an overcharge of approximately $250,000, the prosecutor said.

"You may be sure this case will not flop," Prosecutor Northup told Fink with a smile.

Earlier in the day Prosecutor Northup had told Judge Philip L. Sullivan that he had "no more jurisdiction in issuing the writ of habeas corpus for Connolly than the man in the moon." The writ was issued on Saturday while Connolly was being kept in a secret place for questioning. The writ hearing was continued without any action until this morning.

Testimony on Overcharge.

The expert testimony showed the prices paid by the district and the fair, reasonable price fixed by the witnesses. The following table was produced in court:

Company—	District price.	Fair price.	Overcharge.
Davis Sales Co.	$22,311	$9,632	$12,678
Illinois Supply Co.	20,562	8,990	11,571
Continental Sup. Co.	14,318	6,355	7,963
Great Western Mfg. Co.	10,082	4,031	6,050
Central Mfg. and Supply Co.	11,930	5,412	6,517
Mid-West Supply Co.	9,855	4,328	5,526
Fallon Co.	18,617	7,608	11,008

In most cases the experts said that the total overcharge by these companies showed 150 per cent. Other similar testimony is to be produced by the state today to make up the total of $250,000.

Most of the companies mentioned yesterday were those of George Dietrich, who testified on the witness stand last week that he gave in gratuities as much as 25 cases of whisky a week to Connolly and paid out approximately $50,000 in one year for campaign contributions through purchase of political advertising and tickets.

Cites Cases of Overcharge.

Among the cases of overcharge cited by the experts were one case of ink valued at $13.50, which cost the district $40; carbon paper worth $48 which cost the district $84; 150 filing folders worth $3.25 which cost the district $225.

This last item caused the judges to question the witness several times to make sure that he had not made a mistake or that they had not misunderstood his testimony.

"You mean that the district paid $225 for folders worth only $3.25," asked Judge John Prystalski, who is sitting in an advisory capacity with Chief Justice Harry Fisher of the Criminal court, who is presiding in the trial.

"That is what I mean," said the expert. "I can give other items just as flagrant."

"It is rather difficult to believe, although by this time I am ready to believe anything," commented Attorney Fink.

$189 for an Hour's Work.

Two other items, which went into the record under stipulation, were the work of Eugene Byrne's City Machine and Engineering company. Byrne was at the time assistant manager of the permanent plants and structures department of the district. The testimony showed that his company charged the district $302 for two lubricators, while the price of these articles is $15 each. To install these lubricators the district paid $189 to Byrne's company for labor, while an expert said the job could have been performed in one hour.

Brother Is a Witness.

W. J. Connolly, 48 North Parkside avenue, a brother of the former purchasing agent, caused a slight stir in court when he was called to the witness stand. Apparently it was thought that the prosecution was calling for the key witness. Connolly said that his concern could not get business, even though his brother was purchasing agent, until he got the O. K. of the late George E. Brennan, Democratic leader. He represented the Mid-West Supply company.

The prosecution also presented evidence on one more forgery case from the ward of Frank J. Link, who was the sole Deneen Republican on the sanitary district board during the Crowe régime. It developed that the name of Anthony Klaiber was put on the pay roll under the name of Anthony J. Kleiner. Klaiber said he never got the check issued in that name, which was cashed through Link's political ward club.

Judge Seeks Prosecutors.

Judge Sullivan, before whom the habeas corpus hearing is to be resumed this morning, directed that efforts be made to find Assitant State's Attorneys Harold Keele and Henry Seyfarth, who are reported to be taking the statements of Timothy Connolly. Northup on the witness stand yesterday said he did not know Connolly's whereabouts; that he was in the custody of James McQueeney, a private investigator.

TRAPS ROBBER

Miss Helen Cooper, who stepped on police alarm while robber was holding up Abarbanell Brothers Cleaning and Dyeing company branch at 1000 North Boulevard in Oak Park, summoning officers who killed bandit.

ROBBER KILLED AS GIRL DELAYS HIM IN HOLDUP

Is Shot by Police as He Leaves Shop.

A cool headed girl clerk in an Oak Park cleaning and dyeing establishment delayed a bandit for nearly five minutes last night. Her tactics, enabling her to summon police, proved fatal for the robber. He was shot and killed as he tried to escape.

RICHARD GEISS.

The girl, Miss Helen Cooper, 20 years old, of 233 Elgin avenue, Forest Park, was alone in the branch shop of Abarbanell Bros., at 1000 North boulevard, Oak Park, when the robber, later identified as Richard Geiss, 40 years old, of 1354 North Dearborn street, entered. He leveled a revolver at Miss Cooper and demanded money.

Girl Sounds Alarm.

Miss Cooper was prepared. Only two weeks previously another robber had held up the place. As a precautionary measure the company had installed a buzzer alarm system linked with the Oak Park police station. All that was necessary to sound an alarm was to step on a button beneath the counter.

"There isn't any money here," protested Miss Cooper as she stepped toward the hidden button.

"I want the dough, and want it right away," warned the robber. The girl, still protesting there was none, took another step toward the alarm. As the gunman repeated his demand, Miss Cooper stepped on the button. At the same time she pleaded with the bandit not to harm her and opened the cash drawer. Slowly she took out two $1 bills and some change, amounting to 75 cents.

Police Shoot Robber.

Meanwhile, Policemen Frank Schwartz and Roy Coppers were speeding to the shop on orders of Capt. Frank Kerins, who had received the alarm. As they pulled up to the store in their automobile, the bandit was just emerging. He saw them at the same time and dashed to his parked car nearby. Behind him followed Miss Cooper, shouting: "He's a robber, don't let him get away."

Policemen Schwartz and Coppers ran up to the car as the bandit, sitting at the wheel, tugged at the gear shift. Both fired simultaneously. The robber slumped over, dead.

The body of the bandit was later identified as that of Geiss by his roommate, Ludwig Kurz. Kurz said Geiss had been employed for nearly a year. He last saw him Wednesday. Geiss had a wife and a child in Germany, the roommate said.

Frank Wilson, 30 years old, 2100 South Racine avenue, was arrested early yesterday in a raid on a house at 1925 South Clifton Park avenue led by Capt. Albert Mikes of the Marquette police, and during the day was identified in connection with more than a score of robberies.

HOLLYWOOD SPENDS ITS LEISURE TIME IN COURTS OF LAW

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 11.—[Special.]—James Cagney, young actor from the New York stage who skyrocketed to fame as a film star during 1931, was sued for asserted unpaid commissions by the William Morris agency, business agents for actors, today. The plaintiff says Cagney was contracted to pay over 10 per cent of his earnings in return for the agency's help in having the Warner Film Studio sign Cagney to a valuable contract. Cagney is $1,913 in arrears on his 10 per cent payment, the suit says. The action reveals that Cagney's starting salary in movies, less than a year ago, was $400 a week, and that this has been revised upward to $1,400 a week.

Hearings on three complaints against Noah Beery, screen actor, charging failure to pay $153.80 in wages, were continued by the labor commission offices today upon receipt of a letter from Beery promising to pay the claims.

Mary Nolan, actress, who has been sued a dozen times here recently, had the thirteenth lawsuit added to her collection when D. S. Phillips, representing a publishing company which prints a woman's club magazine, filed an action against the actress asking $160 for advertising bills.

Miss Marjorie Berger, income tax expert, who was convicted of fraud in making up federal tax returns for film stars and served a sentence in a federal penitentiary, today had Mae Murray in County court as defendant here, charged with failure to pay $2,250 fees for work in connection with drawing up income returns. Miss Murray contended Miss Berger's services were of a minor nature and worth only $100.

One of the last acts in the romance of Eugene V. Brewster, former magazine publisher, and Corliss Palmer, Georgia beauty, was written when a national bank began foreclosure proceedings on the home in which the couple lived on Selma avenue, Hollywood, prior to their separation last year.

Mary Astor, movie beauty, was sued for $2,433 by a firm of actors' agents here today, this being 10 per cent commission assertedly due after she worked in a motion picture for twelve weeks and two days and drew $24,333 salary.

UPROAR IN COURT AFTER JUDGE HOLDS YOUTHS

JUDGE BROOKS.

Municipal Judge J. William Brooks in Boys' court held two youths to the grand jury on charges of conspiracy to obstruct justice yesterday. Relatives of the pair later staged a free for all fight with bailiffs and witnesses.

The youths are Louis Bangora, 19 years old, 914 South Claremont avenue, and Louis Esposito. Judge Brooks also ordered that Grace Bowie, 16 years old, 202 South Lincoln street, who charges that Bangora is the father of her unborn child, be held on the same charge, for her own protection.

The girl charged that on Dec. 30 Bangora entered her home and shot her in the arm. Esposito was accused of being one of two youths who sat beside Miss Bowie at a previous hearing and threatened her with a gang ride if she testified against Bangora.

The fight started after the three had been ordered held. Mrs. Margaret Kouba, aunt of Mrs. Bowie, charged that Esposito's father, Tony, threatened her when she left the courtroom. She was attacked before the bench by Bangora's sister, Marie.

Nervous Breakdown Takes Sheehan from Fox Films

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 11.—[Special.]—As a result of a nervous breakdown attributed to overwork at his studio duties here, Winfield Sheehan, vice president and general manager of the Fox Film corporation, has been away from his desk on a leave of absence of three months, it was stated today by studio officials here. It was announced that Sheehan was granted leave on half pay.

OAK PARK AUTO CHASE NETS FIVE WITH 2 PISTOLS

An automobile chase in Washington boulevard, Oak Park, ended last night with the capture of five men and the seizure of two loaded revolvers. The prisoners identified themselves as Gene Quinn, 22 years old, 6502 Wentworth avenue; Joseph Zurowski, 21, of 6826 Perry avenue; Philip Piazza, 39, of 6940 Vincennes avenue; Michael Dunn, 28, of 551 West 60th place, and George Winistorfer, 24, of 1240 West 63d street. Piazza admitted ownership of the car and guns. Quinn was the driver.

Policemen Hugh English and Earl Jensen, of the Oak Park force, saw the quintet drive through a stop light at Austin boulevard, west bound in Washington boulevard. They stopped them at Harlem avenue, Forest Park. Piazza said they were touring the western suburbs for a place to open a fruit and vegetable store. He owns a store on the south side. He said the revolvers, which were found on the floor of the car, were carried as protection.

KENTUCKY WILL ARRAIGN 10 RED LEADERS TODAY

Prepared if Miners Try Violence.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Pineville, Ky., Jan. 11.—[Special.]—In the face of threats which have been relayed in whispers against both judge and prosecutor, and with the possibility of another march of miners in sympathy with the prisoners, it is planned to go ahead tomorrow morning with the preliminary hearings against ten communists who are being held in jail here under the state criminal syndicalism law. The prisoners, with one exception, are easterners who came here to lead the futile strike of the miners for higher wages.

Among the defendants are: Mrs. Clarina Michaelson, secretary of the National Miners' union; Vern Smith, a writer for the Daily Worker; Ann Barton, writer for the Federated Press; Vincent Kemanovich, agitator from Pittsburgh; Julia Parker, one of the Theodore Dreiser group of investigators, and Allan Taub, New York attorney, who was sent out here by the International Labor Defense.

Two Attorneys on Way.

Two other attorneys are now said to be on their way from New York and Chicago to get Taub out of jail. He is a clever young German Jew and the case against him is a weak one. He was arrested after he had been in town a few hours as he was getting into a machine owned by Joe Weber, one of the miner sympathizers with communism, against whom a warrant had been issued. The chief of police swore out a warrant charging Taub vaguely with obstruction of government, and he is to be tried under the state law which makes it unlawful for any person to "print, publish, utter, circulate, or have in his possession" any document which advocates criminal syndicalism, as forcible resistance to authority. The penalties are $10,000 fine and 21 years in the penitentiary. The same penalties are applied to "any person or persons who shall rent or furnish any building, land or place" for the circulation of any such matter.

A Technical Case.

When the communists arrived here they were given part of a law office for headquarters. This and hotel rooms were raided and literature seized, which, according to County Attorney Walter B. Smith, brings them well within the provisions of this statute. One clause only of this law has been held unconstitutional and there is a saving clause which makes the others still valid. Taub is brought in on the theory that the machine in which he was riding had been used to circulate this literature. An effort is to be made to get him to admit he is a member of the communistic group, for the act of throwing an attorney into jail with such scant ceremony has caused a lot of comment.

Hightower Defense Closes.

Mount Sterling, Ky., Jan. 11.—[Special.]—The defense in the Hightower case concluded its testimony tonight with the introduction of Joe Caywood, former city clerk of Evarts. Caywood, who was indicted jointly with W. B. Jones, Hightower and other for the murder of Jim Daniels, Otto Lee and Howard Jones in the battle of May 5, waived all his rights as a defendant and gave his testimony in behalf of Hightower.

Caywood denied that Jones or Hightower ever had made any threats in his presence.

Asked by his counsel: "Did you conspire with Hightower, Jones or any one, to kill or hurt Jim Daniels or any one?" Caywood replied, "I certainly did not."

Liberty of All Enlisted Men Restored at Hawaiian Posts

BY CLIFFORD GESSLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HONOLULU, Jan. 11.—Liberty to visit Honolulu was restored to enlisted men of the army and navy stationed on Oahu island late today, after a conference between Gov. Lawrence M. Judd and Rear Admiral Yates Stirling Jr. The soldiers and sailors have been confined to their stations since last Friday, when Joseph Kahahawai, a Hawaiian, suspected of raping a naval officer's wife last September, was abducted and killed.

The enlisted men greeted the removal of the restrictions with cheers, and it was reported they were eager to get into Honolulu for a "good time."

Behave! Men Are Warned.

It was decided to permit liberty to visit Honolulu after warning the men to conduct themselves properly. Nothing was said of the order of Admiral William V. Pratt, chief of naval operations, whereby 40,000 men of the Pacific fleet will be kept from Honolulu during next month's maneuvers in Hawaiian waters.

Earlier in the day a grand jury of American citizens of various races was selected to act in the murder case. The jury, which is composed of one Hawaiian, three of part Hawaiian blood, one Chinese, and 18 Caucasians, will decide on next Friday whether to indict Lieut. Thomas H. Massie, Mrs. Granville Fortescue, his mother-in-law, and two sailors for Kahahawai's murder.

The jury's organization was put over until Friday by Circuit Judge Albert M. Cristy because of other judicial business, which necessitated a trip of the jurist to Hilo.

Take Sailor Aboard Warship.

Albert O. Jones, one of the enlisted men accused of murder, was transferred today from the Honolulu city jail to the U. S. S. Alton at Pearl Harbor, where Mrs. Fortescue, Massie and E. J. Lord, the other enlisted man, are being held. They are in the custody of naval officers because of the fear of Honolulu naval and civil officials that their lives would be in danger if they were kept in the city jail.

Lieut. Massie, who yesterday announced that he would waive any rights to trial by a naval court, today again conferred with his lawyers, Frank Thompson and Montgomery Winn. The defense counsel for the quartet are demanding a speedy trial.

The navy's decision to boycott Honolulu was felt yesterday and today. The naval transport Chaumont was ordered to go directly to Pearl Harbor instead of docking here as it approached the city today. Service men aboard the transport Henderson were denied shore leave when that ship arrived yesterday.

Honolulu Outwardly Calm.

Honolulu is outwardly calm, though special forces of the army, navy, and territorial police are patrolling the streets. Public officials and civic bodies are doing their utmost to relieve the public tension over the Honolulu crime situation and the sensational abduction and killing of Kahahawai.

Mayor Fred Wright of Honolulu today publicly admitted that the city's police department, which has been so widely criticized, is obsolete in view of the increased size of the city and new conditions. He urged the creation of an appointive chief of police in place of the present elective sheriff.

The mayor's proposal was included in a program submitted by Gov. Judd to members of all territorial legislative committees at a conference today. The possibility of calling a special session of the Hawaiian legislature to deal with the situation was discussed at the session.

Mayor Wright in his statement attributed the abduction and killing of the Hawaiian to a lack of confidence in the police department on the part of men in the navy.

Tells Husband Not to Worry.

HONOLULU, Jan. 11.—(AP)—Mrs. Granville Fortescue, society matron charged with three navy men in the slaying of the accused attacker of her daughter, tonight was reported by her attorney, Montgomery Winn, to have notified her husband, ill in New York, that "all will be well." It was the first utterance credited to Mrs. Fortescue to be made public since her arrest.

The message said:

"Please don't worry. Tommie [Lieut. Thomas H. Massie, son-in-law of Mrs. Fortescue and one of those accused of the murder] is looking after us and all will be well. Every one is doing everything they can for us. We have the best lawyers. If only I could come to you! Don't worry. You have all my love."

HELD FOR DRY EXTORTION.

John Dineen, 4327 Kenmore avenue, was arrested by government detectives yesterday on a charge of impersonating federal officers. He is alleged to have taken $800 from three speakeasy proprietors by posing as a prohibition agent with a fake warrant.

How Do Women in the Movies Manage?

SENATE ORDERS AN INQUIRY INTO HAWAIIAN CRIME

tion there continuously stirred up. The longer it is stirred up the more difficult it will be to settle."

Honolulu Displeased.

HONOLULU, Jan. 11.—(AP)—Civilian reaction to the news that the United States senate had ordered the attorney general to investigate Honolulu's crime crisis and the character and efficiency of all territorial officials brought some critical comment today.

The opinions expressed by leaders follow:

Mayor George Wright: "Things are in good shape, and for the federal government to start a probe in Hawaii is sheer nonsense. This city is law abiding—as a matter of fact, more so than any other city in the United States, in my opinion.

"Friday's lynching was the first of its kind in Hawaii, something so new and startling that it has temporarily upset the people. It is regrettable that people had to take the law in their own hands. They had no right to do so. It is regrettable when the navy personnel, who are pledged to keep law and order, are implicated in this affair. It is a poor state of affairs when civil authorities have to preserve law and order among members of the service."

Criticizes Police System.

Mayor Wright said he believed the killing of Joseph Kahahawai was due to lack of confidence by the people in the police department which he said was brought to a head when several policemen testified for the defense in the case of Kahahawai and four others charged with attacking the wife of Lieut. Thomas H. Massie. The jury in the attack case disagreed.

Wright said the police system was obsolete and outgrown by the city's present size and that there was "too much politics" in the department.

Mrs. Henry F. Damon, president of the League of Women Voters: "I feel we are facing a serious situation here. It will take the best efforts to bring about what we know is right out of the situation."

Other Opinions Given Out.

The Rev. Markham Talmadge, president of the interchurch federation: "This action would be perfectly justifiable if the senate did the same thing with New York, Chicago, and other places where conditions are constantly worse than in Hawaii."

Wilfred C. Tsukiyama, president of the Japanese Civic association: "I don't think the action is necessary. Things seem to be back to normalcy. Federal authorities seem to think we are having riots and all kinds of disturbances here. For the good of the nation and the territory I think the local authorities should urge the senate to desist."

Mrs. Harry A. Kluegel, president of the Citizens' Organization for Good Government: "The senate is privileged to conduct an investigation if it wants to. I do not know if conditions warrant an investigation. I do not possess all the facts."

DOCTOR ADMITS DOPE HABIT IN LICENSE TRIAL

Board Ponders Barring Him from Practice.

The medical examining committee of the state department of registration and education late yesterday took under advisement the action to revoke the license of Dr. Henry James Millstone, charged with gross malpractice and the habitual use of narcotics, after he had waived legal representation and made a full confession of all charges.

Dr. Millstone admitted performing an illegal operation on Marion Foley, 23 years old, 6725 Cornell avenue, a cabaret cigaret girl. In making his confession he stated: "I was at my worst physical condition at the time I performed that operation."

Questioned by Chairman.

Under questioning by Dr. M. L. Harris, chairman of the examining committee, Dr. Millstone said: "I endangered my home and health in trying to tell the truth about the charges, but my attorneys would not permit me to do so. That is the reason I have come here without counsel which I have retained to represent me."

Dr. Millstone was questioned as to his use of narcotics by Assistant Attorney General Philip Ringer and testified that he had been a dope addict for five years.

Dr. Millstone, who formerly was a well known eye, ear, nose and throat specialist, said he had first begun the use of drugs after an operation for nasal trouble.

"When charges were brought against me I felt I could not appear before the examining committee in my weakened state," he said. "I entered a sanitarium, at which time I was using four grains of morphine a day. After a treatment of two weeks I was cured."

Questioned by members of the examining body, Dr. Millstone said that at the time of his operation on Miss Foley he was under the influence of a narcotic. He denied that such that such practices were common with him and insisted he had given her every medical attention.

Charges Extortion Threats.

Criminal charges, now pending as the result of the abortion were brought, he charged, because he would not pay $2,000 which friends of the girl tried to extort from him. A named William Egan brought the girl to his office, he said, and later made extortion threats. The sum was later reduced to $750, he said, adding that he had not paid any of the money demanded.

Dr. Bernard Conway, owner of the Chicago hospital, was the only witness called by Assistant Attorney General Ringer. Dr. Conway testified that Miss Foley was taken to his hospital from the county hospital on Nov. 1. At that time, he said, she weighed only 50 pounds, half her normal weight. Since then she has gained 15 pounds, he testified, and has an excellent chance for recovery.

Under cross-examination by Dr. Millstone, Dr. Conway testified that her condition was not necessarily a result of the operation but was due to a general relapse on account of lack of nourishment and treatment.

'5 AND 10' STATE 'FED UP' ON DRY LAW, HORR SAYS

He's Wet, but Voters Sent Him to Capital.

By GENEVIEVE FORBES HERRICK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 11.—[Special.]—The state of Washington is the home of the Jones "five and ten" law, but it's fed up on prohibition, Representative Ralph A. Horr, rebellious Republican from Seattle, today told the senate subcommittee on manufacturers, conducting hearings on Senator Hiram Bingham's [Rep., Conn.] bill to legalize 4 per cent, by volume, beer.

RALPH A. HORR.

"Look at me," Representative Horr shouted over to the line of Anti-Saloon visitors; "I'm one of those freaks, a representative who votes wet and drinks dry. In my campaign I said I didn't want the support of the Anti-Saloon league, of Scott McBride, or of Bishop Cannon!"

He glared over at Bishop James Cannon Jr., who made some rapid notations in his notebook.

Change Comes Over State.

"I dared my opponent to say the same thing; he refused. But I was elected, in the home of the 'five and ten.' That's what a change has come over the state of Washington."

After Representative Horr had outlined the financial advantages that would accrue to the farmers of his country with the return of beer, he added crisply:

"Of course we are bombarded out there by the government's own grape concentrates." He rummaged around in his pocket and drew out an advertisement and read from it this line: "Yes, we're safe, because Mabel Willebrandt is back of it," and intoned deeply the phrase, "pure as a baby's dream."

And the Bishop Frowns.

Senators chuckled, visitors laughed; Bishop Cannon frowned.

"Do you think grape wine is illegal?" a member of the committee wanted to know.

"Anything that Mrs. Willebrandt does," boomed the representative, "I'd view with alarm."

Later commenting on some gloomy statistics from the Wickersham report, Representative Horr explained, "And these are the findings of a commission appointed by a dry President."

"Did you say 'dry' President?" interrupted Senator Robert J. Bulkley, the wet Democrat who won in Ohio last year.

"I'm sure I don't know," replied Representative Horr, "and I'm a Republican."

Doctor Endorses Beer.

Beer is healthful as a food equivalent; harmless as a stimulant; hopeful as antidote for hard liquor drinking, Dr. William Gerry Morgan, of Washington, past president of the American Medical association, maintained. But all of these advantages, he emphasized, depended upon "average beer drinking," which, he estimated, is not more than two quarts a day. Although he has never taken out a license for prescription liquor, Dr. Morgan has seen plenty of drinking, he lamented, in his trips throughout the country, at banquets and meetings.

"Liquor," he told the committee, "can be purchased in every town and city I have been in in the past two and a half years, and without any great difficulty, either."

Land of "Bottle Drinkers."

America, as Dr. Morgan sees it, is a nation of "bottle drinkers," but the majority of the drinkers would, if they could, turn to "dependable beer," and away from "questionable quality of the bootlegger."

Senator D. Hatfield [Rep., W. Va.], who is also a doctor, asserted that beer drinking caused cirrhosis of the liver.

"Not at all," Dr. Morgan replied. "It would take 6 quarts of beer drunk daily for a long time to cause any liver disturbance."

How About the Germans?

"May I ask then, why seven-eighths of the German people haven't died of cirrhosis of the liver?"

Then Senator Brookhart burst out with an indictment of the press associations which, he claimed, "had organized a racket against the Anti-Saloon league and other dry groups when they found they could not get money from them for space in the paper." Immediately representatives of the press associations present began to write him notes asking for details; but he declined to be specific.

Later, on the floor of the senate, he referred to the "outlandish and unreasonable wet propaganda in the press," and said he had received information that the cause was the drys' refusal to pay for space in the papers. He hinted at the possibility of a congressional investigation.

Mrs. Lorraine Catlin Brower, vice president of the Congressional Districts Modification league, announced that she had five million signatures to her modification petition. And Mrs. M. Louise Gross, national chairman, Women's Moderation union, declared that "the majority of women have made up their minds against beer running," and are in favor of legalized beer.

Call in Justice

The marriage of William Robert Brown, 21 years old, a freshman at the Northwestern university law school, and Miss Eleanor Cooke, 20 years old, 1405 Lincoln street, Evanston, and graduate of Sweet Briar college, Virginia, in a Blue Island roadhouse, was revealed yesterday.

Brown is the son of Attorney W. R. Brown of Wilson & Co., whose home is at 2047 West 110th street, while the bride is the daughter of Ralph W. Cooke, general freight agent for the Pennsylvania railroad.

Brown obtained a marriage license last Friday by producing a letter from M. E. Goodhue, registrar of the Northwestern university law school, attesting that he is 21 years old. Then he and Miss Cooke went to the Beach Gardens, owned by Joe Garrity at 12126 Vincennes avenue, Blue Island. At their request Garrity telephoned Justice of the Peace Frank Synakiewicz.

Ed Blouin, a brickmaker, and R. Roth, filling station proprietor, were drafted as witnesses and the ceremony was performed before the patrons of the place. The Browns are living at the home of the bride.

U. S. BEGINS TRIAL OF $12,000,000 RUM RING CASE

Capone Hoodlums on List of Defendants.

Trial of the government's $12,000,000 middle west alcohol conspiracy case proceeded with dispatch yesterday in the court of Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley. A jury was selected and half a dozen witnesses gave their part of the evidence against forty-nine men, a woman and two corporations. The alleged syndicate is said to have handled 4,000,000 gallons of alcohol.

U. S. PROSECUTOR DANIEL ANDERSON. [Mayo Photo.]

The defendants filled three rows of seats across the rear of the central enclosure of the courtroom, and they were a strange assortment for a booze case. Among them are business men, a former state's attorney of Whiteside county, a red headed woman, who is the proprietor of a speakeasy, sleek bootleggers with horn rimmed glasses, and unkempt Sicilian still tenders.

Prosecutor Daniel Anderson in his opening statement to the jury touched upon the ramifications of the alleged conspiracy, in which alcohol flowed into four states from Aurora and other centers of manufacture. Some of the defendants are known Capone hoodlums and at the time of the indictment six months ago federal agents said Al Capone had collected tribute on every gallon of the provincial booze business. Mr. Anderson, however, did not touch upon this.

Prosecutor Outlines Case.

The prosecutor said his evidence would show that there were various units of the far flung liquor trust and that these units were linked in a conspiracy "by their common enemy, the law, and by their common friend, the consuming public."

"There was the Chicago group, with Gabriel, Paul and Tony Cinquinna, and the Carsello brothers, Tony and John," said Mr. Anderson. "There was a unit at Waterloo, Ia., with the Price brothers, Frank, Richard and Russell, and Harry Chapman. There was a unit at Clinton, Ia., headed by Mike Blumberg. There was a group at Aurora headed by Mike Myers and including his brothers, David and Joseph, and also Joseph Rothstein, Sam Dolff and Louis Israel.

"There was a large still in Whiteside county with the defendant, Robe. W. Beese [the former state's attorney] and Art Cooper. And the evidence will show that after this still was raided Cooper came to Chicago and set up a huge still in the motor sales establishment of Thomas J. Harrigan, 4631 West Madison street, another of the defendants.

"These defendants made high grade alcohol by redistilling the moonshine product. They manufactured it, sold it, possessed it and transported it. The Clinton and Waterloo groups purchased alcohol from the others. There probably were a dozen or so other purchasers and distributors, but we don't k now who they were and they are not defendants here."

Call 2 Defendants Innocent.

Most of the dozen defense attorneys waive dopening statements, but brief declarations were made on behalf of the defendants Harrigan and Besse, their lawyers disclaiming that they had any connection with the conspiracy.

The first witnesses took up the Whiteside county still phase of the case and told stories purporting to link the defendants Beese with Cooper, the Cinquinnas and the Carsellos in the operations of the still on Besse's farm. Henry Kane, tenant of the farm, who was granted a severance for trial, said Besse introduced him to the others and "made a proposition for me to make some money." After the raid last June, the witness said, Besse demanded that his name be kept out of the case.

Girl, 11, Is Witness.

Mrs. Louise Escherich, mother of Kane, and her daughter, Mrs. Margaret Hanson, told of visits Besse made to the farm, but the fourth member of the family, 11 year old Madeline Kane, was withdrawn by the prosecutor after providing an amusing feature in the proceeding.

The little girl, who has blue eyes and long golden curls, was asked to walk back through the courtroom and touch the shoulders of Besse and Cooper. She complied, but she identified Besse as Cooper and vice versa and became frightened when the lawyers laughed.

The trial will require a week or more, as there are eighty witnesses.

described as "amicable but firm language."

At the premier's office it was said the government would act on Bruening's statement—if at all—only after a cabinet session. The date for this session probably will be set after an important meeting tomorrow between Laval and Foreign Minister Briand.

The conversations over the reparations problem that have been going on between Finance Minister Flandin and Sir Frederick Leith-Ross of the British treasury were concluded tonight. A communique said the conversations had resulted in clarifying the viewpoints of France and Great Britain on the subjects that will rise at the Lausanne conference, and that Sir Frederick was returning to London to report to his government on the result of the talks.

Germany Warned at Basel.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BASEL, Switzerland, Jan. 11.—A warning to Germany not to play with reparations dynamite was delivered by France at the monthly meeting of the directorate of the Bank for International Settlements here today, when Hans Luther, German delegate, presented his colleagues with a plea to extend the world bank's share of the $100,000,000 credit to the Reichsbank which falls due on Feb. 4.

While Clement Moret, governor of the Bank of France, made no effort to block the renewal of the credit, he got in a telling parry to Chancellor Bruening's reparations thrust by putting through a unanimous vote to make continuance of the world bank's $25,000,000 share of the credit dependent upon similar action by the three government banks participating in the transaction. Thus the Bank of France by its own decision controls the action of the world bank as well.

France Holds Club.

Even if the Federal Reserve bank of the United States and the Bank of England choose to let their advances stand—and it is by no means certain that they will—France could still withdraw her $25,000,000, which added to the world's bank $25,000,000 would be exactly half of the total credit.

The full importance of this maneuver is realized when it is remembered that the $100,000,000 is carried by the directors of the Reichsbank in their weekly statements as currency reserves guaranteeing the mark—in fact, by the latest figure it constitutes about one-third of the mark's backing.

The report of the Young plan's consultative committee on Germany's inability to pay reparations was approved without discussion.

CREDITORS NEAR AGREEMENT WITH GERMAN BANKERS

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

BERLIN, Jan. 11.—The conclusion of negotiations between German bankers and foreign creditors for an extension of the standstill agreement is expected in financial quarters about the end of this week. While many details are still unsettled, representatives of the creditors have been on the whole reconciled to conditions which are believed to be acceptable to the German debtors.

The demand of the creditors that short term debtors pay 10 per cent on their debts by March 1 will probably be modified according to the German proposal to pay off 5 per cent.

One main point of the controversy is the American demand for guarantees to be offered by the debtors, and especially the question of whether the creditors shall have the right to sell securities or other collateral deposited by the debtors. The Germans hold that no such executions should be permitted during the period of standstill.

Hitler Blocks Bruening's Coup to Extend Hindenburg's Term

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Jan. 11.—Adolf Hitler, Germany's National Socialist [Fascist] leader, and Dr. Alfred Hugenberg, Nationalist leader, tonight informed Chancellor Heinrich Bruening that they will not agree to the reëlection of President Paul von Hindenburg for an additional year through action by the reichstag. They charged that such a move conflicts with the constitution of the republic.

ADOLF HITLER. [Assoc. Press Photo.]

They told President von Hindenberg's political secretary, Otto Meissner, that if the president agrees to go through with a second "election by the people" they will not nominate a rival candidate, thus assuring the president of victory over the only other probable contender, the communist candidate.

President Reserves Decision.

President von Hindenberg has reserved his decision pending Bruening's negotiations with leaders of all political parties in Germany who began to call on him today. Circles close to the president believe he is willing to stand for election again, providing his name appears on all tickets with minor exceptions such as the communist ticket.

The main purpose of the bickerings of the Hitlerites and Nationalists is said to be to find ways and means of unseating Bruening. Hugenberg and Hitler, though allies, are not on friendly terms. But they forgot their dissension yesterday and today, when their tacticians worked hard to set a trap for the chancellor whom they hate. They tried to negotiate directly with Von Hindenburg behind Bruening's back, but the president referred them to the chancellor. He told them, however, that he would negotiate directly with them after the argument over his reëlection in the reichstag is settled.

Government circles state that Bruening will not take new steps in the matter of the presidential election until February or after the Lausanne conference on reparations. He is leaving it up to the different parties to agree among themselves as to what they intend to do about the president's reëlection. Nevertheless the chancellor made it clear to them that if they want Von Hindenburg to remain at the post most of them at least must place him on their tickets.

Pick March 13 for Election.

The reichstag will be asked to set a date for the presidential election when it meets early in February. It must take place before May 5 when the old field marshal's term expires. The date of March 13 has been tentatively chosen.

Fearing the unrest of a transition period in attempts of the radicals to usurp power, stanch republicans in Germany are building up their "iron front," and, according to authentic figures, they have more than 1,300,000 men in "fighting trim."

The "iron front" is composed of 200,000 of the sturdiest members of the "reichsbanner," workmen's sport clubs numbering 100,000, and 1,000,000 newly organized men recruited among the labor unions. They will be known as the "hammer strike force" and their mission is to stop or brake the wheels of industry in case of a Fascist or communist uprising.

The "iron front" men have secured the machinery and the organization of a "technical emergency corps," which in previous years helped employers to break strikes. The leader of the "iron fronters," Hoeltermann, is in the Rhineland and the Ruhr this week lining up the miners.

MURDER VERDICT RETURNED.

A verdict of murder was returned yesterday at the inquest into the death of Charles Pagel, 30 years old, 9954 South May street, who was found beaten to death on Saturday in a room in the Aplin hotel, 27 East Harrison street. Police are seeking a man who registered there with him as W. Williams.

U. S. AGENT WHO OPPOSED LOAN TO PERU REBUKED

Now $75,000,000 Bonds Are in Default.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 11.—Testimony that the department of commerce had asked for "optimistic reports" instead of "pessimistic" ones on the financial status of Peru in 1928 was given before the senate finance committee today by Oliver C. Townsend, then a financial attaché at Peru, for which bond issues totaling $100,000,000 per floated in the United States in 1927 and 1928. More than $75,000,000 of these bonds outstanding are in complete default.

Mr. Townsend's testimony followed that at a hearing of Friday during which two officials of J. & W. Seligman & Co. admitted under oath that they had paid $415,000 in commissions to Juan Legula, son of the then president, Augusto Legula, for acting as promoter of loans negotiated with his father, for eight years dictator of Peru.

Given a Reprimand.

"Was anything said about your reports?" asked Senator Johnson.

"I was severely reprimanded," replied Mr. Townsend. "It was clearly stated that optimistic reports were needed."

During Mr. Townsend's testimony Senator Johnson put into the record a memorandum from Mr. Townsend to Ambassador Poindexter, written on Feb. 10, 1927, concerning the lavish entertainments given by promoters seeking the loan business of this government.

Lawrence Dennis, for seven years in the diplomatic service in South America, and an investigator for J. & W. Seligman & Co., in Peru in 1927 and 1928, testified that the last Peruvian loan, for $35,000,000, floated in 1928 in the United States, was made contrary to his advice.

Expects Small Return.

After he had testified that South American countries generally had, in his opinion, borrowed too much, Senator Reed of Pennsylvania asked what he thought the disposition of those loans would be.

"I should say eventually they will scale down the loans and settle with the bondholders for 10 or 15 cents on the dollar," replied Mr. Dennis.

When asked by Senator Johnson, concerning Bolivia in particular, Mr. Dennis testified:

"In Bolivia the accounts of the government had not been balanced between the war and 1928. Finance was in a state of complete chaos. It was evident that eventually the loans of Bolivia and Peru would be in complete default."

DIG IN CELLAR OF CHILD'S SLAYER FOR MORE BODIES

Cincinnati, O., Jan. 11.—[Special.]—Excavation of the cellar of the tenement occupied by Charles Bischoff was in progress tonight as authorities undertook a search for the bodies of children Bischoff is suspected of having ravished, murdered and buried in quicklime.

The search was inspired by Bischoff's confession early this morning that he had kidnaped and killed 6 year old Marian McLean, who was found dead in the cellar Dec. 22.

Bischoff admitted possession of a quantity of quicklime and knowledge of its corrosive properties. When asked whether he had molested other children, the prisoner changed the subject by asking for food. Authorities expressed the opinion that the man is mentally unbalanced.

In his detailed story of the crime Bischoff said he had lured the child down an alley on Thursday evening, Dec. 17, stifled her outcries and attacked her, leaving her in a coma. Next morning he listened for her heart beat but detected no signs of life, he added.

Physicians who examined the body asserted, however, that Marian had been dead only a few hours when found. From this evidence Prosecutor Robert Gorman expressed the opinion that Bischoff, knowingly or unwittingly, had left the child four days and nights to perish slowly in the chilly cellar from loss of blood and exposure.

BRITISH OUTLAW ALL GATHERINGS OF INDIA REBELS

BOMBAY, India, Jan. 11.—(AP)—The government today promulgated a special ordinance forbidding all meetings of groups containing more than five persons.

This latest emergency measure automatically outlawed every gathering of the Nationalists who are fighting British authority with their campaign of civil disobedience and noncoöperation.

It came after the boycott against British goods, declared by Mahatma Gandhi, and the All-India National congress had succeeded in cutting business in Bombay to one-fourth its normal volume.

$3,000,000 Loss Daily.

The Bombay cotton exchange, second largest in the world, has dropped from 100,000 bales to less than 100, a daily loss amounting to about $3,000,000.

The gold export trade has decreased from $2,000,000 a day to $500,000. The cotton, bullion, piece goods, seeds and stock exchanges have been closed. Since the arrest of the mahatma not a yard of British cloth has been sold in the Bombay wholesale market, which supplies almost all India. Normally this business runs about $500,000 a day.

The Nationalists set up what they call a "nucleus parallel government" by inaugurating an independent postal service between Bombay and outlying points. If the service is successful they plan to extend it to cover all India, and their policy is to carry letters at half the rate charged by the government.

Seek to Lessen Revenues.

One of the aims of this "parallel government" movement is to decrease the revenues enjoyed by the British authorities.

Mrs. Kasturbai Gandhi, 60 year old wife of the Nationalist leader, was arrested today with two other Indian women leaders at Sayadla, near Surat, on charges of inciting India's women to nonviolent revolt.

COMPANY OF JAPS ANNIHILATED BY CHINESE BANDITS

4 Officers and 30 Men Slain in Battle.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Jan. 12.—[Tuesday.]—Four Japanese officers and more than 30 noncommissioned officers and men are reported to have been killed and almost all of the rest of their company wounded by Chinese bandits at Hsinlitun, on the Tahushan-Tungliao railway, last night.

The battle started when the Japanese, on the way to repair the line following the derailing of a Japanese armored car, were attacked by 5,000 Chinese. The Japanese company was practically wiped out after several hours of fierce fighting. Only ten Japanese soldiers were unhurt and still fighting.

Fighting was still going on at Hsinlitun at 3 a. m. today, according to a dispatch from Tahushan. Japanese reinforcements reached the town at 7 o'clock last night. Street fighting occurred within the town when the Japanese formed a "forlorn hope party" to break through the Chinese surrounding them. The Japanese in the besieged town are reported to have enough ammunition to hold out today.

Fear Japanese Corps Slain.

Meanwhile, fears are expressed for the ammunition company, led by Capt. Watsuo, which went to the assistance of a Japanese cavalry detachment, under Lieut. Col. Koga, trapped by 5,000 Chinese bandits at Chingshi, west of Chinchow. The Japanese reinforcements were last reported to be surrounded by Chinese bandits and fighting fiercely Sunday. Nothing has been heard of them since.

Meanwhile, a dramatic story of how the regimental colors of Lieut. Col. Koga saved the day at Chingshi was revealed today. The bearer of the colors was identified as sub-Lieut. Moriichi Morishita, who was one of the few Japanese who came out of the battle unhurt. After unfurling the flag and leading the men to a new attack, he saved the colors by wrapping it around his body beneath his uniform after half of his comrades, including Lieut. Col. Koga, had been killed and he thought little hope remained to escape. His action in rushing into battle with the flag so raised the morale of the troops they fought with renewed vigor and defeated the Chinese.

Several hundred Chinese were reported killed in the encounter, but since thousands more of the alleged "bandits" still exist, a strong Japanese offensive to wipe out the menace will begin today.

JAPANESE PUSH ON

BY JOHN POWELL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

CHINWANGTAO, China, Jan. 11.—The Japanese army is continuing its military campaign in Jehol province, Manchuria. Gen. Shigeru Honjo, Japanese commander in chief, has sent into this province the Thirty-eighth brigade of the Nineteenth division, which was transferred from Corea. The commander of the brigade is Maj. Gen. Hosoki, who also has the task of patrolling the Peiping-Mukden railway between Chinchow and Shanhaikwan.

The Jehol campaign has taken the usual form of a so-called drive against Chinese "bandits." The Japanese also are exerting political pressure against Tang Yu-ling, governor of Jehol, who is a lieutenant of Marshal Chang Hsueh-liang, ousted Manchurian governor.

Report City Occupied.

According to authoritative information from foreign sources in Chinwangtao, which is headquarters for the British Kailan mining administration as well as the location of a small American military outpost, part of the Fifteenth infantry stationed at Tientsin under the Boxer protocol terms, Gen. Honjo has sent a considerable force, accompanied by mobile artillery units and airplanes, into southern Jehol.

Pepiao, which is an important coal mining center and which is connected by an automobile road with the provincial capital, Jehol City, is said to have been occupied by the Japanese.

Because of the cutting of telegraph and telephone wires and the occupation of the Peiping-Mukden railway north of Shanhaikwan, it is difficult to obtain details of the Japanese operations, but refugees from Pepiao claim that ten Japanese planes bombed the city.

An inspection of Shanhaikwan today revealed that Chinese and Japanese troops continue to patrol opposite sides of the railway tracks. The opposing forces apparently have reached a mutual understanding to maintain peace locally pending the outcome of developments elsewhere.

The Peiping-Mukden railway is now completely patrolled by Japanese troops from Mukden to the great wall, and through traffic from Mukden to Tientsin is paralyzed. A number of Chinese and British railway officials have made frequent trips to Shanhaikwan to confer with Japanese military commanders in an effort to have communication 'tween China proper and Manchuria reopened, but thus far the trips have been in vain.

The Chinese claim Japan has stationed 20 or 30 soldiers at all stations on the railway between Mukden and Shanhaikwan and has placed a Japanese staff in control of the Sino-British owned Peiping-Mukden railway.

League Commission Approved.

GENEVA, Jan. 11.—Official notification of all league of nations council members, and the United States, of Japanese and Chinese acceptance of the Manchurian investigating commission was made today by the league secretariat. It is expected that the European members of the commission will hold a preliminary meeting at Geneva on Jan. 18. They will leave at the end of January for Manchuria via the United States, where the American delegate, Maj. Gen. Frank R. McCoy, will join them.

Asks Court to Enjoin Husband

Mrs. Rosinea Le Tarte with her children, Dolores, 2 years old, and Bernice, 8 years old, in Superior court, where the mother asked an injunction to restrain her husband from squandering pay in Cicero resorts. She is also seeking a divorce.

Blames Gambling

An injunction to prevent her husband from squandering his pay checks in Cicero gambling houses and speakeasies was sought yesterday by Mrs. Rosinea Le Tarte, 26 years old, 2119 South Lawndale avenue. The injunction was asked in a bill for divorce filed for her in the Superior court by Attorney Harry X. Cole against Ferdinand Le Tarte, 3137 Washington boulevard. Le Tarte is employed at the Western Electric company, but dissipates most of his earnings on gambling and liquor, Mrs. Le Tarte charges. She asked support for herself and two children, Bernice, 8 years old, and Dolores, 2.

BRITISH PRESS ASSAILS "WEAK" POLICY IN ORIENT

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Jan. 11.—Sir John Simon, one of the liberal leaders of the National government, has invoked the wrath of the liberal press by his declaration that Britain does not propose to send any note to Tokio on the lines of the American note. The Liberal News Chronicle said:

"For no reason at all, we have allowed America to pose before the world as the one true friend of China. Alone the United States has the courage to call Japan's buccaneering expedition by its right name. Are we to wonder if, as a result, our Chinese trade passes into American hands?"

STIMSON PLEADS FOR GENERAL IN U.S. CONSUL CASE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 11.—A promise on the part of Japan to punish the two Japanese soldiers and the interpreter who assaulted Culver B. Chamberlain, American consul, at Mukden on Jan. 3, has paved the way for an early settlement of the diplomatic incident.

Secretary of State Stimson, in disclosing that Japan had announced its intention of disciplining the three offenders, as well as the major general in charge of the military police, said this country would consider the incident closed as soon as the soldiers and the interpreter have been punished.

Stimson Explains Position.

Mr. Stimson suggested that the punishment of Maj. Gen. Ninamiya and his subordinate officers of the military police be remitted.

In making the state department position known, Secretary Stimson said that the United States had only held up formal acceptance of the Japanese apology pending information that the two soldiers and the interpreter, who actually beat up Chamberlain, had been punished.

Acceptance Held Up.

Immediately after the Chamberlain attack the Japanese government expressed regret for the incident, but Secretary Stimson held up American acceptance. It developed today that when Mr. Stimson proved reluctant to accept Japanese amends, Tokio initiated an independent investigation, which culminated in the decision to punish every one connected with the Mukden incident.

Myrl S. Myers, American consul general at Mukden, telegraphed the state department that the Japanese acting consul general, Mr. Moroshima, called upon him on Jan. 9 and expressed the sincere regret of his government. At that time Mr. Morshima said the Japanese government would try the interpreter by court martial, subject the two military police involved to disciplinary punishment and discipline Maj. Gen. Ninamiya, as well as his subordinate officers.

Indianapolis Building Trades Take 20% Cut

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 11.—[Special.]—A voluntary wage reduction of 20 per cent from the 1929 scale was agreed on tonight by the Marion County Building Trades council. The reduced scale will go into effect Friday and will continue until July 1, when a 5 per cent increase will become effective. The reduction was agreed on in an effort to revive the building industry and give employment to building trades workers.

FEED 'SUNSHINE' TO COWS TO GET IT BACK IN MILK

Madison, Wis., Jan. 11.—(AP)—Soon the milkman may be delivering "bottled sunlight" to your door.

Through the discovery of Dr. Harry Steenbock, University of Wisconsin professor, who gave the world a process for irradiating foods to install vitamin content, a plan has been evolved to vitamize milk in its formative stages.

If the experiment works out—and there is every indication it will, authorities said—babies can gurgle happily over their usual bottle of milk, containing the "hidden hunger" element now derived from direct sunlight or from the cod liver oil bottle.

Steenbock, who with his modern magic of the sun lamp several years ago discovered that by treating certain foods with light rays he could enhance vitamin content into foods, is responsible for the milk vitamizing experimental process.

Development of Experiment.

The vitalizating of milk is a development from Steenbock's original discovery. If you can change the vitamin action within a food by light, why not feed cows light-treated food and maybe they would give milk abundant with transferred vitamins.

In theory, the experiment was simple. It was merely the feeding of irradiated yeast to cows and transferring the vitamin content of the yeast to the cow's udder.

The Brookhill Dairy, Genesee Depot, Wis., claims its experiments along the line have been successful. Dr. Harry L. Russell, head of the Wisconsin Alumnus Research association which controls the Steenbock process, said within a short time a license will be issued to permit the dairy to produce irradiated milk.

Filled with Vitamin D.

Milk, already considered by doctors to be the almost perfect food, if the plan is entirely successful, will contain large amounts of vitamin D. Vitamin D with other substances is essential to growth and protection against certain diseases, particularly rickets.

The Brookhill dairy, one of the largest in the state, supplies milk to Milwaukee and Chicago among other cities. It plans to begin with about 20 cows in the vitamized certified field and increase the number of the herd as the demand for the product increases.

Dr. Russell said there was one other Wisconsin dairy and one in Illinois carrying on similar experiments. The license to be granted to the Brookhill company will be non-exclusive, he said.

Within a few years, Dr. Russell said, it was likely the vitamized certified milk will replace the usual certified milk in the field.

LEGISLATIVE BLACKMAIL.

The business before the lower house of the Illinois legislature is the income tax bill. The sponsors of this measure in the present session, as in previous ones, are the rural representatives. They believe they have a better chance to pass it this time because they think they have the members from Cook county in a hole from which they can escape only by accepting the income tax.

The mayor and city council of Chicago and the majority of the Chicago delegation at Springfield have asked for a change in the assessing and reviewing machinery. This change has been referred to as the essential first step in any financial relief for Chicago's local governments. Eminent bankers have said that unless the boards of assessment and review are revamped and consolidated tax collections will be uncertain and no one will lend money to fill the empty treasuries.

The house has not acted upon the proposed change in the assessment system and presumably will not act upon it until the income tax bill is disposed of. The attitude of many of the downstate members is simply this: if you will approve the income tax we will approve the assessment bill; and if you don't pay us our price we won't give you what you must have if your governments are to continue to function. You will pay us an income tax or life and property in Chicago will be imperiled. If you want to have a police department, a fire department, a health department, and public schools, you must accept the income tax.

To call this kind of thing blackmail is to dignify it. Our ship is in flames, but the boatmen refuse to take off any of the passengers and crew until the unfortunate victims have signed over their last cent as the price of rescue. Extortion is an ugly word, but there is no other to describe these tactics. To mention Jesse James and Capone in this connection is a reflection not upon the members of the legislature who have fathered this scheme of extortion but upon Capone and James who would have nothing to do with it.

The Chicago members and their allies in the cities downstate are not justified in yielding. It would be far better to face all the consequences of bankruptcy of the local governments than to submit to this unspeakable holdup.

The reform of the assessing machinery cannot conceivably cost the downstate communities a penny. It is purely and solely a Chicago matter. The only honest attitude which a member of the legislature can adopt toward it is to ask himself if the measure is calculated to relieve Chicago's financial stringency. If so, it should be passed. As every one knows, the income tax is aimed at the people of Chicago and its suburbs—at wage and salary earners. It is intended to take money out of Chicago and spend it downstate, and this at a time when Chicago is crushed by its load of taxation and Chicago governments are defaulting their bond obligations. The two measures, far from complementing each other, have opposite objectives. The downstate extortionists will support a measure intended to make the burden of taxation tolerable only if another measure is enacted to make the burden more nearly intolerable than it has ever been before.

If Chicago members yield there will be no end to future exactions. No member of the legislature representing an urban constituency will suffer in public opinion for the defeat of the income tax, even if that defeat results in the threatened defeat of the Kelly bill.

THE VICIOUS VOLSTEAD ACT.

The testimony of Dr. Yandell Henderson at a senate hearing on Senator Bingham's bill to permit 4 per cent beer emphasizes the fact that the Volstead act is not within the terms of the 18th amendment, is not authorized by the careful phraseology of the amendment, and is an abuse of power.

Dr. Henderson, professor of applied physiology at Yale university and an authority in toxicology, says: "The teaching of physiology and toxicology is that the definition of an intoxicating alcoholic beverage implied in the Volstead act excludes from use beverages which are practically nonintoxicating." He said that a beverage should not be classed as intoxicating unless the drinking of it results in from 60 to 80 cubic centimeters of absolute alcohol being absorbed by the blood in an hour. Half a gallon of 4 per cent beer an hour would not exceed this limit. There are very few consumers who would reach that amount.

The Supreme court did not hold the Volstead act valid on the ground that one-half of one per cent alcoholic content constitutes an intoxicating beverage. It held that the act was within the discretion of congress as a measure in aid of the purposes of the prohibitory amendment. A more dubious and unfortunate conclusion has never been reached by that venerable tribunal. The responsibility for the deplorable consequences of the Volstead act rests primarily, no doubt, upon congress, but in allowing so great a latitude to congressional discretion the court failed to exercise that jealous guardianship over civil rights which is its highest duty. It validated not merely an unwise measure—the court is not responsible for preventing unwise congressional action—but it showed a complaisancy toward congressional invasion of civil guaranties which goes beyond any wise doctrine of congressional discretion.

Congress, with the flagrant consequences of its mistake crying out throughout the land, should lose no time in correcting it. The Volstead act is felt by millions of Americans to be, what in effect it is, an abuse of power. Instead of being an aid to the enforcement of law, it is the chief breeder of revolt against the law and hence not an aid but a hindrance to law enforcement. It has set a dangerous precedent for the disparagement of civil rights and instead of being an aid to temperance has been a breeder of intemperance. Only organized fanaticism, with its closed mind and its passion for domination, will refuse, after years of trial, to see these truths. But congress has no higher duty than to refuse the dictatorship of fanaticism.

CONDITIONS IN HAWAII.

Senator Bingham of Connecticut has done well to demand an investigation of conditions in Hawaii. They are shocking the nation, and not only their immediate consequences but their implications are of the gravest character. The atrocious crime committed upon an American woman has had its tragic counterpart in other American communities, but they have not had the effect which seems to have been produced in Honolulu. There appears to have been more indignation aroused by the killing of one of the men charged by the victim of the crime than by the atrocity itself. Two preachers have rebuked from the pulpit an assertion by Admiral Pratt the American people will heartily indorse, that "American men will not stand for the violation of women in any circumstances." The civil prosecuting authority has announced that it will summon a grand jury at once and demand the death penalty for the husband. There is great zeal and expedition for his punishment, but the crime against his wife was perpetrated about four months ago and still remains unpunished.

Five crimes of rape were committed between the date of the crime against the naval officer's wife and the abortive trial of the men she accused, and a report of the city and county physician shows that forty such cases were investigated by physicians at the Honolulu emergency hospital during the first eleven months of the year. Meanwhile the Massie atrocity seems to have become overshadowed by race feeling and a situation has developed which the American government and people cannot tolerate.

Hawaii has been granted self-government, but the American people will not permit self-government to be a shield for the expulsion of white Americans from the islands. Japanese, Chinese, and Filipinos have become a large majority with all the privileges of citizenship. If this has resulted in creating a political domination which induces elected officials to shirk their responsibility for the protection of American rights and the punishment of crime, the régime of self-government should be withdrawn and a responsible rule substituted. The conditions in Honolulu indicate a breakdown of civilized government as well as a race conflict incompatible with the rights of white Americans in the islands, a strange situation to exist under the American flag. Unless there is prompt and drastic correction Hawaii will have to be put back under American rule with a federal governor backed by whatever forces the circumstances require.

ONE HUNDRED PER CENT WASTE.

Representative Sol Bloom of New York wanted an appropriation of $427,000 for the commission responsible for the celebration of the George Washington bicentennial. We should like to hear what the great George would say of that proposal. What he said at Monmouth, we suspect, was mild in comparison to what he would say to the ardent Sol. One of the items Mr. Bloom wants provided is $80,000 for "appreciation courses" in schools and colleges. The only appreciation that Washington would respect would be appreciation expressed in imitating his regard for thrift and the public weal. The best way for congress to show respect for the memory of Washington is not merely to cut Mr. Bloom's appropriation but to cancel it. There will be much honor done Washington this year by his countrymen throughout the nation. It will be done spontaneously and does not need the expensive high pressure salesmanship of Mr. Bloom. We know of none of our great Americans who would detest and condemn the Bloom program more than Washington, a man of business as well as a patriot who always put the public welfare above other considerations.

Editorial of the Day

NEW TAX PROBLEMS.

[The Daily Pantagraph, Bloomington, Ill.]

Of state-wide concern are the facts set forth by Judge Jarecki in his tax ruling. He laid down the premise that property owners who had been assessed need not pay their taxes, for the reason that a vast quantity of property had been omitted from the assessment rolls, thereby imposing an unjustifiable burden upon the property which was assessed.

Sixteen billions in personal property was found to be available for taxation, according to evidence in Judge Jarecki's court. But less than one billion dollars actually found its way into the assessment rolls. Judge Jarecki stated in his ruling that there was surely as much personal property as real estate in the county, and since real estate assessments totaled nine billion dollars, at least that much personal property should be assessed, instead of the mere pittance of three-quarters of a billion. Lumping real estate and personal, it was shown that barely one-third of the property of the county was listed for taxation.

Judge Jarecki inquired: "Can it be said, in view of these circumstances, that this roll which barely—under the most favorable circumstances—contains perhaps one-half of the property of this county on the books, is an assessment roll at all? Can it be said to these taxpayers that it makes no difference how much property is placed on the roll, whether it is one-half, one-third, one-fourth, or one-tenth, a roll of that kind is good, and those who happen to be caught in its meshes must carry the burdens of taxation for the entire county? I cannot agree with such a finding."

While Chicago was loudly complaining that its citizens were overtaxed, many downstate legislators and others were contending that property in Cook county by the billions was escaping all taxation.

But what next? is the question of most concern. At the very least, if the ruling of Judge Jarecki is upheld by the Supreme court, a new assessment must be made for the two years, plus one for the year 1930, which was not at issue in this case. That will require a long time. Meanwhile the state of Illinois will be holding the sack for millions of unpaid Cook county taxes.

The questions which will confront the legislature as it resumes its sessions this week can hardly be exaggerated in their importance.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

George III. Has a Happy Hour.

"Haw, haw, haw! Haw, haw, haw!" It was a roar of raucous laughter that came from the corner of the taproom that Bill Shakespeare runs over in a quiet little street the other side of the Styx.

"Goodness gracious, but this place is getting rowdy!" said Anne Boleyn peevishly to Sir Walter Raleigh. "It's as common as the speakeasies they have nowadays in America. That haw-haw bird pulling the big laugh is so tickled he'll have a stroke of apoplexy if he doesn't come out of it pretty soon. Wonder what's the big idea, anyhow?"

"Why," said Sir Walter, "that's old George Third that lost America to England, the big bonehead. Let's go over and see what he's roaring about."

"Haw, haw, haw! Haw, haw, haw!" shouted George as he rocked back and forth in another gale of merriment.

"Pardon us, your majesty," said Sir Walter as he neared the king; "permit me to introduce Anne Boleyn, whom you may not know personally, but certainly know by reputation."

"Pardon me," said William Pitt, who was sitting at the table with King George; "but if I were Anne Boleyn I don't believe I would talk much about my reputation. However, be that as it may, what is it you want to see George about?"

"We merely want to ask," said Sir Walter, "why all the ribald merriment?"

"Oh," replied Mr. Pitt. "Well, his majesty has just been giving me the razz about America. You know, they called me the friend of America, and his majesty and I had some pretty harsh words regarding the American revolution. Well, his royal highness has just heard about how things are going in the United States right now, and he is laughing over the idea that the U. S. walked out on him because of their battle cry that 'Taxation without representation is tyranny.'"

"Yes?" said Sir Walter and Anne Boleyn together.

"Well, his majesty says that from what he's heard they've got nothing else in America now but taxes, taxes, and more taxes, and they're putting up an awful holler about it. And his majesty wanted me to get hold of George Washington, Ben Franklin, John Adams, and some more of the American patriots and ask them, since they thought taxation without representation was tyranny, if they think taxation with representation, the kind they're getting now, is so very dam comical."

"Gosh!" exclaimed Sir Walter, "that's so. They kicked about a tax on tea and started a war rather than pay it, and now they're getting taxed every time they turn around or draw breath. They broke away from England because they got taxed, and now——"

CHANSON NOSTALGIQUE.

(For Gertrude, home from the Sorbonne.)

If, on the colored canvas of romance,
The alien blues and browns predominate,
Let them remain reminders of a France
That couldn't hold you quite expatriate.

Or misty rain above a cobbled pier—
Think of the times you saw a skyline loom
In dreaming of a homeland drawing near.

Recall the frequent holidays you spent
At Biarritz or Biskra (lucky girl);
Were you completely happy while you went
Laughing to join the continental whirl?

Now if a new nostalgia's discerned,
Stirring the Old World tapestry again,
Reflect a moment on a thing you learned:
How much you missed les hommes Americaine!

GERMANY SAYS she can't pay her war debts, and the rest of them over there will immediately trail along and say they can't, either. Doggone! How do those foreign birds get out of paying Uncle Sam all the money they owe him, when he jumps right on our neck if we forget to tell the income tax people about that ten dollars we found one day?

THIS THING GETS MORE COMPLICATED every minute. We just get a headache trying to understand it, and we're going to drop the whole business, turn over and try to go to sleep. And, naturally, when a fellow says he's going to say nothing more about the matter, he breaks loose with about four thousand words. What bothers us is this: A bill is about to go before congress, and will undoubtedly be passed, calling for the reclamation of the Columbia river bottom in the state of Washington, including almost 2,000,000 acres of land, which is now arid or half arid. This will make possible over 24,000 farms of 80 acres each. But with wheat farmers being begged to cut down their wheat crops or not have any at all, the tobacco raiser begged to abolish every third row of his crop or throw it in the river, the cotton grower asked to give up every other row of his cotton crop or turn the boll weevils loose in all of it, what's the use of bringing more farms into cultivation to add to overproduction? And the wise men tell us that overproduction is what made us what we are today! And then they fix things so that we can keep on overproducing. Hey, what's the big idea here, anyhow?

A MEDICAL SCIENTIST, testifying before a senate committee in Washington yesterday, said beer would be a good thing for our youth, as it was merely a harmless tonic. Well, if that's all it is, our youth is quite apt to tell beer to go take a running jump in the lake.

URIC ACID.

WHILE gout is not very prevalent there is some and a considerable number of people have an interest, sometimes unrecognized, in diets and ways of living as well as in drugs that are helpful to the gouty. While uric acid in the system is far less important than people thought it was a quarter of a century ago, it is more important than the general run of people regard it today. It does cause some kidney stones and stones elsewhere, and gravel is not unknown. There are persons who pay the penalty of having too much uric acid in some sort of a combination in the blood, and there are others who have uric acid deposits in their tissues and particularly around some of their joints.

A recently published, very good book on chronic arthritis has a chapter on gout. A section of the chapter is given to the treatment of gout. On the part devoted to diet, foods are grouped into three classes. The first, those which any one who suffers from too much uric acid should avoid; the second, those that can be eaten in moderation; and the third, those that are wholesome for the people of this group.

In the second are chicken, oysters, herring, mutton, salmon, spinach, lobster, oatmeal, crab, mushrooms, peas, beans [except string and wax], kohlrabi, asparagus, onions, bacon, whitefish, whole grain cereals, and whole grain breads.

In the third group are milk, eggs, cheese, nuts, gelatin, fruits of all kinds, fats of all kinds, vegetables of all kinds [except lentils], mushrooms, peas, beans, kohlrabi, asparagus, onions, all cereals [except those from whole grains], vegetable soups [except those made with meat and meat extracts], sugars and sweets, coffee and tea that contain no caffeine or theine, or very weak tea, coffee, cocoa.

The foods to be avoided especially are pepper, mustard, horseradish, catsup, spices, condiments, paprika, and watercress. Alcoholic beverages are to be avoided, as are rich dishes of all sorts, and heavy feeds and gorges.

There is no better way of neutralizing an excess of uric acid than by eating rather freely of potatoes, and topping the meal with bananas.

OLD DEBBIL LIKKER.

M. E. S. writes: Have just read your article entitled "Is Alcohol Ever a Medicine?" I know of a man who for 16 years had been more or less saturated with liquor, when he developed an acute case of gravel. His father before him was a daily imbiber, and he, too, developed a case of gravel.

I have had one acute attack of gravel. I dread another. But I am not going to drink liquor as a preventive, for I think it is ineffective.

REPLY.

There is no relation between kidney stones and gall stones. The people who claim that drinking tends to prevent gall stones make no such claims for kidney stones and gravel.

FLAT FINGER NAILS.

2. Not that I know of.
3. Same as answer 2.

PSYLLIUM SEED.

J. M. S. writes: What can you say for psyllium seed for the treatment of constipation?

REPLY.

It is a much better method than taking purgatives and laxatives. Psyllium seed belong in the class with flaxseed, and help in the same way in overcoming constipation.

A DICTATOR.

Chicago, Jan. 6.—What Chicago needs to get itself out of the muddle is a dictator. Owing to political ramifications this could not be brought about, but what could happen is a federal receivership. Let the federal court appoint a receiver who has no conection in either a political or business way with the city of Chicago, preferably a regular army colonel who could have as his assistants one or two lieutenant colonels and a half dozen majors. We have more talent among the officers of our regular army than most people realize and in 99 cases out of 100 army officers who have reached this grade are honest.

A mere changing of the assessing machinery of Chicago will not get us out of our difficulties. Our troubles are due to graft, extravagant expenditures and excess of job holders. A receiver with an unbiased mind could make a clean sweep of the whole situation. Receiver certificates could be authorized by the court for sufficient money to take care of current expenditures and these certificates would bear a much lower rate of interest than we are going to pay on 1932 tax anticipation warrants, if anybody will buy them.

An action of this kind would keep the city going and in the meantime we could have our assessments to cover 1928, 1929, 1930, and 1931 and put the tax bills into collection based on the new assessment, applying the proceeds of the collection to the payment of outstanding obligations and warrants incurred prior to Jan. 1, 1932. This might even necessitate some funding of the outstanding obligations, but under a receivership this could be done without the hampering influences which we have today—namely: political, banking and private interest, all of whom are trying to look out for themselves first and the city last.

A receiver would not hurt the credit of the city because there is nothing left to hurt and putting our house in order would reëstablish credit and free us for a long time to come of those influences which have dragged the city down.

The same suggestion applies for the sanitary district, board of education and the county. W. R. DRENNAN.

INSTRUCTION BY RADIO.

Chicago, Jan. 6.—The suggestion in yesterday's TRIBUNE to teach by radio, if the schools should close, may prove very practical if put to the test.

In teaching by radio one of the problems to meet, as our morning paper points out, is that of supervising the children's study and mastery of lessons. That may not be such a difficult problem, after all. THE TRIBUNE points out the fact that the child will have a place to study, and that is in his own home. Why should not the teacher be the pupil's study supervisor? She could make the rounds of fifty or seventy-five pupils of a neighborhood a time or two each day, or could have them meet her in groups for review of their work, in residences of the neighborhood. Chicago's 1931 operation and maintenance budget for elementary day schools alone exceeds $9,000,000, according to the official report of the proceedings of the board of education of June 8, 1931. Most of this $9,000,000 would be saved by having the school buildings closed, and we might discover, indeed, by such a procedure, that these colossal and luxuriously furnished school buildings are about as necessary in the process of teaching our children as telegraph poles are necessary in transmitting wireless messages.

BUSINESS MAN.

IN THE DARK.

Chicago, Jan. 8.—I am a resident of Rogers Park and for the last few months I have had the displeasure of returning home from work, plodding my weary way through unlighted streets.

That isn't all. After dinner if I wish to shoot a little bridge with a neighbor I have to step out of my door, lay a course with the nearest stop light and proceed by dead reckoning. I must further relate that this part is easy compared with the coming home after a social visit. The hour is late, the streets are deserted, times are pretty bad, and I can't afford cast iron underwear. Friend, it's just too serious for words.

For the last two weeks the lights on Touhy avenue from the elevated tracks to Sheridan road and on Glenwood from Touhy to Morse avenue failed to light on the following nights: Dec. 25, Jan. 5, and Jan. 7.

On or about Dec. 23 a young girl about 10 years old was dreadfully frightened by a man in a vacant lot adjacent to the corner of Touhy avenue and Glenwood. This was reported to the police at the time of its occurrence. EDWARD GREER.

DEATH AS A SPECTACLE.

Chicago, Jan. 8.—According to THE TRIBUNE this morning, the sheriff and warden invited 500 people to see the electrocution of Frank H. Bell. To make such a spectacle of the death of a man is nauseating, but, then, what can you expect from politicians? Maybe this is merely a feeler for holding future executions in the Stadium or Soldiers' field.

A PUBLIC IMPROVEMENT.

Chicago, Dec. 29.—[Friend of the People.]—Would like information regarding the widening of North Cicero avenue, especially the very peculiar way a surveyor told me it would be done. Understand it will be widened on the west side of Cicero avenue up to Argyle street and then will be bottlenecked. Property owners in this vicinity are decidedly against this. Recently stubs were put in for sewers on some vacant property from Ainslie street north on both sides of Cicero avenue and sidewalks torn up remain in that condition. We gave no permission for this.

M. A. K.

The widening and improvement of Cicero avenue north of Lawrence avenue is part of the general plan to make this a through state highway for the entire length of Cook county. The widening is mostly on the west side of the street south of Argyle street in order to fit with the subway under the railroad tracks, but at no place is the street narrower than 100 feet, except at the subway. The costs of the assessment for widening are very small, so that any owner whose property is taken receives an award much greater than his assessment. In addition to this, the county expects to pave the street so that there will be no burden on the frontage for that part of the improvement. House drains were put in after confirmation in the County court in the usual manner in advance of pavement. Any damage to sidewalks will be repaired temporarily pending the permanent improvement. Your correspondent may have full information concerning all of this work at the board of local improvements, 207 city hall.

FIND ASSETS FIRST.

Lake Villa, Ill., Dec. 29.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I loaned a man some money five years ago, secured by personal property which proved to be worthless. I am holding a judgment note and a personal check against him. I turned the note in for collection four years ago, but so far have not realized anything. The man changes address often and I don't know his present whereabouts.

1. May I demand action on the judgment held by the collection agency or have the note together with judgment returned to me? The check could not be cashed because of insufficient funds.
2. What would you advise me to do?

P. L.

1. Yes, but you would have to pay them for services that they have already performed.
2. If you cannot find him or his assets then there is nothing effective to suggest.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

MAY GET FINAL PAPERS.

Wauwatosa, Wis., Jan. 6.—[Friend of the People.]—My wife and I came to the United States in 1911. In March, 1931, I became a citizen of the United States. Is it necessary that my wife go through the same examination, naturalization fees, etc.? J. C. S.

Yes, except that she does not require a declaration of intention. She may apply for final papers immediately. The fee will be $5 for a certificate of arrival; $10 is the clerk's fee for filing her petition.

FRED J. SCHLOTFELDT,
District Director U. S. Dept. of Labor.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

This nation has had other serious financial depressions, as the following excerpts from The Tribune files reveal. Each of these periods of hard times has been followed by periods of great prosperity.

New York, Oct. 10.—Rumors of an unfavorable character reflecting upon the stability of several mercantile houses were circulated in Wall street and had a depressing effect on the market. To add to the gloom the failure of Gibson, Casanova & Co., bankers, who had become embarrassed by the withdrawal of western deposits and advances made to the Jacksonville, Northwestern and Southeastern railway in Illinois, was announced. The stock market was very much depressed, declining from 1 to 10 per cent in the entire list. Western Union declined 10¼ per cent, the annual report being regarded as unfavorable.

1894.

San Antonio, Tex., March 19.—Sixty unemployed workmen left on a Southern Pacific train for Los Angeles to join the industrial army and participate in the march on Washington.

Chicopee, Mass., Dec. 17.—The Stevens-Duryea Automobile company and the Fisk Rubber company have made further reductions in operating force.

Waltham, Mass., Dec. 17.—Notices were posted by the American Watch company that the factory would close from Dec. 24 to 30, and that after Jan. 1 the working hours would be 45 hours a week, a reduction of one hour a day.

Easton, Pa., Dec. 17.—The Alpha Portland Cement company announced that one of its mills at Alpha, N. J., will be closed on Dec. 24. Nearly 500 will be laid off.

New York, March 13.—Directors of the United States Express company voted today to wind up its affairs and have it go out of business.

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

JANUARY 12, 1916.

EL PASO, Tex.—Sixteen American mining men, two of them Chicagoans, have been killed by Mexican bandits near Chihuahua, according to a story telegraphed here by the seventeenth member of the party, who escaped after he and his companions had been taken from the train on which they were traveling to Chihuahua and lined up to be shot. C. R. Watson, manager of a large mining company, and W. J. Wallace are the two Chicagoans. The men were stripped naked before they were lined up to be killed. Thomas M. Holmes of this city was the man who escaped.

WAR NEWS.—Reports on results of the big German drive in the Champagne conflict. Paris says the Germans have been expelled from all but one section of the trenches they recently won. Berlin insists that determined attempts by the French to recapture these positions, which are northwest of Messiges, have been repulsed. Telegrams from Bucharest state that a second plot against King Ferdinand has been discovered in Sofia and that several arrests have been made, including some army officers. The torpedoing of a German auxiliary vessel, presumably by a British submarine, on Dec. 22 is revealed by the official gazette in London.

JANUARY 12, 1902.

NEW YORK.—Richard Croker abdicated as the leader of Tammany Hall and named Lewis Nixon as his successor. Mr. Croker will sail for Europe about Feb. 15 and the time of his return to this country is entirely problematical. His retirement from the control of Tammany Hall apparently was absolute. Nixon is a naval constructor and noted as the designer of the battleship Oregon while he was in the government service. He is 40 years old.

NEW YORK.—The late Ward McAllister took upon himself the task of determining how many persons might properly be considered to be in fashionable society in the city of New York. It was a rather formidable undertaking, but his friend, the Rev. Dr. Charles Wilbur Le Lyon Nichols of Nichols, Conn., has assumed a much bigger one, and he believes has completed it. Dr. Nichols attempted nothing less than to set himself up as social arbiter and determine the number of persons who might properly be considered in fashionable society in the whole United States. In Chicago he names Mr. and Mrs. Potter Palmer and Mr. and Mrs. Hobart Chatfield-Chatfield Taylor. He named Mrs. William Astor of New York as the one leader in the nation, and finds no one fitted to take her place.

WASHINGTON.—Rats are overrunning the White House. This is one of the reasons why a new executive mansion should be built. The present residence of the President is undermined with the rodents and has been for years. It is probable they got their start from the stables. The problem of getting rid of them has become serious to Col. Bingham, custodian of the historic building.

Paradox Key to Strange Life of Frank Harris

Whom Shaw Denounced and Befriended.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

FRANK HARRIS.

One of the strangest human histories of our day is the life story of Frank Harris. In its span of seventy-six years its chapters had every conceivable heading from "The Greatest Editor of His Day," "The Most Sought After Social Figure of London," to "Well Known Writer in Prison," or "Dire Poverty Faces Prominent Penman." Everything that happened in the life of Frank Harris happened in superlatives. The fact that the superlatives of his life were not adequately thrilling to him made him invent even more fantastic "mosts." That, however, according to the authors of this definitive and authorized biography of him, was not a fault inherent alone in Frank Harris.

"There is something," they say, "ludicrous and something pathetic in these empty fabrications. Harris might have written the story of his whole career and made of it an Arabian romance, the most exciting drama of our day and yet he could still have hugged the bosom of truth; for the man did live an astonishing life. It is a paradox that the adventureless, the cloistered, and the near emasculated tell of their colorless lives with painful fidelity to the colorless facts; whereas the Casanovas and the Rousseaus, the Frank Harrises who have lived through superexcitations and experiences more astonishing than their wildest tales, are given to exaggeration. It is as though the exciting truth were not stimulating enough for them; they must adventure anew through the magic of words."

Much of the task of the authors is extracting from the letters, the published writings, and the spoken words of Frank Harris the truth, not as Harris saw it, but as absolutely factual writing would record it.

Incredible as Mr. Harris appeared to himself, he emerges from their findings even more incredible. Every extreme of social and moral impulse apparently drove him at one time or another. He would give a beggar his last cent and refuse to pay contributors whom he knew to be in desperate financial need. Blackmail, sharp practice, unquestionably crooked financial dealings accompanied an almost religious austerity in devotion to literary ideals. "Frank Harris has betrayed many friends," the two biographers quote from "one who had felt the Judas sting," but "he has never betrayed literature."

Without estimating critically at any length Frank Harris' literary work, the authors do make the reader understand the pertinence of that remark: "Through all the hectic marauding of the ego crazed careerist there was the unquenchable, unstified fire of the artist."

To this generation the name of Frank Harris is the name of the man who wrote the most shocking book of his generation, an autobiography which won cries of astonishment from the entire English reading world. It was banned in more countries than was any other book of its day. But to an earlier generation, that of the '90s, Frank Harris was the name of the most spectacular figure of the day. When he started the Saturday Review the ablest men of his day were on its staff. He chose H. G. Wells as one of its literary reviewers. An almost unknown critic of music, he lured, with a salary of four pounds a week, to the chair of dramatic criticism, and that young man was George Bernard Shaw.

It is another of the ironic facts of the life of Frank Harris that it should have been through his friendship with Shaw, begun when Harris had money and power and patronized that young man, two years his junior, that Harris' last days should have been made more bearable. Shaw's amused help in the biography which Harris wrote of him, and which was published a few weeks ago, was the means of aiding Harris financially at a time when such aid was vital.

The most valuable parts of that biography are Shaw's letters, and in allowing Harris to print them Shaw made a gesture of charitable friendship—one of the few publicly sentimental acts of Shaw's almost professionally unsentimental life. And Shaw did that for a man whom he believed to be, as he once wrote to Harris himself, "the most impossible ruffian on the face of the earth."

"Frank Harris," as offered by Tobin and Gertz, is a serious, a studious, an unimpassioned study of a literary figure whose career, in both its lights and its shades, was the most spectacular of its generation. This biography is the "authorized" life.

Good morning!

There is an unhappy land, far, far away
Where saints in glory do NOT stand
Bright, bright as day!
(With apologies to the old hymn.)

This "unhappy land" knows no extradition laws and here drift unsavory members of the earth's flotsam and jetsam to get what joy they can out of an isolation that must be as complete as that of a leper colony, but where they are safe from the police and courts and punishments from which they have fled.

To this tropical island in the Indies a girl is smuggled by her lover, a clean living, God fearing young ship's officer. Her name is Gilda Carlson and she believes that she has killed a man. She had told her Carl of her predicament, hopelessly thinking that he would be through with her forever. To her surprise and undying gratitude he has shouldered the blame—"If I hadn't left you alone so long it never would have happened . . ."—secreted her in his ship's hold and carried her off to the only place where she will be safe. [You don't just see how he manages to do all he does without attracting some attention from the captain, but he gets his darling ashore at last, with nobody, apparently, being the wiser.]

No sooner has the fugitive landed than she is the target for the lecherous eyes of the island's male driftwood. Realizing Gilda's danger, Carl marries her by the Book, there being no priest available—and Gilda vows that never, so long as she lives shall there be another man in her life.

Her faithfulness to this promise bears strange, dark fruit. The picture must tell you the rest of the story.

The acting is, without exception, excellent. Miss Mackaill gives a touching and hard boiled performance—and if you think those adjectives shouldn't go together, just watch her work! Nina Mae McKinney—remember her in "Hallelujah"?—makes her rôle of unmoral hotel landlady important, though, really it is only a minor one. Performances by Donald Cook, Victor Varconi, Charles Middleton and Noble Johnson stand out compellingly.

This, I've been told, is Hollywood's answer to "Once in a Lifetime"—the play that kidded the movie colony in a manner the latter will never forget.

The film aspires to be a satire on play making, and would ridicule the stage and all its works even as the "legit" has done unto the cinema producers. Good idea—and the picture certainly DOES have its moments. Trouble is, these moments don't come as often as you might wish, and both dialogue and plot lack the whang that made "Once in a Lifetime" such persistently provocative entertainment.

Winnie Lightner is discovered as a lady in the costume producing business. She and her husband are partners and her charm and clear head have, you can see, made the concern the success it is. At her spouse's entreaty that she become just a little woman at home and "give Junior the mother's care to which he is entitled" she resigns. Whereupon hubby starts all kinds of monkey business that ends as you shall see. The rôle is one that wins a lot of sympathy for Miss Lightner, who can be mighty lovable and look awfully sweet when she's cast that way.

Charles Butterworth is head of the company's research department, and he is forever popping up with facts. "Henry the Eighth wore a night shirt," says Mr. B., with his air of imparting tidings the world has been waiting for. "Madam, Abraham Lincoln did NOT wear polka dot ties! They were not in at that time," sezze over the phone. Then, firmly, "No, madam, that was not a polka dot. I know gravy when I see it . . ." As always, he's a delight in his sedately nutty fashion.

The best scenes are those in which a crazy Russian convinces Broadway that he's a genius. Jack and Lou, as a pair of producers who think themselves rivals of Ziegfeld, are quite funnily impersonated by Smith and Dale, survivors of the Avon Comedy Four. Their scenes are too long drawn out—but some of their lines are comical and the boys themselves have a swell sense of slapstick. They, Butterworth and Louis Alberno as the Russian provide the "kick" characterizations of the piece.

The film's in color, and you should, I think, find it reasonably amusing.

THE STAGE

JACOB BEN-AMI, an actor of distinction in art theater ventures, will begin an engagement next Sunday evening at the Adelphi theater in "Samson and Delilah," a revival of his first success on the English-speaking stage. He has a Russian background, and his first American acting was done in Yiddish at the Jewish Art theater, New York, where he made a vivid impression during the season of 1919-1920. Arthur Hopkins then persuaded him to study English and launched him upon a Broadway career.

"Samson and Delilah," staged in 1920, marked his debut in English. He brought the play to Chicago for a brief engagement at the Playhouse that winter. Since then he has appeared in "The Idle Inn," "Johannes Kreisler," "The Failures," "Welded," "Man and the Masses," "Schweiger," "John," an all-star revival of "Diplomacy," and "The Goat Song"—the latter a Theater Guild production. Ben-Ami's recent activities have been in leading rôles with Eva La Gallienne's Civic Repertory theater in New York.

Morgan Farley, not Douglass Montgomery, will appear as the hero of "Fata Morgana" when that play comes to the Harris theater Jan. 25 under the auspices of the Dramatic league. Miss Ara Gerald, an English actress, is also featured in the company. Mr. Farley's last acting in Chicago was as the central figure in the dramatization of Theodore Dreiser's "An American Tragedy."

Forty theatrical men representing every organized group on the legitimate stage met at the Hotel Astor, New York, yesterday to plan a campaign against Secretary of the Treasury Mellon's proposal of a 10 per cent admission tax. The various theatrical factions, usually in disagreement, found themselves so much in accord that they took steps to form a permanent national organization.

Barrie's "A Kiss for Cinderella" will be staged at the Goodman theater next Saturday afternoon for a series of children's matinées. . . . The next production by the students of the Goodman's school of acting will be Pirandello's "Right You Are." It will be given Feb. 8, 9, 10, and 11. C. C.

More Funds Needed for School Lunch for Hungry Pupils

The acute need for additional funds to provide free lunches for needy children in the public schools was described yesterday by Miss Frances Swain, director of household arts for the board of education, in a letter to THE TRIBUNE.

For the last few months the board of education, through William J. Bogan, superintendent of schools, has distributed to the schools THE TRIBUNE'S Hungry School Children's fund.

The advisory committee on school lunches is faced with the necessity of making the very difficult decision as to whether we should continue spending the fund at our present rate, approximately $3,000 a week, or attempt to cut off some schools or cut down allowances, said Miss Swain. "Up to the present time 211 schools have received help.

"It was unanimously agreed that if we are to meet the needs for which we are organized, it is unwise to make drastic cuts in allowance. We are receiving appeals for help from schools which have not been on our list. A large number of those at present receiving aid are asking for increased funds."

Only $83.06 arrived yesterday toward the weekly $3,000 needed for distribution among the schools. These contributions are as follows:

$50—J. Marks, John E. Clark & Co.
$10—Betty W. Mayer.
$5—Mrs. Thos. R. Philbin, Slovak Priadky association.

Total	$83.06
Previously acknowledged	31,518.98
Grand total	$31,602.04

Contributions should be sent to the cashier of THE TRIBUNE, Tribune Tower. Acknowledgment is made through the columns of this newspaper.

'Y' Men Debate Letting Women Into College

Advisory Group's Head Favors Change.

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

The admittance of women to the classes of the Central Y. M. C. A. College of Arts and Sciences was proposed yesterday by the students' advisory council at a meeting in Central branch, 19 South La Salle street.

The council was organized recently by Dean Emery W. Balduf to act as a critical group "whose duty is to criticize frankly faculty ethics, contents of courses, and methods of teaching." The thirty members were chosen for their "superior scholarship and mature judgment." Their opinions are to be presented to the faculty administrative body by Dean Balduf.

"Women are a necessary part of higher education and should be admitted to Y. M. C. A. college classes," declared Clarence Bayne, 12050 Stewart avenue, chairman of the council. Bayne entered the college on a scholarship from Fenger High school.

"Most of us come from high schools where we had co-education. We feel we should have co-education at the Y. M. C. A. school," he said. "Women are a part of social education and it is broadening to have their point of view in the class room.

"Some of the fellows, however, feel that the presence of women is distracting. They'd much rather go to a school where women are barred, because then such men are not hampered in class room discussion. These men are in the minority. The majority of us feel that most of the women who would attend the classes would be earning their own living, would not be the frivolous type, and that they could contribute much to class room discussion."

During a three weeks of courses last fall 105 women inquired at the Y. M. C. A. if they might enter the college classes. In August at the meeting of the Y. M. C. A. national council in Cleveland, the question of admitting women to equal privileges in the Young Men's Christian association was discussed, but deferred for a year after Mrs. Robert E. Speer of New York, president of the national board of the Young Women's Christian association, outlined her objections.

Dean Balduf called attention to the increasing feeling of friendship between the students and the faculty in informal discussion after classes, a practice common in the earlier days of education.

"It is a common thing right here in Chicago for a faculty member and a few students to carry their discussion from the classroom to a restaurant. This is especially true of the evening students who will spend two or three hours with their instructor drinking coffee and discussing not only classroom subjects but the economic and social problems of the day.

"The faculty members find that mature students have ideas as valuable as the instructor in many subjects."

HOOVERS' GUEST

MISS DIXIE JEANE GREGG.

Miss Dixie Jeane Gregg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Gregg of Glen Ellyn, has returned from a holiday visit to Washington, D. C., where she was the guest of her uncle, William N. Doak, secretary of labor. Miss Gregg attended the annual dinner given by President and Mrs. Hoover for the members of the cabinet and their wives on Christmas night, and also the dance given at the White House on the Wednesday after Christmas by Allan Hoover.

TINTED TOENAILS FOR BOSTONESE NEW THREAT OF FASHION

Boston, Mass., Jan. 11.—(AP)—America's more audacious daughters will be seen at formal balls this spring and summer in stockingless sandals, between the widely separated straps of which will peep toenails tinted to match lips and finger nails.

The Roman sandal motif, widely featured at the 10th annual Boston shoe show, which opened today, also was carried out in pajama sandals for beach wear and open work mules for boudoir wear.

Television Task Still Is Great, Engineer Says

Far Harder than Sound Problem, He Avers.

Development of television to the degree of clarity that radio telephony has reached is not likely for a good many years to come. That is due to the more difficult problems involved in the transition of images into electrical impulses, and their retransition into images.

Dr. J. O. Perrine, director of development and research of the Bell laboratories of New York, one of the foremost authorities on television, yesterday concluded a short but rather detailed demonstration of the development of existing television equipment with that statement. He spoke before the Advertising Men's post of the American Legion at the Hotel Sherman.

"The essential problem lies in the difference between the eye and the ear," Dr. Perrine said. 'The ear receives but 8,000 or 9,000 sound impulses a second when you are listening to a clear reproduction of a fine orchestra over the radio. But to receive the impression of an equally fine image, the eye must receive about 5,000,000 sight impulses a second.

"We have not been able to develop television equipment as yet that will approach the reproduction of 5,000,000 sight impulses a second, and for that reason the images we transmit and receive are hazy and lack depth. When the subject moves they are jerky and unreal. We have progressed considerably in our experiments, but we are far from the attainment of satisfactory television.

"Today it would take 100 radio broadcasting stations to transmit enough electrical impulses, registered by photo-electric eyes, to make a really fine image at the receiving station when they were finally combined and all projected on the same screen. Using all those stations—which is absurd, of course—we would transmit sixteen images a second, each of which would be composed of about 250,000 electrical impulses, created by the scanning of the subject by a rapidly moving spot of light.

"With our present equipment we are quite unable to create electrical impulses at more than one-half this speed, and consequently our images at the receiving end are only one-half as clear as they could be. I do not believe television can be put to as practical use as the telephone or the radio until we have developed our equipment considerably."

Lions Club Marks Its Founders' Day in the Hotel La Salle

Members of the Central Lions club will observe Founders' day at a luncheon today in the La Salle hotel. The club will also observe the birthday of Melvin Jones, who founded the International association in 1917, and who has served as secretary-general of the Lions since their beginning.

At the same time the 28,000 Lions clubs of the United States and Canada will conduct programs this week to honor founders of the association, which now has 81,000 members.

Mr. Jones was a member of the Business Circle of Chicago, founded by Frank Frye, in 1914. He conceived the idea of organizing the Lions association on the basis of service. Lions clubs carried on relief for the blind, boys' work and civic improvement campaigns last year.

It's Surprising How Kitchens Are Improved

Household Bar Hinged on Back of Door.

Chicago's women would have been in their seventh heaven yesterday had they been invited to wander up and down the corridors of the fifth, sixth, and seventh floors of the Stevens hotel discovering the merits of the latest household gadgets.

Buyers and sellers, however, made up for lack of feminine enthusiasm as they explained the mechanisms and sang the praises of improved housewares on exhibit at the fifth annual exposition of the National House Furnishing Manufacturers.

"Take this buffet, for instance," said one dealer pointing to a cabinet with shelves six inches deep, attached to a door panel. "Swing it out like this and you have a cupboard for your choicest liquors. Lift up the folding table anchored to the center shelf, attach it to door, and you have as nice a bar as you'd wish. Shelves, hooks, everything, even a chromium plated key lock for the safe protection of the contents. They come in any color."

Another dealer pointed with pride to the latest style in kitchen ranges. He was quick to bring out features that would please a housewife, such as the absence of outside fittings with their abundance of metal to polish.

"This range really looks more like a chest of drawers than a kitchen stove," he began. "Here are six burners, but you drop down the lid and when the stove isn't in use, and your stove top is just like a table. You notice, too, that the drawers all have handles similar to those on a chest."

There are a good many tricky numbers on exhibit and when the women see them they will wonder why on earth some one hadn't had the bright idea before. For instance, there's the combination screen and card table on a wrought iron base; the simple little instrument that plays a Mme. Guillotine for hard cooked eggs—slices them neatly with one stroke; and, according to the dealers, a "barman's dream," being a utensil that opens corked or capped bottles and also mixes drinks.

The man who has to hunt for his shriveled toothpaste or shaving cream in the gloomy corners behind his wife's dozen jars of cold cream, etc., will thank the designer of the tube rack. One variety hangs the tubes from the ceiling of the shelf, while another stands them up like soldiers on parade.

The poor working girl who does her nightly wash in the bathroom will find use for a wooden rack that fits on the edges of the bath tub. Then there's the square skillet with divisions so that eggs and bacon may be cooked at once; paper cups guaranteed to keep cold drinks cold, and hot drinks hot; the automatic lemon divider that, with one down ward push, divides the lemon equally in ten divisions "without squirting, loss of juice, or soiling of hands."

There are other gadgets such as a toothpaste dispenser that squirts toothpaste on a brush with one twist of the handle, a clothesline reel that takes care of the whole family's laundry, a dish drying rack with flat quarter inch steel rods and rubber bumpers so constructed that dishes won't go into a tumbling act.

One dealer displayed a wide variety of copper kitchen ware as bright as a new penny. There were bath tubs for babies with a frieze of illustrated nursery rhymes inside, anew type of bowling scientific enough for the man of the house to play that can be set up on a card table, and new irons that make diamond shaped waffles.

Opera of "Aida" Again Sells All Seats in House

Verdi's "Aida," always one of the most popular operas of the repertoire, is sold out again. Earlier in the season more than 1,000 patrons were turned away from a Saturday night performance of that opera. Because of popular demand another performance at popular prices was scheduled for Friday of this week, and the last ticket was sold on last Friday evening, just a week before the performance. An enormous mail order and a heavy demand from guarantors and coupon book holders was recorded. There were more than 200 unfilled mail orders. The largest mail order of the season was recorded for the performance of Carmen on Monday, Jan. 18.

WASHINGTON CROSSING THE DELAWARE BACK FROM MUSEUM CELLAR

New York, Jan. 11.—(AP)—The Metropolitan museum blew the dust off "Washington Crossing the Delaware" today and decided to hang it up again.

Recently somebody discovered the familiar painting was not in its accustomed place. Patriotic organizations protested.

Willian Sloane Coffin, president of the museum board, retorted that the patriots were rather slow to miss it. It had been taken down two or three years ago.

Then the patriots, in one group after another, bid to borrow the picture during the Washington bicentennial.

Mr. Coffin issued another statement today, telling them all nobody would borrow it until after the bicentennial exhibition. The museum wants it after all. It will be hung in the American wing, beginning Feb. 16.

He assured every one the painting "cannot be classified as a masterpiece, nor is it an accurate historical record."

"Nevertheless," he continued, "we believe that it is both fitting and desirable that this picture should be shown at the time of the Washington bicentennial, and shown in the Metropolitan Museum of Art, because, in spite of obvious defects, it has great interest for many people in this country who are accustomed to seeing copies of this picture in their schoolbooks."

Authors Should Be Read, Not Heard, Writer Says

New Haven, Conn., Jan. 11.—Edna Ferber offered a bit of advice today to her fellow novelists.

"Authors should be read and not seen or heard," she told a Yale audience in her first address in five years.

Miss Ferber decried a desire for publicity which she said had caused writers to turn "all sorts of first page handsprings.

"It is generally conceded that authors are queer, but whether they are queer because they write or write because they are queer, I have not decided," she concluded.

Parisian Expert Calls Clean Face Way to Beauty

New York, Jan. 11.—(AP)—Ordinary soap and water are the best aids to beauty, Mme. Martine Haubert, French beauty specialist visiting here, said today.

"They are the only agents that can actually clean the skin," Mme. Haubert said.

"Cosmetics and the beautification of women are surrounded by hokum and often flagrant harm," she added.

LAST YEAR'S WIFE

By ALICE M. WILLIAMSON

SYNOPSIS.

Lorne Carlton and Dick Farrow, popular moving picture stars of Hollywood, sail for Europe on a delayed honeymoon after a year's happy marriage. Lorne is sad about leaving, as she has an undefinable presentment of trouble, but Dick is anxious for the adventure. Dick's parents are famous on the stage. Lorne, who fought her way through poverty to the heights, feels that she is not approved by the elder Farrows. Dolores, the Duchess of Crowninshield, a friend of Dick's parents, has invited the young couple to be her guests in London. She is divorced from the duke, but is one of England's most important hostesses. From the first moment of their meeting Dick is a willing captive of the beautiful and charming duchess.

INSTALLMENT VIII.

A SILENT TUG-OF-WAR.

The car brought them through stately London streets such as Lorne had seen before only when built up on a studio lot for an expensive picture.

This house in Queen Anne's square was not the ducal mansion in which Dolores had reigned during her married life. Dolores had made a new home for herself in the London where she was adored by all the right people, and a beautiful home it was—for she had perfect taste and plenty of money.

Lorne felt the thrill of Dick's excitement coming into London; an excitement which she was too spent to feel personally. She rather despised the boy for his careful choice of words, meant to impress the duchess with his intelligence and wit.

Dick was behaving like a handsome jumping Jack, whose strings the duchess pulled to make him dance, and, in a hot, hateful way, Lorne enjoyed condemning him. Yet she knew that, far down in the depths of her, she loved him as much as ever, perhaps more.

"You are Spanish born!" exclaimed Dick. "Yet there can't be anything in England more English than this."

"Yes," said Dolores, "because the only perfect things in England are the things most English. But I have one Spanish room. It is my own, very specially my own. It is almost secret! It is what I call my 'out,' for when I am there I'm out to every one who isn't in it with me at the time."

"Hello!" his wife greeted him.

"I suppose, then, I shall never see it?" Dick laughed boldly, his eyes contradicting his words.

"You will see it," answered Dolores. "You will see it as often as you like."

Nothing was said about Lorne seeing the secret Spanish room. Perhaps they took it for granted that she would visit it with Dick as a matter of course. Or, perhaps, they had forgotten her at the moment.

"Not that I'd go into the den, if she begged me on her knees!" Lorne told herself, like an angry child.

Then she could almost have laughed.

"A nice way to feel towards your hostess, when you're beginning a visit."

They entered a charming paneled hall with Spanish as well as British ancestral portraits on the walls, one or two pieces of tapestry, and Queen Anne cabinets containing china which, Lorne grudgingly granted, might be "museum pieces" for all she knew.

It was the same all over the big, unpretentious and utterly beautiful house in Queen Anne's square. Everything pleased and soothed both mind and senses, making remembered gorgeousness tawdry. How keenly Dick would feel that, Lorne thought. His home at Beverley Hills, in which they had taken such delight, would be "gimcrack" in his eyes after this. Not that there was anything ostentatious about the little place, but, well, it just was imitation. And Lorne began to feel doubtful about the genuineness of their beloved "antiques."

"Maybe we'll want to buy everything different and furnish all over again when we come back," Dick had said, among other unforgotten things, on their last day at home.

Now, on this their first day in London, Lorne told herself that she couldn't see Mr. and Mrs. Dick Farrow ever going back "home" together contented and happy. In Italy, in France, they had constantly talked of their return, looking forward to it with ever renewed joy. But they wouldn't do so again. Not after London. Not after the duchess.

They were given separate rooms, with a door between, Lorne's somewhat larger and more elaborate than Dick's. But both were perfection. This separation was, no doubt, the right thing in the duchess' set, and when she came up with her guests to "see if they were comfortable," the arrangement was taken for granted, without comment.

Dinner was to be at an even later hour than was fashionable in Hollywood's most smart and English circles, so that Lorne had plenty of time to "spread herself." She decided to put on a new dress which Dick hadn't yet seen. It was a Paris gown, just bought. It had been moulded by Molyneux to emphasize each delicate Tanagra curve and line of her famous figure, and Lorne had meant to save it for some far grander function than a quiet dinner for three in a London house. But it was such a marvel of discreet suggestion! Mightn't it do something to Dick? Mightn't it show him in a flash that his wife had everything worth having; that no woman could be more alluring, more desirable than she was? Mightn't the picture she would make in the dress jerk him back to his senses before he'd had time to slip too far away? . . . Well, the experiment could do no harm, even if it did no good!

Lorne had decided, during the drive between Croydon and London, that she wasn't going to do battle in any vulgar way for Dick, with Dolores, duchess. All the same, a few tests in a silent tug-of-war must be tried out; and the artist in Dick made him very satisfactory as a rule in noticing the details of new clothes.

When she had got rid of the maid, who dropped condescendingly into English on discovering that young Mrs. Farrow knew about six words of French, Lorne tapped at Dick's closed door and walked in.

"Hello!" his wife greeted him.

"Hello!" answered the handsome young man, who stood before a mirror on a tallboy, and didn't turn.

He didn't say "Hello, Eyes," or "Burning Beauty," or anything. Just "Hello!"

He could see her reflection behind him in the mirror, but he wasn't looking at it. He was very much engaged for the instant in looking at his own. Deeply concentrating on the process, Dick gave the raven wing of his black hair an extra polish with a pair of silver backed military brushes. They happened to come from a fitted dressing bag of crocodile skin which had cost Lorne nine hundred of her hard earned, but plentiful, dollars, as a last Christmas offering to her adored man. He often spoke of the pleasure it gave him, and blessed the giver. But there was no room for her in his thoughts at this important moment.

Even when Lorne experimentally approached him, her image in the mirror near enough to his for one of their well known "close-ups" on the screen, Dick was still seeking for some possible flaw in himself. His blue eyes criticized the white smoothness of his dress shirt, and the fit of his evening coat, which he was wishing had been built by a London tailor.

It was only when he had finished, and was apparently more or less satisfied [as well as he might be], that he turned from the mirror and, walking away from it, vouchsafed Lorne a dreamy smile as he passed. It was exactly the kind of smile she had grown to associate with Dick's throes of verse composing, or the brain racking hunt for a first line in a new chapter. A kind and absentminded smile for an outsider.

"I was just thinking," said Lorne, "that we make a charming couple."

She didn't directly draw his attention to the Molyneux creation, but if this speech failed to do so, anything else would fail, too. But there she stood, in great beauty, such beauty as her type provided, and she had dusted on so much powder that not a single freckle showed. In her long satin frock of creamy white, she gleamed like a pearl.

"What do you think? Am I wrong—or right, about us?"

"Yeah, we're not too torpid," answered Dick. Patting his white tie, which apparently engaged much of his interest, he ran a critical glance over his wife from head to foot; not as if he were admiring perfection, but rather as if he were keen to judge how far Hollywood perfection might compare with the Dolores Crowninshield variety. Naturally, he was anxious that Mrs. Dick Farrow [not Miss Lorne Carlton, the film favorite of a million fans] should hold her own with the duchess. "Not too torpid," he repeated. "In fact, I don't see a thing the matter with you."

New Coiffures Show Wide Variety and Achieve Real Beauty

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Yesterday we were talking about the 1932 styles in hairdressing as presented by the American body of dictators, the Coiffure guild, at a recent showing.

Because hairdressing is taking a place in feminine interest and activity along with dress, we feel there's more to say today on the subject. One thing that interests me greatly is the manner in which women are getting away successfully from copy-catting each other's style of coiffure. The way in which they are trying to work out a little originality for themselves! Or, perhaps, rather than originality we might say getting the hair style that brings out the best points of profile, neckline and face.

There's a great deal of beauty still to be extracted from coiffures. Besides getting a new and flattering twist to the hair, or cut, women are making themselves more interesting. They're not finding one style and sticking to it, they did in the bobed era, let's say. At that time, if the plain, unwaved, close cropped style proved good on a first clipping, the woman held to it throughout the whole bobbed era. Except in one thing, I find there is great diversity of style in present day coiffures. That one thing is the current run on very blond-blondness, most of which looks more synthetic than natural.

But at this hair style show of which I speak, a couple of the styles presented suggested the idea that you could spend a morning at the art gallery looking over the old masters for suggestions. One adorable Franz Hals type of girl model wore her blond long hair combed straight daguereotype across the front of the head from a low side part. From the lower back of the head on up to the parted side was built a crescent shaped coronet of stiff, almost starched looking old fashioned frank and honest curls. The kind Mom used to try your soul with when you were being dresed for little girl parties.

The old fashioned shoulder line of dress was perfect with the coiffure. Another coiffure worn by a lovely thing in a moyen age velvet frock bore out the simple, unfrilled or its complement in hair style, uncurled line. It was very straight and flat across the top of the head. There was a part down the back with one neat little curl of hair behind each ear.

Adults Often Speak to Children as They'd Never Do to Each Other

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

A mother who has been having some rather trying experiences recently in connection with her teen age children and her friends and relatives has gotten most emphatic over it—and rightly so, I think. She argues that social conventions shouldn't be restricted only to what goes on between one grown person and another. The thinks, and I agree with her, that we might also have conventions regarding the manners of adults toward children.

She puts it extremely well, I think. She says: "An unwritten law in the adult world that would taboo, in our conversations with youth, all comments which would not be tolerated between adults is seriously needed." It is "needed more than many of the conventions of good taste now in vogue among adults."

This is very true. Think how careful most people are of what they say among themselves, knowing that unless they use discretion, tact, self control in their social relations they may be disliked or even dropped.

In other words, adults in a world of adults need to use judgment and courtesy—need to "watch their step." Adults in a world of children, especially those who are adolescent, need to "watch their step" quite as much.

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Chance to Help Needy Family.

"Our club has organized to help needy families. One we are interested in now has three small babies under 5 years of age. The family is in need of everything—sheets, pillow slips, rugs, and curtains. Mother said she would make underwear for the children out of old sheets, so we would appreciate any you might be able to get for us. M. H."

Any materials you might have about the house could be put to good use here. May we hear from you if you can offer any assistance?

Women Foes of Dry Law Add 14,000

WE hadn't heard anything of the Illinois branch of the Woman's Organization for National Prohibition Reform —why wouldn't they have gotten a shorter name—for such a long time that we stopped in the office at 700 North Michigan avenue yesterday to see what was being accomplished and we were greeted with the news that 14,000 new members have been secured since October, bringing the Illinois total up to 41,000. And just because the organization has been so modest and retiring lately doesn't mean that it hasn't been working tooth and nail, for the secretary informed us that not only were the women who have been interested in it since its inception still working valiantly, but that new volunteers were being added to the ranks all the time.

The latest recruit is young Mrs. d'Orsay Palmer, whose French blood probably makes her more resentful of the 18th amendment than most young American women are, and she gives two days a week to the organization. Mrs. Leslie Wheeler and Mrs. William H. Mitchell, co-chairmen; Mrs. William Sauer, Mrs. Valentine Bartlett, Mrs. Kimball Salisbury, Mrs. Vincent Healy, Mrs. Stanley Field, and Mrs. George E. Brennan are among others who often are at the office working, and also attend many meetings all over the state to secure new members.

Mrs. Field is having a meeting of the Lake county chairmen tomorrow afternoon at her residence, 1550 State parkway, and on Friday of this week Mrs. Wheeler, Mrs. Mitchell [unless the trial of the men who held up the Mitchells' dinner party recently prevents] and Mrs. Sauer expect to go to Mokena to speak at a meeting that night. There are no membership fees or dues connected with becoming a member of the organization; just a belief in its purpose and the determination not to vote for any dry candidates are all that is necessary to make one eligible to sign on the dotted line.

Frederic McLaughlin II. Is to Wed Catherine Hare Jan. 23.

Quite a contingent of the McLaughlin family will go east on Thursday, the 21st, for the marriage of Miss Catherine Hare and Frederic McLaughlin II., which will take place on Saturday, the 23d, at 4 o'clock in the afternoon at the residence of Miss Hare's parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. Truxton Hare, in Radnor, Pa., but there will be few friends of the popular young bridegroom and his family going, for no invitations to the wedding are being issued on account of the mourning of his family.

His mother, Mrs. George D. McLaughlin, his brothers, George F., who will be an usher, and Herbert, who is to serve as best man, and their wives, and his sister, Harriet, will go; also Philip Holden, son of the Hale Holdens, and Thomas Leiter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Leiter, who are to be among the ushers. The other ushers will be John Howell of New York, Richard Simmons of St. Louis, and Truxton Jr. and Robert Hare, the bride's brothers. Little Ellen Mary Hare and Master Ross Smith Jr., cousins of Miss Hare, will be her only attendants. The Rev. Edward Mullaley of Chicago will officiate. Mr. McLaughlin and his bride will spend about a month honeymooning and then will come to Chicago or Lake Forest to live.

Bargain hunters should flock to Miss Helen Gurley's residence at 1416 State parkway today, for when the Woman's exchange holds its annual marked down sale it really is a sale with the most marvelous bargains, and what woman doesn't love bargains? Miss Gurley, president of the exchange, will be assisted in selling by others of the board, who will be her guests at luncheon. The sale will be held from 9 to 5.

Those of society who make it a point to keep up on world affairs will undoubtedly be at the luncheon today for Sir Norman Angell, M. P., to be given at the Palmer house by the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations and the English Speaking Union, for the distinguished guest is to talk on "The Capitalist Collapse and Our Educational Values," and that sounds as if it would be most enlightening as well as interesting.

Mrs. Jacob Baur Gives Dinner for Lecturer.

Mrs. Jacob Baur entertained at dinner and a box party at the opera last night for Jehan Warliker of India, who talked Sunday afternoon at the Town Hall lecture at the Palmer house. Mrs. Baur also gave a small tea for Mr. Warliker, who was educated at Oxford and speaks English perfectly, on Saturday.

The Thomas C. Dennehys and their popular daughters, the Misses Eleanor and Josephine, are leaving Sunday to spend the rest of the winter in Pasadena. Their departure seems to preclude the possibility of Miss Josephine's marriage to "Nick" Galitzine taking place very soon, doesn't it? Miss Josephine is to be one of Miss Hortense Henry's bridesmaids on Saturday when she becomes the bride of Gordon Phelps Kelley. Miss Henry is to have two other bridesmaids who are engaged to be married, but they, like Miss Dennehy, have set no dates for their marriages. Miss Helen Stanley will become the bride of Victor Elting Jr. at some future day, and Miss Rosamond Moore of New York is engaged to Ezra J. Warner Jr., who also is in the Henry-Kelley wedding party. Miss Moore is visiting the parents of her fiancé in Lake Forest for the prenuptial festivities and the wedding and probably will stay on for a short visit with them afterwards, for she and her fiancé are so busy these days dashing from one party to another that Mr. and Mrs. Warner have not had much of a chance, even to see, much less to entertain, their daughter-in-law-to-be.

Mrs. Guy D. Randle and her husband's mother and sister, Mrs. C. H. Randle and Mrs. W. W. Forrester, are leaving Saturday to spend the rest of the winter at the Breakers in Palm Beach. Hanson F. Randle has a house there this winter and lately has had a stag house party, the members of which spent every pleasant day fishing in the gulf stream for sailfish. Mr. Randle is known as one of Palm Beach's most enthusiastic and, what is more satisfying, successful anglers, so our news gatherer there writes us.

From Phoenix comes word that Miss Mary Lou Anderson, one of the many Chicagoans who have built houses there recently, is settled in her new house on the Biltmore grounds. The David Bowes of Evanston are spending the winter with Mr. and Mrs. Loomis Bowes at their attractive "Rancho Rita," just out of Phoenix.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Jan. 11.—[Special.]—Mrs. Hoover received the new Ecuador minister and Señora de Zaldumbide this afternoon in the blue room of the White House.

Vice President Curtis was the honor guest at dinner this evening of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mason Remey, the company going later to the second of this season's bachelor cotillions in the Mayflower ballroom. The Vice President was guest of honor at the cotillion and his sister, Mrs. E. E. Gann, received the 500 or more guests, assisted by Señora de Abelli, wife of the Bolivian minister; Mrs. Warren Austin, wife of the Vermont senator; Mrs. Jacob Leander Loose, formerly of Chicago and later of Kansas City, and Mrs. George H. Calvert Jr. Miss Louise Brooks, debutante daughter of Mrs. Lionel Atwill, led the figures with Brig. Gen. William E. Horton, U. S. A., retired, president of the organization. Miss Brooks was entertained at dinner before the cotillion by Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bell Sweeney.

PLAN MARCH WEDDING

Mrs. D. Andersen Herem of 1254 Lake Shore drive announces the engagement of her daughter, Virginia Laurens, to William Hubert Aaron Jr., son of Dr. and Mrs. William H. Aaron of Pawhuska, Okla. Miss Herem was graduated from the Chicago Latin school and from Wellesley college. Mr. Aaron was graduated from Northwestern in 1928. The wedding will take place in March.

Larger Sums Asked as Aid to State's Mothers

Increased expenditures for mothers' pensions were one of the extensions of the activities of her department advocated by Miss Edna Zimmerman, state superintendent of child welfare, before members of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs yesterday at the Hotel Morrison.

She urged support of promised legislation to extend the pension system, to formulate a state-wide child welfare program, to regulate adoptions and to extend the standards for probation of delinquents. In the last two years, Miss Zimmerman said, her department has endeavored to substitute the principle of prevention for that of cure of social ills.

Walter C. Loague, superintendent of the Goodwill Industries, told of the work of that organization in providing employment for crippled and handicapped persons. The sixty branches of the organization throughout the country provide employment for some 300 persons, with a weekly pay roll of $3,000, who otherwise would be dependent upon charity, he said.

Following the meeting several clubwomen left for Washington, D. C., on the Capitol limited of the Baltimore and Ohio, to attend the annual board meeting of the National Federation of Women's Clubs, starting there today.

Movie Gossip from Hollywood

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 11.—[Special.]—Esther Ralston, who lost $100,000 movie salaries due to her screen withdrawal before her baby was born; her husband and manager, George Webb, and the $100,000 baby, blue eyed, golden haired Esther Ralston Webb, have left Los Angeles together to spend the next several months campaigning in vaudeville. Mother, father and baby are parts of a twelve person vaudeville act, which sometimes will work three a day and sometimes four a day. The baby is 5 months old now, and all she has to do is cuddle in her mother's arms for four and one-half minutes while Miss Ralston does an impassioned speech before a jury.

They are using a midget to replace Donald Hayden, 5 year old actor who was among the fifty-four arrested when police raided the stage cast of "Lysistrata" here last Thursday night. Police turned in a report that the Hayden child should be investigated by juvenile branch of Superior court. The senior Hayden continues in the cast of the show, which is running under a temporary order restraining police from further interference.

ENGAGEMENT

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Everett Daniels of Evanston announce the engagement of their daughter, Gwendolyn Constance, to Omar Miller of Evanston, son of Dr. Hubert Miller of Herreld, S. D., formerly of Chicago. Miss Daniels is a graduate of Gulf Park college and Northwestern university. She is a member of Delta Zeta sorority. Mr. Miller is a Northwestern graduate and a member of Alpha Epsilon.

Sweater Blouses Adopt Drawn Work, Hemstitch

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Sweater blouses take their cue from those designed for more formal town wear and have tricky sleeves. They are also trimmed with hemstitching, drawnwork, and such openwork details. Jane Regny's latest sweater blouse is made of canary yellow wool and is trimmed all over with crisscross lines of drawn work. How this is done is one of the miracles of French knitting, but the result is thrilling, as you can see by consulting our sketch. This sweater blouse has short puff sleeves and cuffs of drawnwork. It is designed for wear with sports suits at Palm Beach.

Below is Regny's new knitted jacket, which is also going to Florida. This jacket is made of copper red wool, and has short sleeves and is décolleté in front like a man's evening vest. It is wrapped over below this décolleté and extends below the hipline. The knitted belt that ties at the back holds the sweater in place. Regny shows this jacket with a white lacy jersey dress that has big peasant sleeves and a collar and jabot made of crocheted tabs of white wool.

The big, peasant sleeved dress is something new for sports, and the short sleeved jacket like the one shown is the correct jacket to wear with it.

Priest is Reassigned.

Pana, Ill., Jan. 11.—[Special.]—The Rev. Father Patrick J. Malloy, assistant rector of St. Patrick's church, today was assigned by Bishop James A. Griffin of the Springfield diocese to St. Luke's church at Virginia, effective immediately.

Mother of Four Admits SheCan't Compete with Gay Husband Snatcher

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"I am just a wife of one of those 'misunderstood' husbands, who after many years of married life has discovered that he never should have married.

"Of course, he didn't think that up alone. There is a girl who helped him arrive at that conclusion, you may be sure. I am not going to pull any tearful story. I have had some hard years, awfully hard years, raising children, four of them, and none too much money to do it on at certain periods in our married life. But I had happy years, too, raising the youngsters. They were happy in the thought that I had my husband's love, and I trusted him.

"Well, my rival seems to have him now. She was never tired at night, as I have been. She didn't have to feed six, as I have done for years. She doesn't have to see that their clothes are in order; that their lessons are done after the dishes are washed. She is young compared to me.

"She has her salary to spend on herself. She meets a man in my husband, evenings, who is not the man I know around home. Why should he be? There he is a relaxed man. Here, four youngsters whom you can't keep hushed are scampering about. They are his as much as mine, but mine is the responsibility about their lessons and their getting to bed.

"I am not making out a case for myself. I must have failed somewhere along the line. But I have been wondering if some of these young husband stealers were forced to live the wife's life for a week with the husband around, as I know him—I have been wondering if they would not get an awakening.

"What can we women do? In all fairness, what can we do faced against such rivalry? How can we compete against girls who are footloose, have money to spend on themselves, are not tired, are always ready to fuss over a man and sympathize with him?

"What can I do in my particular case? Nothing—but grin and bear it and pray betimes for the children's sake that the thing will wear itself out. WIFEY."

THREE MEALS A DAY

From the Tribune Cook Book

BY MARY MEADE.

Food Talk

What do you do with your leftover egg whites? Do you sometimes have one left over from mayonnaise and another left over from a caramel pie filling? If you do have a surplus of whites for a day or two, set them aside carefully in your icebox until they number three, and then make fragile Schaum torte.

Take care to keep the whites as fresh as possible. I keep mine in a small glass jar which has a snug cover. Then, when I have saved several, I use them for odd shaped meringues, pie meringues, and sometimes steal one to use for brushing the tops of cookies or the surface of pie crusts.

The Schaum torte on tomorrow evening's dinner is easy to whisk together and may be made in the morning if desired. It is actually no more than a simple meringue except that it is baked all together in a deep buttered baking dish. It puffs up so that it resembles a big mushroom, because it looks more attractively edible. Schaum torte is often baked in two layers, also, and when this is done the filling is placed between the two.

Some people like the torte with a plain whipped cream filling. The cream should be whipped as the torte is about to be served. It should be slightly sweetened—about one tablespoon of sugar for each half pint of cream—and have a drop or two of vanilla. For the whole torte lift the top off and gently pack the cream inside. Serve this on a dessert platter and decorate the top with ribbons of whipped cream put through a pastry tube.

Tomorrow's Menu.

SCHAUM TORTE.

3 egg whites.
1 cup of sugar.
½ tablespoon of vinegar.

Beat the egg whites to a stiff froth. Add the sugar gradually to them, and then the vinegar and vanilla, beating all the while. Bake in a buttered deep baking dish, or in two greased layer tins [for this the recipe should be doubled] in a slow oven [275 degrees Fahrenheit] about forty-five to fifty minutes. Fill and decorate with any desired light filling.

SORE THROAT

There's a world of winter comfort in Bayer Aspirin tablets. If you take them only to break-up colds, you know only half the story. Three tablets crushed in a little water will relieve the sorest throat with one good gargle. That's what the specialists use in cases of sore throat. That's what you ought to use at home—every time you want throat comfort and protection from infection. Remember, every case of tonsilitis began with just a sore throat! Don't neglect any sore throat. Gargle with Bayer Aspirin at the first tickling felt. Take a couple of tablets for that headache that comes with a cold—for neuralgia, neuritis, or similar pain. If it's genuine Bayer, it can't hurt the heart.

BAYER (BAYER) ASPIRIN

Official Contract

By Charles True Adams

(International bridge authority; author of "Official Contract at Sight.")

Ducat, ducat, who has the ducat? You are at the theater gate with those people from out of town that you have been wishing to entertain for some time—and the tickets (you remember now) are in your other suit. Is this your most embarrassing moment? Perhaps so. But there is another almost as bad; and I think this has happened to you. Did you ever sit and look at lots of perfectly good cards in the dummy and have no way to get in?

If you succeeded in solving yesterday's play-a-problem this little occurrance should never arise at your bridge table again. This was the hand:

NORTH (Dealer)
♠—A,10,8,7
♥—A,Q,9,8
♦—5,4,3

WEST	EAST
♠—K,Q,9,4,3	♠—J,6,5
♥—K,5,4	♥—3,2
♦—9	♦—Q,J,10

SOUTH
♠—2
♥—J,10,7,6
♦—A,K,8,7,6,2
♣—5,4

North dealt and bid one spade. East overcalled with two clubs. South bid two diamonds and West raised his partner to three clubs. West was very happy. He not only had a perfectly good raise for his partner, but he hoped upon hope that his adversaries would again go back to spades. North, however, now showed his second suit with a bid of three hearts. East passed. South bid four hearts and West gloomily passed.

East opened the ♦ Q, which dummy took with the K. Dummy then led the ♥ J and followed by leading the ♥ 6, which North took with the Q. North then led the ♥ A, clearing the trump suit. Next North led the ♦ 5 and East played the 10. Did North overtake with the A in his dummy? He did not. He didn't wish to find himself at the show without a ticket. His only other entry into that dummy outside of that little diamond left in his own hand was a trump which he needed later for another purpose. Besides East has to take a diamond trick. Why not let him take it now and save the entry? Try it any other way and see if you make as many.

Having taken the trick with the ♦ 10 East now led the ♠ J, which North captured with the A. North now led the ♦ 4 to dummy's A and then proceeded to lead out dummy's three good diamonds. To the eleventh trick dummy led the ♣ 5, which North trumped in his own hand with the ♥ 9. North then led the ♠ 10, which dummy trumped with the ♥ 10. The thirteenth trick, of course, went to East's ♣ A, West's ♠ K dying with it. North and South made their game and an extra trick.

If you can make five odd without giving the fifth trick to East with the ♦ 10 please write me a letter about it.

The present Lenz-Culbertson match in New York has brought out some excellent examples of brilliant and expert play. Recently Mr. Lenz had in his dummy the A-10-x-x-x of clubs. Mrs. Culbertson had the ♣ J-x-x-x, while Lenz held the ♣ Q-6, and Culbertson, sitting on his right, held the ♣ K-x. Mrs. Culbertson led her small club, which happened to be the 2. Dummy played a small one and Mr. Culbertson played the K. Now Mr. Lenz needed an extra entry in his dummy. Placing the J with Mrs. Culbertson he discarded his Q on Mr. Culbertson's K, keeping his 6. Later leading the 6 and finessing the 10 in his dummy he made his extra entry and was allowed to take a discard on the ♣ A.

PLAY-A-PROBLEM: SOLITAIRE OR PARTNERS

Play this hand tonight at your bridge game. Keep a record of the bid and play in the spaces provided. Numbers in the bidding squares are for successive rounds. Check your results with tomorrow's answer.

To play "Solitaire." Record the bids you think each hand would make in the bidding squares. After the final declaration has been made start the play, leading from the hand at declarer's left. As you play each card cross it off of the diagram and record it in the proper square, as S. 3, H. K. etc. In the last column indicate the hand which won the round and lead from that hand on the next round.

PATTERNS BY CLOTILDE

(Registered U. S. Patent Office.)

WOMAN'S AND MISSES' DRESS.

Transparent black velvet, using this design, will make a lovely Sunday night frock. The neckline and sleeves are soft and pretty, and the whole idea of the frock is a smart simplicity. The skirt fits the hips snugly, flaring gracefully at the feet. Silk crêpe in a chartreuse green, vivid red, or sapphire blue, are lovely ideas.

The pattern, 3449, comes in sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, and 20 years, and 36 and 38 inches bust measure. Size 16 requires 3⅝ yards of 39 inch material with 1½ yards of light and 1½ yards of dark 3 inch wide ribbon.

Note—Clotilde patterns are made in New York exclusively for THE CHICAGO DAILY TRIBUNE.

$5,000 IN CASH PRIZES FOR SOLVING WASHINGTON BI-CENTENNIAL CROSSWORD PUZZLES

★ IN celebration of the 200th birthday of George Washington, the Chicago Tribune is printing a series of Washington Bi-Centennial Crossword Puzzles—patriotic, educational puzzles that are intensely interesting.

Everybody is invited to solve these puzzles—men, women, boys and girls. An historic event from Washington's life is named in each puzzle. Solve the puzzle and name the event. $5,000 in cash prizes will be paid for the most nearly correct answers. You do not have to know Washington's history; the words come out automatically as you solve the puzzles. And a picture clue appears in each puzzle further to help you name the event.

For the convenience of those who failed to start yesterday, Puzzle No. 1 is re-printed here with Puzzle No. 2. You can start with these. Then get No. 3 tomorrow.

Just solve these puzzles in the regular way. Hold all puzzles until you have the complete set, then send them in. Read the rules, and tune in W-G-N each night for the dramatization of the event in the following day's puzzle. The radio dramatization will help you get the correct solution.

Just Follow These Simple Rules:

1. Each day for 36 consecutive days (except Sundays) the Chicago Daily Tribune will print a Washington Bi-Centennial Crossword Puzzle. In each puzzle an historic event in Washington's life will be named. You are invited to solve the puzzles and name the events.

2. The Chicago Tribune will pay $5,000 in Cash Prizes to the persons who send in the nearest correctly solved complete sets of puzzles in accordance with these rules. Note: This means that you do not necessarily have to solve each of the 36 puzzles correctly to win. The prizes will be paid to the persons whose entries rank highest.

3. This offer is open to everyone—men, women, boys and girls—except employes of the Chicago Tribune and their families. You pay nothing. Just prove your skill.

4. Puzzles are to be submitted only in complete sets. Do NOT send in each puzzle separately. Hold all puzzles until you have the complete set of 36. Then send them to "Crosswords," Chicago Tribune, Post Office Box 1539, Chicago, Illinois. All entries must be in by midnight 15 days after Puzzle No. 36 has been printed.

5. Each entry must be sent by First Class Mail, postage prepaid. Entries with insufficient postage will be returned by the Post Office Department. Make your entry simple and neat. Neatness will count.

6. You need not buy the Chicago Tribune. You may copy or trace the puzzles and send them in. The Chicago Tribune may be examined at any of its offices or at Public Libraries free of charge.

7. The judges will be appointed by the Chicago Tribune. Their decision will be final. In case of ties a duplicate award will be paid to each tying contestant.

THE PRIZES

1st Prize		$1,000.00
2nd Prize		500.00
3rd Prize		250.00
Next 2 Prizes	$100 each	200.00

N. U. HALTS IOWA RALLY; TRIUMPHS, 32 TO 26

Hialeah Could Run a Hyacinth Handicap.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 11.—The descriptions of the new Hialeah race track at Miami have so much to say about the flora and so little about the fauna that I cannot quite make out whether Mr. Joe Widener, the proprietor, is running a jockey club or a garden club.

There are rapturous references to the warm, red Bougainvilleas, the hibiscus and the poinsettias.

I read of tropic isles in the infield lagoons covered with jungle creepers and moonflowers, of 230 giant royal palms which cost $10 a foot, of trellis work and arbors, festooned with exotic blooms, and of 260,000 square feet of sod which cost ten cents a foot. There are also petunias and zinnias and ageratum—or agerata, to use the plural.

Would Send Garden Editor.

I think if I were an editor fixing to send a man down to Miami to cover Mr. Widener's horse-meet, I would meet the situation by sending down my garden editor.

This may be a good thing that Mr. Widener has started. The horse racing business, especially on the winter tracks, is a racketeers' business anyway, and infested by many persons whom a person of Mr. Widener's position and tastes does not wish to have any truck with.

One of the big winter tracks is owned and conducted by one of the great American bootlegging syndicates and the instincts of the boys are such that they have been unable to resist the temptation to run four or five stables of their own horses in their own meet, a system whose advantages to themselves need not be enlarged upon. But the bootleggers' horse track has only the most perfunctory gardens, a sprig of daisies here and there and a few little messes of nasturiums wilting in window boxes around the place. In any major league garden competition this horse track would not even qualify.

Could Run Flower Show.

Mr. Widener, on the other hand, is in a position to minimize the horse-running at Hialeah and convert his horse-meet into a flower meeting, with attractive stakes for both professional and gentlemen gardeners. He could popularize this meet by organizing a window box and rubber plant division, thus opening the competition to thousands of persons of modest means who live in kitchenette apartments and there is no telling what improvement might eventually be wrought in the breed of posies.

Mr. Widener might as well quit trying to improve the breed of horses anyway, because if the horses have not reached absolute perfection by now, considering all the millions that have been spent for this purpose, the task had better be given up as a bad job.

There is great room for improvement in the breed of potted geraniums, for instance, and I think Mr. Widener might arouse a tremendous popular response and draw entries from all parts of the United States if he were to establish the golden trowel geranium competition, for amateurs, under the rules of the Federation of American Garden Clubs, to select the champion American amateur geranium.

How About a Hyacinth Handicap?

Other classes of competition suggest themselves in profusion: the Hialeah Hollyhock Derby, $25 added, for hollyhocks, three years old and up; the Silver Hoe stakes, for bachelor buttons, and a filly event, so to speak, for lady slippers.

The conversion of the horse business into the flower business began at Belmont Park where, during the last few years, there has been extraordinary emphasis on the beauty and quality of the petunias and negligible attention has been paid to the quality of the racing.

Since then the more refined tracks have become more and more luxuriant with indigenous and exotic blooms

Iowa City, Ia., Jan. 11.—[Special.]—Northwestern remains undefeated in Big Ten basketball race, but certainly not unchallenged. The Purple defeated a plucky Iowa five here tonight, 32 to 26, barely eking out a victory after leading 21 to 9 at half time.

The Purple got away to an early lead, largely through Joe Reiff's ability to step out away from his guard under the basket and sink one handed hook shots. Reiff scored six field goals and two free throws for 14 points.

Howard Moffitt, Iowa sophomore, counted five times from the field and added three free throws for 13 points. Iowa missed nine free throws.

Hawkeyes Stage Rally.

The first half was a runaway for Northwestern, but the final period was a different story. Kotlow scored after the tipoff in the last half to make the count, 21 to 11. Smith's long toss was offset by Moffitt's follow shot, and the latter's basket from the side made it 23 to 15. Farber's shot from midcourt went through the net and Reiff's free throw brought Northwestern's total to 26 points.

The Purple then was held scoreless for several minutes, while Iowa made three baskets and a free throw. The score at this stage was 26 to 22.

Purple Draws Away.

The crowd of 6,000 went into a frenzy that did not let up until the game ended five minutes later. In the closing minutes Northwestern adopted a delayed offense, controlling the ball and breaking under the basket for three goals, two by Smith, and ran its total to 32. In the last minutes Moffitt and Rogers scored baskets for Iowa. Lineup:

ILLINOIS, 30; INDIANA, 22

Bloomington, Ind., Jan. 11.—[Special.]—Illinois scored its second Big Ten basketball victory here tonight by handing Indiana a 30 to 22 defeat. Indiana threw a scare into Illinois in the first half, leading until the last few minutes of the period. Fencl's basket tied the score and before the half ended the Illini held a 17 to 13 lead.

Once in the lead, the Illini never were headed. About 4,000 attended the game, which was one of the roughest in the fieldhouse this year. Twenty-three personal fouls were called, 13 on Illinois. Bennett, Illinois forward, who scored 11 points for high honors, was taken from the floor following a collision with Zeller, Indiana guard. Lineup:

6 Days Left to File Entries in Silver Skates

Six days remain in which entries may be filed for the sixteenth annual Silver Skates Derbies sponsored by THE TRIBUNE. The races will be held Jan. 23 and 24 at the Garfield park lagoon.

The response so far from the skaters of Chicagoland has been gratifying. While there remains sufficient time for clubs and organizations to get their team entries in, it is advisable that the entry be made as soon as possible. If the last minute rush is too heavy, it handicaps the clerks in preparing the lists and numbers.

Red Rings Name 23.

Mike Clancy, president of the Red Rings Athletic club, yesterday sent in his club's entries in three of the boys' races. He also forwarded the information that Frank Braddock, who is entered in the boys' juvenile derby, "is a whiz and is expected to win, while Bill Hinkley, Gerritt Schaaf, and Earl Wiltgren are counted on in the junior derby." Twenty-three boys are included in the Red Ring entry.

Thomas Cesar, president of the 400-1 club, is another who has filed a list of his best skaters for the Silver Skates competition. Nearly all of the 15 boys in this group will compete for the senior Derby title.

Battle for Team Trophy.

Considerable interest has been evidenced concerning the team championship won last year by the Norwegian-Americans. That club was the first to gain a leg on the Walter Eckersall memorial trophy. The club which wins three times becomes the permanent possessor of this beautiful silver trophy. The trophy is a silver shaft mounted on an ebony base around which are nine silver plaques on which will be inscribed the names of the winning clubs. On top of the shaft is the figure of a skater.

LOYOLA DEFEATS CITY COLLEGE OF DETROIT, 36-30

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 11.—[Special.]—Loyola university's basketball team defeated City College of Detroit tonight, 36 to 30, in a game in which 31 fouls were called, 15 against the winners. Loyola led at the half, 13 to 7, after taking an early 6 to 0 lead. The local team rallied but Cavanaugh and Wagner of Loyola dropped in baskets for the winning margin. Telfer's shooting in the last half kept Detroit in the running. Lineup:

TILDEN, THAT TENNIS FELLOW, COMES TO TOWN

Meets Nusslein Tonight in Match at Stadium.

Tilden and Nusslein, scheduled to play three sets out of five, headline the professional tennis program, which includes two other matches.

Pare Meets Burke.

The opening match brings Emmett Pare, former prep star at St. Mel's High school, back to Chicago to perform before a home town gallery. Pare meets Albert Burke, Irish pro who resides in France and who has been prominent in continental tennis for many years. They will play at two sets out of three.

Tilden and Nusslein will follow in the first of a series of battles to settle the world's pro championship. They will play three sets out of five. The title sets count through their tour.

Concluding the program there will be a doubles match in which Tilden and Burke pair against Nusslein and the Polish champion, Roman Najuch.

Nusslein has had slightly more than a week to get in trim for his challenge series against Tilden. Although he is young, he made himself known last fall with a victory over Karel Kozeluh, the Czech who lost the world's pro net title to Tilden, and played two five set matches against Big Bill himself. Tilden at that time acclaimed Nusslein as one of the toughest tennis stars he had ever faced.

Richards Easy for Tilden.

Tilden went into action last week against Richards, who was expected to run Bill close or turn out a victory. But Tilden swept Vinny off the court in straight sets, 6-2, 6-3, 6-1.

This exhibition makes Tilden the favorite over Nusslein tonight, although he is nearing the 39 year mark.

Umpires and linesmen affiliated with the Chicago and Western tennis associations will officiate. Among those who will handle the matches are Chester C. Johnson, A. T. Campbell, Ralph G. Modica, Walter T. Hayes, J. C. Stewart, Paul Bennett, Ralph W. Westcott, Harry S. Walsh, and Leo J. Lunn.

MAC SMITH'S 281 WINS OPEN; FOUR TIED FOR SECOND

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 11.—(AP)—In one of the closest finishes the Los Angeles open tourney has ever known, MacDonald Smith of New York today won the seventh annual golf classic, shooting 281 for 72 holes.

As the winner, with cards of 69—68—72—72, three strokes under par, Smith collected his third open title and $2,000 first prize money. He won in 1928 and 1929.

Leo Diegel, Agua Caliente, Mexico; Joe Kirkwood, Philadelphia; Olin Dutra, Santa Monica, and Dick Metz, San Angelo, Tex., tied for second with totals of 285. They earned $937.50 each.

A quartet also tied for sixth with totals of 286. These were Gene Sarazen, New York; Abe Espinosa, Chicago; Clarence Clark, Bloomfield, N. J.; and Ralph Guldahl, Detroit. They received $250 each in the payoff. Roland MacKenzie, Washington, D. C., won the amateur first prize with a total of 291.

Talking it Over

BY ARCH WARD.

The doctor said it would be better if we avoided excitement for a while, so we shall have to pass up the Levinsky-Uzcudun fight at the Stadium Friday night. A Levinsky bout is no place for a fellow with a weak heart.

Some of the boys along the fistic rialto, as they call it, think the match will be about as close as a Notre Dame-Drake football game. They hold that Paulino's ring experience, his short arm jabs to the stomach where the King doesn't like 'em, and his plodding style will enable him to win in a walk.

But it seems to me that Levinsky, who won the decision from Tommy Loughran after knocking him down two or three times, demonstrated his right to get in the ring with almost any of the present day heavyweights. Loughran, who was expected to give the King a ballroom lesson, looked like a stuffed tomato before he could go into his dance.

It's that way with Levinsky. When you expect him to look like a bum he stands up like a champion. Against Loughran he showed aggressiveness, stamina and a right hand wallop from which the cleverest boxer in the ring couldn't get away.

What more do you want in a fighter unless you like to see him in there swinging a tomahawk?

If Leaping Lena Levy, sister manager of Levinsky, carries on much longer you won't be able to recognize the prize fight business. She actually believes that a manager is supposed to be honest.

It was like this. Ernie Fleigel, manager of King Tut, had helped out Lena in the handling of Levinsky. In return for his service she promised to help get his fighter, Tut, on the card the next time the King worked at the Stadium.

So when Matchmaker Nate Lewis arranged the Levinsky-Uzcudun bout Lena insisted that Tut be given a place on the card. Lewis agreed, but a few days later Gen. Clinnin, chairman of the Illinois Athletic commission, ordered a light heavyweight elimination bout for the program and Lewis had to take Tut off the bill.

When Mrs. Levy heard about all this, she told Lewis that Tut must stay or she would refuse to go through with the Uzcudun match. She was willing to risk suspension in N. B. A. territory and lose a purse that probably would amount to more than $15,000 to keep her word with Fleigel.

It was only after the Stadium promised definitely to give Tut a place in one of its future shows that Lena agreed to go through with the Levinsky-Uzcudun bout.

If confidence is the first requirement for success, Tony Pavletic of 3932 N. Sacramento avenue has made a good start toward winning his Golden Gloves. He writes:

"Only seven championships are going to be decided in the Golden Gloves tournament this year. You see, the eighth one, the welterweight, belongs to me. I suppose there will be about 300 other boys in my class, but I will be able to polish them off one by one about as easily as writing this letter to you. I want to meet the New York champion now."

You hear a lot of talk about collegiate football being on the wane and predictions that the game has passed its peak popularity.

Football, like all other sports, commands maximum interest when it has leaders that grip the public.

Boxing hasn't been the same without Jack Dempsey as champion. Baseball will lose some of its appeal when Babe Ruth no longer is slamming home runs. And football hasn't been the same without Knute Rockne.

Football will bound back to the heights when another Rockne comes along. He may be a coach or he may be a player. But he must be a man who by his exploits and leadership wins the admiration of the nation.

There is none in sight just now.

Winter No Obstacle to This Future Olympic Girl Diver

BY BETTY ECKERSALL.

While American athletes seem to be concentrating upon winter sports, Evelyn Kennedy, one of the star divers of the Illinois Women's Athletic club, is practicing for the Olympic tryouts, to be held in New York July 9 and 10.

EVELYN KENNEDY.

Evelyn, one of the star aquatic performers in this section of the country, is entered in the three meter board diving event, which corresponds to the American ten foot platform. Although she has had only three years of competition, she has won the 1931 Central Amateur Athletic union's championship in the low board diving, second in the high board, and took third place in the low board in the National A. A. U. meet in 1930 in Florida. Evelyn has not become as proficient on the high board as the low because the I. W. A. C. does not possess a high platform.

Started in High School.

"I became interested in swimming and diving when I began attending Senn High school. After I was graduated I tried out for the I. W. A. C. team and was fortunate enough to be accepted. Prior to joining the club I gave diving exhibitions in Florida and had a great deal of experience with interclub meets.

"Naturally, my main ambition right now is to make the Olympic team. I am employed at an investment house and am able to get time off to compete. I practice two hours every night. I don't believe that practice or competition is detrimental to my work or my work harmful to my diving. On the contrary, swimming keeps me in good condition and working gives me an added zest for water sports.

Perfects Four Dives.

"At present I am trying to perfect four dives which I shall use in the optional events. They are the back one and one-half, cut away one-half, front one and one-half, and half gainer. The regulations have been changed this year, and instead of eleven dives the number has been reduced to six, consisting of three optional dives and three declared dives, the back flip open, front jack knife, and the half twist. I have been keeping in rigid training all year, sleeping ten hours every night and eating food that will keep my weight down.

"My parents are enthusiastic about my diving, as I am the only one in the family who has shown any skill in water events.

"The tryouts are going to be very difficult, for Georgia Coleman, Ruth and Jane Fauntz, Katherine Rawls, and Helen and Francis Meany will compete, and all are proficient in dives."

SHARKEY JOINS 10,000 IN A YAWN FOR SCHMELING

Boston, Mass., Jan. 11.—(AP)—With Jack Sharkey looking on, Max Schmeling tonight put on a tame exhibition against the three sparring partners in his road company. The Boston heavyweight, like most of the other 10,000 spectators, did not appear to be enthusiastic over the champion's performance.

Before Schmeling started work, Sharkey climbed inside the ring and gave him a cordial greeting.

"How are you Max?" Sharkey asked.

"Fine," replied Schmeling, "how are you and your family?"

"You drew a wonderful house tonight," Sharkey said.

"Yes," replied Max, "but you and I will draw a bigger one when we meet."

"If you think so, why don't you snap out of it and sign up with me?" Sharkey retorted as he left the ring to return to his front row seat. Max turned away without answering.

TAKE $8,800 PAY CUT AND LIKE IT: GIANTS TO TERRY

Clark for Wilson?

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—[Special.]—Frank York, president of the Brooklyn Dodgers, today confirmed reports from St. Louis that negotiations had been opened with the Cardinals looking to the trading of William Watson Clark, left handed pitcher, for Hack Wilson and Flint Rhem. York said that the matter was "still open."

It was also reported that the Brooklyn club has offered Dazzy Vance for Wilson.

New York, Jan. 11.—[Special.]—The New York Giants tonight were without a star first baseman, and Bill Terry was minus a job.

Terry announced from his home in Memphis, Tenn., that he had returned unsigned a contract calling for a cut of approximately 40 per cent in salary, bringing his annual pay check down from $22,000 to $13,200.

A few hours later Charles A. Stoneham, president of the New York club, notified Terry to sign for the amount offered him or remain out of organized baseball.

Second in League Batting.

Terry finished second in the National league batting race last season with .3486. Chick Hafey of the Cardinals led with .3489 and Jim Bottomley was third with .3482.

In balking at the pay cut, Terry gave out a copy of a telegram which he said he was wiring to various New York sports editors in which he explained his attitude as follows:

"Mr. Stoneham asked me last fall not to give the newspapers any information regarding my contract this spring, as the club would take care of me. Inasmuch as I do not agree with them that approximately 40 per cent cut is taking care of me, I am giving you this information along with the information that I am thoroughly disgusted."

Says He Won't Be Traded.

Stoneham replied that last winter he had tried to dispose of his first baseman, but nobody desired him on account of the salary he was demanding. "Now he will not be traded or sold," said Stoneham, and added that Terry would have to accept a compensation that is fair or that the Giants think fair.

Stoneham's statement was:

"In reference to Terry's statement at Memphis, it is true he returned his contract. It will be necessary for Terry to sign with the New York team on fair terms, or what the Giants believe to be fair terms.

Calls Terry Trouble Maker.

"Terry has been treated better by the New York club as to salary than any other player who ever wore a Giant uniform. He has made trouble about signing every year since he was a rookie. Terry received in 1931 within $1,500 of what Bottomley and Hafey together received, notwithstanding the fact that all three finished in a virtual tie for the batting championship of the National league. He received thousands more than other great National league players.

"Since 1925, his first regular season with the Giants, which year he received a liberal salary, his increase has been more than 200 per cent.

"Further, because of holding out every spring, he has been a detriment to the team.

"We tried to trade him last year and no one wanted him on account of the high salary he was demanding last winter. Now he will not be traded or sold."

Follows Owners' Agreement.

The proposal to cut Terry's pay this year follows the agreement of the major league heads in Chicago on Dec. 11 to prune salary lists and other running expenses. It was understood at that time that cuts of something like 10 per cent had been agreed upon.

Wolverines Whip Gopher Five, 30-25

Ann Arbor, Mich., Jan. 11.—[Special.]—Michigan defeated Minnesota 30 to 25 in a Big Ten basketball game here tonight. The Wolverines were behind, 11 to 10, at the half, but came back in the closing minutes to win.

Eveland with five baskets, Williamson with eight points and Weiss with seven stood out for Michigan, while Sochacki tossed in four field goals and three free throws to gain scoring honors for the evening. Licht, Gopher guard, scored four baskets.

Play Even in First Half.

The two teams played a fairly even game in the first half, Minnesota making the free throw that broke a 10 to 10 tie 20 seconds before the end of the period and gaining its lead by virtue of scoring five field goals while Michigan was getting two.

Minnesota gained a three point lead at the start of the second half, but Weiss counted two baskets in quick succession for Michigan. The lead again see-sawed until three minutes later the score was tied up again and then Sochacki made two baskets to put the Gophers well out in front.

Wolverine Five Rallies.

Here Michigan rallied and again tied the count on baskets by Eveland and Garner. Cielusak made a free throw to put his team ahead for the last time, and before Minnesota scored again Williamson scored a basket and two free throws, Eveland tossed in two shots from the field and Weiss made a free throw. Licht made a basket in the last minute of play and Mace tossed in a free throw just as the game ended. Lineup:

PURDUE WINS, 38-22

Lafayette, Ind., Jan. 11.—[Special.]—Purdue came back strong here tonight with a burst of scoring in the last ten minutes that swept a dogged Wisconsin five off its feet and gave the Boilermakers a 38 to 22 victory.

The first ten minutes of play was all Purdue as the Boilermakers piled up an 11 to 1 lead. In the second ten minutes, play shifted to the Badgers, Wisconsin cutting the lead down to 18 to 12 at the half. The third ten minutes was a battle, but the final ten minutes produced a shower of Boilermaker baskets that turned the game into a rout.

Miami, Fla., Jan. 11.—[Special.]—O. F. Woodward's Chatover, making his first start since the racing at Bowie, proved a comparatively easy winner of the feature race at Tropical Park this afternoon in which he was made a 3 to 5 choice despite his long layoff. The 6 year old son of Chatterton and Day's Over was a length ahead of Tantalizing at the end of the 6 furlongs and was timed in 1:12.

Jockey J. Eaby, making his first appearance of the meeting, was up on the winner, which carried 108 pounds. Tantalizing had top weight of 114 and led Hazel Gumberts by a head. The order of finish after that was Patrick Callahan, Shasta Lover, Play Furious, and Lord Concord.

Patrick Callahan Sets Pace.

Chatover was the fourth consecutive favorite to win and was the confirmed choice of the players throughout the pre-race wagering. From a good break he was dropped in alongside the pace set by Patrick Callahan. Patrick Callahan's speed was good for about a third of the race, when he fell back and Chatover ran into a comfortable lead.

Tantalizing, which had been a trailer in the early stages, cut the corner at the top of the stretch, thus saving ground and becoming the contender when Patrick Callahan stopped. The drive of Tantalizing looked for a time as if it might be rewarded with victory, but Eaby shook up Chatover and his mount responded so well that he had a length to spare at the finish.

Fifth Favorite Wins.

The form players made it five in a row in the fifth when Steve Judge's Supremus colt, Prepare, won by two lengths at the short price of 7 to 10. There were twelve contenders, but little backing for any starter, save Prepare.

DE GLANE DRILLS TODAY FOR BOUT WITH JUDSON

Henri De Glane, claimant of a portion of the world's heavyweight wrestling championship, will work out this afternoon for his match tomorrow night against Frank Judson at the Playdium, Van Buren and Paulina streets. The match is two out of three falls.

De Glane, who arrived in America two years ago from Cherbourg, France, has defeated several leading wrestlers, but in Judson he is meeting a man who is given a chance to beat him. Judson defeated Joe Malcewicz here recently.

Hialeah Track Could Run a Hyacinth Handicap.

and at Belmont, anyway, there have been times when the customers could not see the horses for the asters and considering the quality of the races, were rather glad of it, too.

In time, of course, the undesirable characters who have been perverting the fine purpose of horse running would be sure to tire of their sport and begin to muscle into the game of improving the breed of flowers.

Starting with a shoot snipped from a champion indoor begonia, some rich racketeer would establish a stable of begonias and enter a dark begonia in the grand national begonia stake under some misleading name, such as the South Bend Ladies' Begonia club, to win the stake and clean up in the betting in the poolrooms all over the country.

Then there would be a scandal over the dumping of the come-back money into the mutuels at Hialeah just before the judging of the begonias and the taint of corruption would enter the sport of horticulture. But that seems inevitable and the best Mr. Widener and his associates could hope for would be to postpone the inevitable a few years. Competition seems to breed unscrupulosity in all sports which offer an opportunity for the wagering of funds.

I understand that it takes seven years to bring an orchid into bloom and this division suggests an excellent chance for an orchid futurity, the blooms being nominated in the sprig and of course there would be tremendous possibilities for a century plant futurity. I am sure the leading bookmakers around the country would be very glad to accept wagers in unlimited amounts with no limit on the odds on a century plant futurity.

It Wouldn't Matter.

A few of them might not be able to wait around for the payoff, but their intentions could hardly be brought into question in such case. A bookmaker's undertaking to pay off is always conditioned by the proviso, "if I live."

Mr. Widener's track is admittedly the most flowery horse track in the world now and up to this time the unscrupulous element have taken only the vaguest interest in the gardening on their premises. Concerned solely with the pari-mutuels, it is enough for them that they know a bank where the wild time grows.

Shamrocks' Boss Shifts Left Wings

Dissatisfied with the work of two of his lines in their 4 to 2 defeat Saturday night by the champion Tulsa Oilers, Manager Babe Dye of the Shamrocks has switched his two left wings, Donnie McFadyen and Bobby Burns.

Thursday night when the Shamrocks play a second game with the Oilers at the Chicago Stadium, McFadyen will be seen on the line with Gordie Brydson and Ade Johnson, and Burns will play with Tip O'Neill and Bobby MacKenzie.

These are the first changes in the Shamrocks' forward lines since the training season. Too much rushing by his defense men aroused Dye's ire. He has ordered a strictly defensive game for the future, and violators of the edict were assured of a heavy fine. The three veterans, Curly Headley, Bouncer Taylor and Art Smith have been particular offenders.

Practice was held Sunday and yesterday.

LEVINSKY HOPES TO BE FIRST TO FLOOR UZCUDUN

But Spaniard Is Picked to Win Decision.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Some boxing folks in Chicago seem to think King Levinsky, our most prominent citizen from down around the fish market, hasn't got the heart to step up among the leading heavyweight fighters of the country.

Maybe they never will think so. For it is pretty hard for a home town boy to convince his friends and neighbors that he carries the stuff to put him among the topnotchers. The Kingfish might flatten out the Rocky mountains, yet one of his next door neighbors would hisper around that it was all an accident and if everything was on the up and up the Kingfish couldn't have pushed over a big red feather.

Will He Show Yellow?

Just yesterday while the Kingfish was going through a very lively drill a spectator remarked, "The old streak of yellow will show up when he meets Paulino Uzcudun."

On Friday night the Kingfish battles Uzcudun at the Chicago Stadium and it will be one of the most severe tests the youthful ex-fish peddler ever faced. Many things might happen to him during their 10 round skirmish, but there's one thing I'm certain won't happen. I'm sure the home town folks won't be yelling "yellow" when the smoke of battle lifts from the scene of the struggle.

The boxing fans got their first look at Uzcudun yesterday and the Basque woodchopper looked every bit as tough as he has been painted by the press agents.

Basque Flashes Speed.

He put on his fighting togs at Kid Howard's gymnasium and was so lively in his drill it looked like he could be ready on ten minutes' notice to square away against Levinsky. He had trained for a couple of weeks at Mme. Bey's noted training quarters in New Jersey before coming to Chicago.

Uzcudun had no sooner arrived on the scene than all sorts of freak bets were made on the outcome of his clash with Levinsky.

There were some wagers that Levinsky would lose the decision but would knock down Uzcudun, something that never has happened to the woodchopper. Other wagers were made that Levinsky would win but would not knock Uzcudun off his feet. Other bets were made that Uzcudun would win in five rounds, and still others that Uzcudun would be counted out before the end of the sixth round.

Paulino Is Favored.

In the straight betting on the winner Uzcudun rules as a slight favorite and it may be possible today for the Levinsky backers to get 7 to 5 for their money, although there may be such a rush of support to Levinsky before bell time that it will be even money, take your choice.

While Schmeling, Von Porat, and other terrific punchers have failed to knock down Uzcudun, he doesn't shape up as a gladiator that is hard to hit. His style always has been to wade in, take everything the other fellow has, and pound away at his opponent's body.

One or two of those wild rights which the Kingfish so frequently tosses in the heat of battle might put down the Battering Basque. At least that's what Levensky's backers were banking on last night after they had carefully looked over both fighters during their training camp activities.

STADIUM TO HOLD 6 DAY BICYCLE RACE FEB. 7 TO 14

Chicago's twenty-seven international six-day bicycle race will be held in the Stadium Feb. 7 to 14. This was announced yesterday by John M. Chapman, manager of the race and Sidney Strotz, president of the Stadium.

Layton Wins 13th Straight 3-Rail Match

Johnny Layton, ten time holder of the world's three cushion billiard crown, won his thirteenth straight game against all comers when he defeated Art Kirchman, 50 to 7, in 30 innings at Bensinger's Randolph Street Billiard room yesterday. Layton's high run was 12, Kirchman's 4. In his thirteen games Layton has scored 650 points to 322 by his opponents in 480 innings.

Layton is preparing for the world tournament, which opens at Mussey's Wabash Billiard room, 131 South Wabash avenue, next Monday night.

J. N. Bozeman of Vallejo, Cal., 1931 Western Sectional champion, reached Chicago yesterday to finish training for the championship. Bozeman, rated the best three cushion player ever developed on the Pacific coast, will be one of the twelve enrolled for the meet, which has a gross value of $25,000. Bozeman will practice at Mussey's.

Arthur Thurnblad, the defending title holder, is doing his final work at the Pioneer Arcade. Allen Hall will prepare at 131 South Wabash avenue, while Augie Kleckhefer and Len Kenney, other Chicago entrants, will practice at Kleckhefer's Recreation.

Jake Schaefer, world's 18.2 champion who is entered in the three cushion meet, is not expected to reach Chicago until Saturday. Schaefer has been practicing at his home in San Francisco.

BAREK PROVES BASKET STARS CAN COME BACK

Two seasons ago Red Barek, guard of the Chicago Bruins, suffered an ankle injury. Doctors said that he never would play again. But he's back with the Bruins this season. Barek will be at his old post against the Milwaukee Badgers Thursday night at the Rainbo Fronton, Clark street and Lawrence avenue.

On the Badgers is Joe King, a former St. Mel High school star, while the Bruins have Art Bramhall, another ex-pupil of Paddy Driscoll.

De Paul, St. Viator Fives Advance Game to Friday

De Paul university and St. Viator basketball teams have advanced the date of their second game of the season from Saturday to Friday evening, Coach Jim Kelly of De Paul announced last night. The contest will be played in the De Paul gym.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

"COME-BACK MONEY."

"COME-BACK MONEY" is a term frequently heard at race tracks operating under the pari-mutuel betting system. It is money wired to the tracks by handbook makers or commissioners at distant points to be played in the mutuel machines.

Now, why would an outside bookmaker wish to wager at the track? The principal reason is that more money might be wagered with him on one horse by different bettors than the outside bookmaker would care to lay against. Or it might be all in one big commission by a plunger. Therefore the bookie decides not to assume all the risk, but to take only part of it—in theory, the same principle that insurance companies or Lloyd's distribute part of their risks on heavy policies.

In the case of an outside bookmaker sending "come-back money," however, there is a double advantage. Not only does he reduce his risk to the amount he is willing to assume, but since the volume of play determines the odds against each horse the amount he sends to the track to be played through the machines shortens the odds against the horse. Most bookies pay track odds, so if that particular horse wins the amount he has sent for "come-back money" lowers the odds which he must pay the winning bettor on the amount held or laid against.

It is because of betting influencing the odds which enables manipulation of prices and "stuffing the machines," such as occurred at Agua Caliente last week. There $5,000 wagered in the mutuels on horses other than the one expected to win made a price of nearly 10 to 1 at the track on what was a legitimate odds-on favorite. Heavy commissions were placed throughout the country too late for the outside bookies to send "come-back money." Such manipulation is more easy where the speculation is light. Of course, it can be done otherwise, too, but the amount of money to be wagered in the machines must be correspondingly larger.

What, then, is the attitude of race tracks toward "come-back money"? The better tracks take no official cognizance. In reality, there is no special reason why they should. Any one is privileged to wager as much or as little as he wishes through the mutuels. The "come-back money" representative at the track, to whom wires are sent to play certain horses, is an unofficial representative in such cases.

At some tracks this money is welcomed, since it increases the play, from which the track takes 5 to 10 per cent of the pool for operating expenses. We have known instances where tracks encouraged "come-back money" by paying a commission of 3 per cent on such wagers.

NAME PAIRINGS FOR PING PONG PLAY SATURDAY

Final drawings have been completed for the New York-Chicago ping pong matches to be played Saturday at the Interfraternity club. These drawings are for the team matches and have nothing to do with the afternoon tournament, which is to be an entirely separate affair. This will determine the best individual singles player and will have no bearing on the Parker cup matches.

Competition in both events will be held at the Interfraternity club, 106 South Wabash avenue. Play in the afternoon starts at 2 p. m., while the evening matches start at 8 o'clock.

The pairings for the evening matches follow:

SINGLES.

Coleman Clark, Chicago, vs. James Jacobson New York.
D. W. McEwan, Chicago, vs. W. Chester Wells, New York.

'Possum Still Prowls Around Chicagoland

BY BOB BECKER.

Occasional specimens of the opossum are being caught every year in Chicagoland, but these queer long tailed animals are a long way from the "home" which has been given them by the scientists. The opossum which is found all through Illinois is technically known as the Virginia opossum because the original specimen came from that state. However, this night prowling animal is found throughout eastern North America.

At one time the possum was quite common in Cook county. In recent years its numbers have diminished, although landowners in Chicagoland still pick up a specimen now and then, especially in steel traps usually set for some other small fur bearer.

Possum Abundant in Brazil.

Although we have never seen an opossum in Chicagoland [either dead or alive], many a time we have followed the hounds at night on southern hunts and arrived at trees to find the dogs highly excited over a possum that had taken refuge above them on a branch.

In Brazil where several species of possums are quite abundant, our trap line [set to obtain specimens for a museum] always managed to pick up some of these pouched animals when nothing else could be caught. In Tennessee one fall we met an old Negro who earned many a dollar during the winter by using his old coon and possum dog to hunt down the fur bearers. At that time the price of fur was pretty high, so any evening that he could kill one or more possums or coons was a profitable one.

Animal Is Strong.

In some respects the common possum is the most interesting fur bearer in North America. There are others with more brains and strength, but in the rearing of its young the possum stands unique.

When born the young of the possum are extremely small. In fact they are so small and underdeveloped they are to all appearances prematurely born. The little ones are so tiny that they are less than an inch in length and weigh just a few grains. The mother carries them in her pouch for several weeks until they are large enough to move about and help themselves. Then she acts as a transport for them while they ride on her back.

Muscarello Boxes Reardon Friday at Merry Garden

Tony Muscarello, Golden Gloves runner-up last year, and Bill Reardon, Oak Park featherweight, were signed yesterday to fight the windup bout of the amateur show to be presented by Jack Lund and Frank Knipper Friday night at Merry Garden arena, Sheffield and Belmont avenues. The bout will be Muscarello's and Reardon's third meeting, each winning a previous encounter. Seven other matches will be on the card.

Earl Mastro, north side featherweight, said yesterday he will not enter the contemplated 126 pound championship tournament to pick a successor to Bat Battalino, who forfeited the title when he came in overweight against Lew Feldman last Friday at New York. He said he would fight the ultimate victor of the American and European featherweight title tournaments planned by the National Boxing association.

At the weekly meeting of the Illinois athletic commission yesterday, Jackie Fields, former welterweight champion, was approved as a suitable opponent for Lou Brouillard, 147 pound title holder, for a championship match here Jan. 28. The date also was sanctioned. Fields is among the first five in the N. B. A. welterweight ratings.

FIRPO'S RIGHT WHIPS OSTER IN TEN ROUNDS

Henry Firpo, a bald headed man from Newcastle, Pa., whipped Wild Willie Oster of Boston in a 10 round bout at White City last night. The crowd was 1,500; the receipts, $1,500.

A right hand with which he dealt out terrific punishment brought the victory to Firpo, who despite his bald head isn't an old man. With this right he rocked Oster in the third round, battered him unmercifully in the fourth and knocked him down in the fifth. He had Oster in distress again in the eighth.

Benny Stanley and Al Suttle went six rounds to a draw. Jud Judkins of South Haven, Mich., whipped Red Bruce of Chicago in four rounds, and Sonny Lloyd of Davenport beat Bobby Allen of Chicago in four rounds. Johnny Lullo was the winner over Al Ries of Logan Square.

Chicago Ski Stars Seek Norge Crown

Chicago ski jumpers are determined to break the jinx which has balked home town entrants for seven years at the Norge Ski club's 26th annual championships at Cary hill, Fox River Grove, Ill., next Sunday.

The tournament will be held, regardless of weather conditions as officials of the club have arranged to haul snow from northern points.

Guttorm Paulsen of the Norge club showed he is ready to take his place among the leaders in the national ranking when he bettered the record for the Oconomowoc, Wis., slide last Sunday. His mark has withstood the efforts of some of the best in the sport for the Wisconsin hill usually serves as the training site for skiers participating in the big events here

Burke, Former Indiana Baseball Captain, Dies

James W. Burke Jr., former captain of the Indiana university baseball team and later a catcher with Quincy and Springfield of the Three Eye league, who died Sunday, will be buried tomorrow at All Saints cemetery. Funeral services will be held at 9:30 a. m. from the late residence, 4608 Kenton avenue, and high mass celebrated at St. Edward's church.

PEORIA AWARDED WOMEN'S MATCH PLAY GOLF MEET

Junior, Medal Events Will Be Held Here.

The annual match play championship of the Women's Western Golf association was awarded to the Peoria Country club at a meeting in Chicago yesterday. It will be the first time the tournament has been held outside of Chicago.

The junior and medal play tournaments, the latter to continue at 72 holes but to be played in three days, will be held in the local district. The junior is scheduled to go south and the medal north, with choices of clubs pending. Playing plans for the latter include eighteen hole rounds the first two days, and thirty-six for the final.

Drawing Is Changed.

Finding it incompatible to adopt the numerical draw used by the U. S. G. A. women's committee, on account of numerous flights of only sixteen players, the committee made changes considered equitable for the championship flight.

The drawing henceforth in that division will be as follows:

1-17, 9-25, 5-21, 13-29, 4-20, 12-28, 8-24, 16-32, 2-18, 10-26, 6-22, 14-30, 3-19, 11-27, 7-23, 15-31.

Chairmen Are Named.

Mrs. John L. Pfaff, Midlothian, publicity; Mrs. W. W. Hodgson, Oak Park, tournaments, with Mrs. Lenox Nairn, Sunset Ridge, associate; Mrs. Howard D. Raymond, Evanston, handicaps; Mrs. Paul Walker, Exmoor, prizes; Mrs. John E. Neff, South Bend, rules, with Mrs. T. D. Payne, Flossmoor, and Mrs. H. S. Stimson, Riverside, associates.

Gottselig Out of Hawks' Lineup for Two Weeks

The Blackhawks must play through the next two weeks of their schedule without Johnny Gottselig, star left winger. Gottselig suffered a severe shoulder injury Sunday night against Boston. Teddy Graham, defense man, also will be out of tomorrow night's match with Les Canadiens of Montreal, as he will undergo an operation for removal of a growth from his nose tomorrow. Graham's loss leaves the Blackhawks with only three defense men, Cy Wentworth, Taffy Abel, and George Boucher.

FARMERS TOLD PRICE INCREASE APPEARS LIKELY

Agriculture Students Meet in Two States.

BY PAUL POTTER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

La Fayette, Ind., Jan. 11.—[Special.]—The vanguard of farm folk who are expected to set an attendance record of 6,000 in Purdue university's thirtieth annual agricultural conference were given a reassuring prospect of the future on Indiana farms here today.

Dr. E. C. Young for ten years the university's farm economist, opened the conference by summarizing an economic review of business and agriculture with such statements as these:

"I feel more optimistic about the future now than I have at any time in the present period of price deflation. It seems reasonable to expect a five to ten per cent increase in general commodity prices and that farm prices will rise even more; perhaps back to pre-war levels. And it looks like this would take place in the near future.

Five Hoosier farmers who recently become corn "kings" at the live stock exposition in Chicago, were crowned at a banquet. These were Edward Lux Waldron, international corn king; Churchill Barr of Tipton, Robert Currie, 10 year old Tipton; Herman Pankop, Cornuna, and George J. Sauerman, Crown Point.

Illinois U. Has Farm Week.

Urbana, Ill., Jan. 11.—[Special.]—Agriculture's collapse was caused by industry overselling the world on extravagance, and when the economic tide turns upward into the next cycle it will be the business of farmers to resist a resumption of those same methods of salesmanship, Dr. Eugene Davenport said here today in the main opening address of the University of Illinois' thirty-fourth annual farm and home week.

A conference between the American Farm Bureau federation and the National grange, on the one side, and industrial leaders, bankers, and organized labor representatives, on the other side, was proposed by Dr. Davenport as a means of making that resistance felt.

"Let agriculture say to all and sundry: Stop talking about the 'next war.' Do not again bewitch the world with manufactured prosperity. Be satisfied with reasonable sales and decent profits and give the farmer an even chance. Agriculture cannot imitate the methods either of industry or of organized labor. Farming is mostly food production and it is physiology rather than psychology that limits consumption."

Corn Prizes Awarded.

Illinois' new "corn king," John Maland, of La Salle county, Norwegian born farmer who never saw corn until he came to America, was crowned today.

The "corn princess" is Caroline Mountjoy, Logan county.

Mildred Riley, Macon county, for the second time won the championship on white corn in the adult classes. Her brother, Kenneth, won in the junior classes.

C. W. Stanley, Clay county, the only competitor from his section, took the corn growing honors when he scored 91.86 points in the ten acre corn growing contest sponsored by the college and the Illinois Crop Improvement association. He heads a group of eleven winners.

Stanley, the state winner, scored 86.74 points on yield, 39.51 on cost of production, and 15.6 on quality.

F. E. BARTELME, N. SHORE BANKER, LUMBERMAN, DIES

Ferdinand E. Bartelme, president of the Keith Lumber Company of Chicago and of the Hubbard Woods Trust and Savings bank, died in his home at 1134 Sheridan road, Hubbard Woods, of a heart attack yesterday. Mr. Bartelme was 76 years old. The funeral will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow from the residence. The burial will be at Rosehill cemetery.

Born in Alsace-Lorraine, Mr. Bartelme was brought to this country and Chicago when a boy. He was educated in the public schools and at the Bryant & Stratton Business college.

He began his business career in 1873 as a clerk for Hatch, Holbrook & Co., lumber. When the Keith Lumber company was organized in 1890 he was made a vice president, and became president of the concern in 1913. Mr. Bartelme was a member of the Indian Hill and Union League clubs and the Midwick Country Club of Pasadena, Cal.

Mr. Bartelme is survived by his widow, Emma; two daughters, Dorothy Bartelme and Mrs. Robert Cutting, and one son, F. M. Bartelme.

Bury French War Chief Beside Son in Battlefield

REVIGNY, France, Jan. 11.—(AP)—Andre Maginot, who was secretary of war, was buried today in the family vault beside his son who fell in the world war. During the war there was fighting in the vicinity of the cemetery and the tombstones of Maginot's father and grandfather show scars made by shell splinters. There was a guard of honor and high state officials were present.

WOMAN POSTAL OFFICIAL AT '93 WORLD FAIR DIES

Mrs. Elizabeth Alexander, 90 years old, who was the postmistress in charge of the postal branch in the Illinois building at the 1893 World's Fair, died yesterday at her home, 4506 North Hermitage avenue. She was the widow of George Alexander, former traffic manager for Armour & Co., who died ten years ago, and had lived in Chicago since 1867.

Mrs. Alexander was born in Scotland. When she was 8 years old her father, a sea captain, took his family on a voyage to America with him. Both he and his wife died and were buried at sea, and Mrs. Alexander was raised by relatives after she landed in New York, an orphan.

Funeral services will be held at 11 o'clock Thursday in the chapel at 4542 Ravenswood avenue, followed by burial in Oakwoods cemetery.

DONALD M'RAE, NOTED SURGEON, IS DEAD IN IOWA

Council Bluffs, Ia., Jan. 11.—[Special.]—Dr. Donald Macrae, noted as a surgeon and former army officer, died at his home here toady after ten days' illness of pneumonia. He was a veteran of both Spanish-American and world war. In the latter he organized and commanded as a colonel unit K Mobile hospital No. 1, which was made up almost entirely of local nurses and doctors. His widow is Mrs. Mary Virginia McRae, candidate for the Democratic nomination for United States senator. A son and daughter also survive. Dr. MacRae was holder of the Croix de Guerre with palm from the French government and the Distinquished Service medal from the American government.

Dr. MacRae was born in Council Bluffs. He attended Morgan Park Military academy and Lake Forest college in Illinois.

Josef Jarno, Viennese Actor, Dies at Age of 66

Night Coughing
Quick and Safe Way to Stop It!

Whatever it is due to—cold, catarrh, dust irritations, or smoking—night coughing can and should be stopped. Nothing wears you out like a night of coughing for it deprives you of needed sleep.

Piso's is especially good for night coughing. It clings to your throat, and soothes the inflamed tissues better than a spray or gargle. This checks the cough spasm and opens the air passages. Because of its internal effect nothing stops a night cough as quickly and surely as Piso's. At the first sign of a cough keep a bottle of good old Piso's for Coughs at your bedside and enjoy a full night's sleep. Safe to give even to babies, contains no opiates and does not upset the stomach. All druggists sell Piso's.

LOSING FLESH...AND SO NERVOUS
—her hands SHOOK like a leaf!

Now has nerves like iron—and a figure with curves!

OLD before her time. Wrinkles around her eyes—her cheeks haggard, hollow—her neck and chest scrawny, shrivelled up. Her hands shook and trembled so she was always spilling things. How could she keep up with her young friends?

But now meet the new Mrs. Williams—the young Mrs. Williams who today is the boss of her nerves. Let her tell you her secret—and all about her new girlish curves, too:

Her thrilling story

"I hardly thought I could live. For months my weight had steadily gone down. I suffered from violent headaches, was often constipated, slept badly at night and scarcely ate anything. I was just a bundle of nerves. My hand shook like a leaf, so much so I was continually spilling things.

"Today, after taking several packages of Ironized Yeast, my nerves are steady and my hands never tremble. My other troubles are almost gone, too. I rarely have a headache, am almost never constipated and I sleep fine. I look much better for the flesh I've put on—five pounds in just three weeks." Mrs. G. W. Williams, 535 Day Ave., S. W., Roanoke, Va.

Scores gain quicker

Almost two pounds a week is a quick gain for a person who's been losing weight for months. Yet scores of Ironized Yeast users report even quicker gains—12 lbs. in 3 weeks, 10 lbs. in 15 days, etc., etc. And not only do they round out scrawny, hollow-chested figures—but tone up their entire systems. They quickly correct weakness, indigestion, sleeplessness—poor complexion, too.

Extra-rich yeast

Ironized Yeast contains the finest yeast money can buy—beer yeast, a special kind of yeast which doctors say is richest in health-building value. This yeast is cultured by the world-famous Copenhagen breweries. We concentrate it by a process so valuable that the Biological Commission of the League of Nations—at an official session in Geneva, Switzerland—recommended its adoption as a world-wide standard.

We take seven pounds of raw beer yeast to make one pound of the concentrate used in Ironized Yeast. We then ironize this powerful, body-building concentrate with three distinct types of iron. This enables Ironized Yeast to help put good red blood in your veins—the kind that gives you strength and vigor! No wonder users say Ironized Yeast makes them "feel years younger!"

Triple "feeding" tests

Not only is Ironized Yeast manufactured by trained experts, but it is triple-tested for actual health-building results. These tests are made by our own scientists, by an eminent physician and by a professor of Bio-Chemistry in a famous college.

MONEY-BACK GUARANTEE: Literally thousands of once-skinny, once-sickly folks owe their present glowing health and attractive figures to Ironized Yeast! If the very first package does not help you, too, its cost will be promptly refunded. ACCEPT NO SUBSTITUTE. Cheap imitations can't compare with the genuine Ironized Yeast—stamped "I. Y." on each tablet. At all druggists. Ironized Yeast Co., Atlanta, Ga.

GEN. R. E. WOOD JOINS CENTRAL REPUBLIC BOARD

BY O. A. MATHER.

On the heels of the announcement that Gen. Charles G. Dawes will forsake diplomacy to return to his old job as a Chicago banker, the stockholders of his bank, the Central Republic Bank & Trust company, yesterday added another general to the directorate. He is Gen. Robert E. Wood, president of Sears, Roebuck & Co., largest mail order and chain store concern in the world.

GEN. R. E. WOOD. [Moffett Photo.]

The only other changes resulting from the annual meeting were the resignations of two directors, James E. Greenebaum, who had been a vice president of the bank, and Henry H. Hilton. The directors will meet today to elect officers, but no changes of importance are likely. Gen. Dawes will not retire formally as ambassador to England until next March and until then will continue as honorary chairman of the Central Republic board. In the meanwhile, Joseph E. Otis and Philip R. Clarke will continue as chairman and president, respectively.

Served in Philippines.

Election of Gen. Wood will add another outstanding business man to the bank's directorate. Gen. Wood is 53 years old. He was graduated from the United States Military Academy at West Point in 1900 and served as a lieutenant during the Philippine insurrection from 1900 to 1902. He held important offices in connection with the building of the Panama canal for ten years from 1905 to 1915.

Gen. Wood started on his business career in 1915 and held positions of executive capacity with the E. I. du Pont de Nemours and General Asphalt companies. He was recalled to military service when the United States entered the world war and was made a colonel and then a brigadier general. He returned to business in 1919 as a vice president of Montgomery Ward & Co. and in 1924 went to Sears, Roebuck & Co. as a vice president. He was promoted to president in 1928.

Other Elections Held.

Stockholders of several other banks held elections yesterday. Deforest Hulburd retired as a director of the Northern Trust company. Stockholders were informed that total deposits increased 41 per cent in 1931, with savings deposits expanding 49 per cent. M. L. Joslyn retired as a director of the Upper Avenue bank. Paul T. Diener, Richard P. Hummer and Robert R. Kimbell were added to the directorate of the Kimbell Trust and Savings bank and Mr. Kimbell also was elected trust officer.

Arthur F. Albert, former alderman, was elected chairman of the board, and Harry F. Hamlin, former municipal judge, was named chairman of the executive committee of the Edgewater Trust and Savings bank. Vice President W. E. Christensen also was elected secretary. Lloyd Grant and Adolph Gill were elected directors, and George F. Ivers retired as director.

Three new directors were elected by the Chicago Title and Trust company. They are Laird Bell, Percy B. Eckhart and Judson F. Stone. All are directors in other corporations.

John Zager was elected as an additional member of the board of directors of the Universal State bank.

BANK FAILURES WANE

Although bank failures last year reached a record total, this year is expected to bring a vertical drop in failures and a general increase in reopenings, according to the American Banker. Suspensions during 1931 totaled 2,302 and involved net deposits of $1,580,000,000, which now is in process of being returned to depositors through liquidation.

"During the year 485 bank consolidations took place and 190 closed institutions were reopened," the publication continues. "The effect of these bank changes is to reduce the number of banks in the country to 20,700 at the year end. Deposits of these banks approximate $50,000,000,000.

CLEVELAND BANKS MERGE

Cleveland, O., Jan. 11. — (AP) — A merger of two of Cleveland's largest banks was announced tonight.

Effective tomorrow, the Midland bank with deposits of $28,000,000 will become a part of the Cleveland Trust company, which has deposits of more than 245 millions.

"The move is in the interests of greater economy, efficiency and service," said John Sherwin Jr., president of the Midland. Financial details of the consolidation were not announced.

Capital of the Midland bank was listed at $4,000,000 with surplus and undivided profits of $2,202,571.

Wabash Road's Revenue $3,277,388 in November

St. Louis, Jan. 11.—(AP)—Total operating revenue of the Wabash Railway company declined from $4,385,716 in November, 1930, to $3,277,388 in November, 1931, while railway operating income deficit decreased from $940,347 to $426,544, it was announced today. For the 9 month period ended last November 30, total operating revenue was $45,952,720 as compared with $57,269,130 for the same period in 1930. Railway operating income for this period was $4,358,364 as compared with $10,815,413 for the same period last year.

Rail Issues Show Gains in Bond Mart

New York, Jan. 11.—(AP)—The bond market resumed its upward trend today, with the exception of United States government loans, and the railway issues continued to occupy the trading spotlight. Transportation mortgages began to raise their prices and from then on until the close of the market substantial gains were recorded.

There was some meager bidding for prime industrial loans and the utilities, but there was no excitement in these categories. The average for the industrials was fractionally higher, but the average for utility loans closed at the same figure as Saturday.

While some of the rail bonds registered minor losses, the majority advanced from fractions to seven points. The low priced and convertible issues were particularly favored. There were several points added to some bonds of Baltimore and Ohio, Chicago and Alton, Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul, Chicago and North Western, Rock Island, Chicago and Western Indiana, Erie, Great Northern, Illinois Central, Chesapeake corporation, Missouri Pacific, New York Central, Nickel Plate, New Haven, Northern Pacific, Pennsylvania, Reading, Southern Pacific, Southern Railway, Union Pacific, and Wabash.

The foreign list was mixed. Heaviest trading was recorded in British 5½s and German government 5½s. The latter closed a shade lower, as did the British loan. Argentine government and Buenos Aires municipal obligations were up from 1 to 5½ points. Japanese government issues were soft, but some of the corporate liens advanced.

OPERATING NET OF RYS. IN NOV. IS $37,064,000

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 11.—Net operating income of 171 class 1 railroads dropped sharply in November, although not by as large a percentage as was true in other months of this year. Net operating income of the roads was $37,064,000 in November against $62,564,000 in November, 1930, a decline of 40.76 per cent. This compares with a drop of 43 per cent in October, 47 per cent in September and 54.2 per cent in February.

Gross revenues decreased 23.4 per cent to $306,077,000 in November and expenses were cut 20.4 per cent to $238,777,000.

For the eleven months net operating income was $509,502,000 against $835,852,000 in the same period last year, a decline of 39 per cent. Gross in the period declined 20.5 per cent to $3,948,639,000, expenses were cut 17.8 per cent to $3,024,526,000 and taxes fell 12.4 per cent to $292,225,000.

PRUDENTIAL MAKES $150,214,840 LOANS ON REALTY IN 1931

These loans, which were general in scope and not restricted to any particular territory in the United States or Canada, were made on dwellings, apartment houses, mercantile buildings, and on farms.

As in previous years the loans on dwellings were greater than on all other properties together, this class of real estate showing 15,390 individual loans for a total of $82,833,631. The dwellings involved provided living accommodations for 17,312 families. There were 602 apartment loans for a total of $11,214,548, these furnishing living quarters for 5,279 families.

A total of $33,866,909 was loaned on 245 mercantile and other city properties not used for dwelling purposes. These were 4,638 farm loans for a total of $22,299,750.

Webster Eisenlohr.

Will you please give me information on the common stock of Webster Eisenlohr Tobacco company? Is it highly speculative?—C. C. Y.

Webster Eisenlohr, Inc., was originally incorporated as Ellis Tobacco company in 1911. Annual capacity is about 300,000,000 cigars. Its brands include Cinco, Webster, Henrietta, Mi Favorita, Tom Moore, and Little Tom.

Net income has declined steadily since 1926. A loss of $206,900 was sustained in the first nine months of 1931, against loss of $62,600 for the corresponding 1930 period.

Net loss for the full 1930 year was $246,600, against net income of $170,100 or 8 cents per common share for 1929 and $231,700 or 37 cents per common share for 1928. Net income for 1927 was $349,300, against $499,600 for 1926. In 1930 a nonrecurring charge of $193,000 incurred from changing from foil to cellophane wrappers was charged directly to income.

On Dec. 31, 1930, current assets were $4,725,000 and current liabilities were $361,500. Cash was $620,800. Notes payable were $300,000. Working capital was $4,363,000, against $3,260,000 the year before.

Profit and loss surplus was $503,700, against $656,900 the year before. Capital surplus, the result of the revaluation of the common stock on the company's books in 1930, was $1,547,000. There was no funded debt. Capitalization consisted of 19,500 shares of $7 cumulative preferred [par $100] and 395,853 shares of no par common.

Preferred dividend payments have been irregular. They were paid regularly to April 1, 1930. The July 1, 1930, payment was passed, but was made up with the payment of Oct. 1, 1930. They were continued through April 1, 1931, but no disbursement has been made since. Nothing has been paid on the common since 1924.

Iowa-Nebraska Light and Power.

Will you please give me your opinion of Iowa-Nebraska Light and Power company 5s due 1957?—O. S. S.

Iowa-Nebraska Light and Power company furnishes electricity to Lincoln, Neb., and 297 smaller communities in eastern Nebraska, western Iowa, and northern Missouri. It also supplies other utility services.

Interest was earned 2.13 times in 1930, 2.33 times in 1929, 2.21 times in 1928, and 2.59 times in 1927. For the twelve months ended Sept. 30, 1931, net available for depreciation and interest was $2,304,000. Depreciation totaled $365,000 and interest requirements were $925,000.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 11.—California experienced its first advance in the price of crude oil since last June when the General Petroleum corporation announced today that it would pay from 66 cents a barrel for 33 degrees gravity oil to 78 cents a barrel for oil of 39 to 39.9 gravity oil in the Kettleman hills area. The oil schedule called for no higher prices than 66 cents.

Outline Advertising Plans to Westinghouse Dealers

A meeting of refrigerator dealers of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company was held yesterday at the Hotel Morrison. Approximately 300 dealers from Chicago and surrounding territory attended the meeting, at which the 1932 advertising and promotional program was outlined.

SPENDING LEADS MANY U. S. CITIES TO BANKRUPTCY

Defaults Occur All Over Country.

If foreign governments and municipalities over a great part of the world are in default of their obligations, they have a good deal of company in the United States.

Easy money, reckless spending and heavy borrowing in flush years have left the indulging governments in many cases in a state of actual or imminent bankruptcy.

Within the last five years 165 countricts in twenty-eight states in this country have defaulted on either the interest or principal of bonds. That bald statement goes to disprove the theory that Chicago is lonesome in its financial plight. It is at least possible that a great many more defaults on domestic obligations of public nature are imminent.

The state of Ohio has reported delinquencies in payment of interest and principal of bonds held by the state industrial commission and the teachers' retirement fund. The bonds are those of Ohio's political subdivisions in which the commissions have invested surplus funds.

Minnesota Has Trouble.

In Minnesota the state controller recently let it be known that the state rural credit bureau, formed to loan money to farmers on mortgage security, has a deficit of $2,300,000 and that taxes must be collected to operate this form of government in business.

Cities, however, have led the way into bankruptcy. Chicago's teachers are unpaid. The west parks board has deficits of principal and interest reaching $568,000. The sanitary district has defaulted on $1,519,965 of principal and interest.

But there are others. Florence, Ala., defaulted on bonds due on Dec. 1. Evanston, a wealthy suburb in Cook county, had a brief default, which has been made good, on a $150,000 obligation. Three of the 75 improvement districts in Los Angeles are reported to have defaulted on bond principal and interest. Burbank, Cal., failed to meet principal and interest due on improvement bonds. So did Royal Oak, Mich.

In North Bergen, N. J., the populace is wondering how to meet interest and principal overdue in the form of short term notes. In North Carolina, Asheville and the county in which it is located have defaulted on both interest and principal. Hendersonville and Kernersville, in the same state, are defaulters. Wainwright, Okla., failed to pay $192,000 of bonds and interest when due, and Astoria, in Oregon, is reported still holding off its creditors—another default.

Other Towns in Trouble.

Other actual bankrupts include Elizabethton, Tenn.; Cisco and Edinburg, Tex.; Martin and Dade counties, Florida, and three Texas counties—Wichita, Shelby, and Carter. Drainage districts in Idaho, Arkansas, and Missouri are said to have failed to pay when money that had been borrowed was due.

This is not a complete roll of the political subdivisions which are unable to meet their most rigid debts. It is enough to show that bankruptcy—if we apply the standards of individuals to governments—is already common.

A great many other counties and municipalities have been able to keep up interest and principal payments by running deeper into debt or by failing to pay their employés—which, after all, constitutes a forced loan. So have some of the states.

New York, the state, is officially said to have a deficit that will reach $100,000,000 by June. Albany has reported the state treasury practically empty. Tennessee averted defaults a few weeks ago by making drastic legislative changes which were demanded by New York bankers in return for a

Investors Turn Down 80 Bond Issues of $88,730,700

BY SCRUTATOR.

A search of the records reveals that the investing public in the last four months of 1931 said "no, thank you" to eighty issues of municipal bonds aggregating $88,730,700.

The expenditure of this money had been decided upon by the states, cities, townships, and taxing districts. It had been duly authorized. There remained only the detail of finding lenders willing to invest in the securities offered.

In the past this step has involved merely announcing that the bond issue was to be offered and choosing the most satisfactory bid. But in the last four months sale after sale has fallen through because no bidders have appeared.

Hard to Understand.

This has created a situation which political bodies have found it difficult to understand. This method of raising money to spend has yielded them more than thirteen and a half billion dollars in the last ten years, and they refuse to believe that it will fail them now.

Some have attempted to meet the situation by denying that it exists. In a number of instances the same block of bonds has been offered repeatedly, each time with no bids.

The present difficulty in borrowing money against future taxes is peculiar to no one section of the country and to no particular type of community. The isolated hamlet and the big city have the same trouble.

Waterbury, Conn., after having made two unsuccessful attempts during the last six weeks to sell a million dollar bond issue stopped trying to sell long term bonds and raised a $600,000 temporary loan through six local banks.

Pontiac, Mich., twice offered $174,000 of bonds during the last quarter of the year and twice received no bids.

Rapid City, S. D., offered a $175,000 issue in October. In November it re-offered the same bonds. Still there were no bids.

Still on Their Hands.

Memphis, Tenn., tried twice to find a buyer for $270,000 of street improvement bonds and at the end of the year still had them on its hands.

Hobart, Okla., was more persistent. After failing to sell $250,000 of water bonds in October it tried again in November and a third time in December. There were no bids at any of the three offerings.

These are only a few cases selected at random from a list of eighty municipal issues that were offered but unsold at the end of the year. The list also includes Arkansas' $2,864,500 bond offering, San Francisco's $2,700,000, the Chicago board of education's $5,200,000, Cook county's $4,150,000, Seattle's $1,000,000, Mississippi's $2,500,000, South Carolina's $10,000,000, and other large issues.

The 88 millions of unsold issues does not tell the whole story. Municipal bond experts say that a large number of other issues were not offered because of knowledge that they would not be taken.

Drop in Financing.

In the last quarter of 1931 long term municipal issues sold totaled 113 millions. Similar financing in corresponding quarters of the three preceding years was as follows: 1930, 350 millions; 1929, 475 millions, and 1928, 388 millions.

Two large municipal issues which were to have been offered in the last quarter were held up for technical reasons. Louisiana's $12,000,000 of road and bridge bonds were delayed because bankers were in doubt as to who could legally sign them as governor.

Litigation caused postponement of the sale of $6,000,000 of bonds by the Golden Gate bridge and highway district. This is part of an issue of $35,000,000 authorized for the construction of a bridge across the mouth of the harbor at San Francisco.

BOOST PRICE OF COPPER TO 7⅜ CENT LEVEL

The advance did not follow any material increase in consumers' buying, which continues rather light, but was attributed to the desire of sellers to accumulate larger stocks in anticipation of a better demand later.

It was reported in copper trade circles that sellers were showing some disposition to ask 7⅛ cents for metal for second quarter delivery.

No change was announced in the export price, but a revision to bring it in line with the higher domestic price may develop shortly, particularly if the expected increase in foreign buying materializes, it was explained in trade circles.

BY FRED HARVEY.

New York, Jan. 11.—Lofty sentiments dominated the cerebral processes of the stock trading crew again today and operations once more switched to the buying side.

Week-end influences were of no great importance beyond the German government's statement on reparations, but traders gave themselves the benefit of a doubt on all pending questions with a market buying and so were able to keep moderately bullish. There were fresh reports from Chicago to bolster the growing belief of a peaceful and, from the company point of view, a favorable settlement of the railroad wage controversy, and this had a good effect on buying in the carrier department. Here in New York the annual automobile show hit its stride and this heightened interest somewhat in the motor issues.

Harmony Is Expected.

There were intimations from abroad that harmony might be expected to prevail at the Lausanne reparations conference the last of the month. Finally, Washington dispatches indicated that congress was prepared to speed legislation looking to the establishment of the reconstruction finance corporation proposed by the administration, thus clearing away another portion of the street's misgivings on the score of the nation's law making body—always more or less of a bogey from its point of view.

It is not to be supposed that enthusiasm got out of bounds on any of these scores, or the sum total of them. The logic, indeed, came near going overboard in a heap in the face of a fresh attempt by the bears to start a decline in the early trading. Prices dipped 1@3 points below Saturday's final figures and the whole list threatened to extend the reaction which set in on Saturday. By midday, however, interests piloting the constructive movement had the market once more on its feet and at one time the early losses were replaced with gains which ranged as high as 4 or 5 points in some of the more active issues. Prices reached their best about the start of the fourth hour and then turned slightly downward again on profit taking and some fresh selling for bear account.

Some Leaders Decline.

While some of the leaders, including United States Steel, American Can, Consolidated Gas and the like, finished behind minus signs, the rank and file of the list had registered rather impressive progress considering the small volume—less than 2,000,000 shares—and the uncertainties with which the market had to contend. Estimated receipts at Chicago today: cattle, 8,000; hogs, 38,000; sheep, 20,000.

The higher wholesale market for fresh meats lost some of its influence in the live stock trade yesterday when all divisions of the yards were crowded with meat animals, and buyers saved on their initial costs of cattle, hogs and sheep. Hogs and lambs increased most, but cattle offerings were also large.

Chicago's aggregate receipts increased 40 per cent compared with a week ago. Cattle at 19,000 compared with 19,542 last Monday, the only larger total since November. Increases were general, with the total at 20 markets up 88,000 from a week ago, at 436,000.

Hog receipts at Chicago at 75,000 were largest for the second Monday of January since 1926 and prices were eased down mostly 5¾@10c, the top light weights showing most weakness. The peak price moved down 10c at $4.25, while the general average at $4.05 was off 5c and only 5c above the 32 year bottom established the middle of last month.

March Hogs Bid $5.00.

There were buyers for $5.00 March medium weight hogs in the futures trade yesterday, but no March contracts were offered under $5.25. January and February light and mediums were bid $4.00.

Order buyers played a prominent part in the cattle market again yesterday. For the last few days eastern houses have been taking a bigger share of cattle receipts than usual and sellers successfully held best grades steady against the pressure of big receipts yesterday, but had to take lower prices for the rank and file. Shipments for eastern slaughter from here during last week totaled 16,000.

Only one week last year was larger and no January week in recent years approaches last week's buying on eastern account.

Poorest grades of cattle showed good action and buyers were unable to save on costs of steers selling at $5.50 and below. Prime 1,311 lb steers and some choice 1087 lb yearlings reached $10.50, the top for the day, while bulk of all steers sold at $5.50@9.00. Butcher stock sagged 25c and some were 50c under last Thursday. Calves slumped 50c.

Lamb Run a Record.

The largest sheep receipts for one day in January, 40,000 head, swamped the trade yesterday and brought prices down 25@50c in an active session. Buyers were eager for supplies at the decline, in view of the advancing wholesale market for dressed carcasses, both here and at eastern points. Buying on shipping account has been a supporting factor in the trade lately and more lambs are going east than ever before at this time of year.

During the last week 42,000 of the Chicago supply, or 35 per cent of the total, sold to eastern buyers. Packers were on the market again yesterday with large orders for shipping kinds and bought freely at $5.25@5.75, while shippers paid up to $5.90 and city butchers bought at $6.00.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—(AP)—SUGAR—Raw was unchanged today at 3.20c for spots.

Except for a steady opening futures were lower reflecting more liberal offerings in the spot market, with final prices net unchanged to 3 points lower. Final prices were at about the lowest of the session. Approximate sales, 9,150 tons. Prices follow:

WALL ST. ACTION AGAIN SWITCHES TO BUYING SIDE

Stocks Advance Despite German Situation.

gains of 1 and 2 points were numerous.

Railroad shares provided the anchor to windward once more as they did last week. Atchison, New York Central, Chesapeake and Ohio, and Union Pacific were conspicuously active. Atchison scored an upturn of nearly 4 points and several of the others moved ahead from 1 to 3. Railroad equipment stocks also shared in the popularity, probably on the assumption that either the railroads would use a part of their expected savings from wage reductions in purchasing new equipment or that the removal of financial anxieties which a settlement of the wage question would bring about will inspire buying on a more generous scale. General Railway Signal and Pullman were especially buoyant, rising more than 2 points each.

Auburn Auto Rises.

Auburn Auto did its stuff on the upside once more, rising some 5 points before realizing that caution might be the better part of valor.

Several preferred issues made spectacular attempts to do something worth while. Along with a 50 per cent appreciation in R. K. O. new stock the Keith-Albee-Orpheum preferred issue sprang ahead for more than 8 points. New Haven preferred advanced 7, Engineers Public Service 4 per cent and Electric Power 7 per cent, 2 points. Public Service of New Jersey 7 per cent, on the other hand, gave way 5 points.

GASOLINE AND OILS.

GASOLINE—Including tax: Red Crown, service station and tank wagon, 15c; Standard blue, service station, 12½c; ethyl, 18c. CARBON—Perfection, 9c. FUEL OIL—Standard, tank wagon, 1 to 10 gallons, 8c; over 100 gallons, 6c. TURPENTINE—50c. LINSEED OIL—Raw, 62c; boiled, 65c. DENATURED ALCOHOL—Drums, 46c. WHITE LEAD—100 lb kegs, $12.00.

Observers Find Trading Mostly Professional.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

The action of the wheat market yesterday was not conclusive, although there was a distinctly firmer undertone. A small dip at the start on scattered selling was followed by a rally of 1⅛@1¼c, strength in the stock market being the dominating influence. On the bulge there was selling against offers and the close was slightly under the best figures, with net gains of ½@⅞c. March finished at 55½c; May 57⅛c, and July 56⅜c.

According to pit observers trade in wheat at the present time is highly professional and the sharp fluctuations in prices which come from time to time are due more to speculative operations than any change in the general situation. Routine news seems to have little effect, regardless of whether it is bullish or bearish. Liverpool surprised the trade by failing to respond to the decline in North America on Saturday and closed ¼@⅝c per bu lower, with the May at 56¾c figured on the basis of $3.38 for sterling. At the same time the English market sent bearish reports as to the milling demand.

Await Washington News.

More and more the wheat trade is commencing to believe that the next important movement in the market may have its incentive in developments at Washington, and in consequence reports as to the progress made by the reconstruction finance and other bills designed to bring about a return of confidence are attracting considerable attention. On the other hand the period when the maximum pressure of new southern hemisphere grain will be felt on the world's market is now at hand. According to estimates the Australian surplus this season will be 114,000,000 bu, or 6,000,000 bu less than previously estimated. Argentina was said to have offered wheat abroad at equal to 3c per bu lower than Manitoba.

There was a noticeable lack of foreign demand for Canadian wheat yesterday and no sales of consequence were indicated. Winnipeg gained ⅜@⅝c for the day, partly as the result of buying by Chicago. May there finished at 63⅛c in Canadian funds, which were quoted at 15¾ per cent discount. Buenos Aires was ⅝@⅞c lower for the day, with March at 43⅝c.

Japan Is Buyer.

Japan has been a buyer of fair amounts of dark No. 1 hard spring wheat in the Canadian northwest of late, according to reports from Winnipeg. This wheat is about the highest quality raised in any country in the world, and owing to the marked similarity in weather and soil conditions in Manchuria and the Canadian northwest there is a belief in some quarters that the grain will be used for seed. Recent semi-official reports claimed that Manchuria raised around 20,000,000 bu wheat per year.

A decrease of 1,183,000 bu in the domestic visible supply of wheat brought the total down to 211,146,000 bu compared with 191,038,000 bu last year.

A cash house was on the selling side of May corn early and caused a decline of ⅝c to 39¾c, the lowest figure at which that delivery has sold since Dec. 15. However, there was good buying on resting orders and by commission houses which absorbed the surplus in the pit and a rally to 40⅞ followed, with the finish at intermediate figures. Net gains for the day were ⅝@1c, with March 38¾@38⅞; May 40½, and July 42c.

LARD LOWEST SINCE 1899

Sales of January lard yesterday at $4.97½ per 100 lbs were at the lowest level since 1899. Heavy receipts of hogs, 75,000 at Chicago, and 206,400 at western points, with a sharp decline in prices, brought selling by warehouse interests while houses with foreign connections took advantage of the low prices to absorb the offerings. The advance in stocks and late firmness in grain had a good influence and the net gain on lard futures was at net gains of 2½@5c, with May bellies up 2½c. Liverpool lard was 6d lower on spots and 3d higher on January, with other deliveries unchanged. Exports of lard for the week were 15,140,000 lbs against 7,290,000 lbs last year. Of bacon they were 1,168,000 lbs against 2,529,000 lbs last year. Prices follow:

BUTTER AND EGGS RALLY

Butter and egg futures closed within fractions of the previous close on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday, recovering early breaks. Butter was ¼c lower to ¼c higher, while eggs were up ¾c. Potatoes were unchanged to 1c lower. Statistical news early in the session brought in selling of butter and eggs, the weekly storage reports proving somewhat disappointing. Later, weakness in the spot markets unsettled the futures further. However, support suddenly improved and at the close of the market rallied. The four markets reported a sharp reduction in the butter shortage, but a fair increase in the egg shortage. Sales: Butter, 66 cars; eggs, 53 cars; potatoes, 10 cars. Prices follow:

PUTS BLAME OF BUILDING SLUMP ON THE BANKERS

Too Busy Salvaging Bonds, Says Wheelock.

BY AL CHASE.

How the building industry was crushed and how it can regain its feet were outlined at the opening session of the Illinois Builders league yesterday at the Hotel Sherman by Harry B. Wheelock, former president of the Illinois Society of Architects; Adolph Pfund, secretary-manager of the National Retail Lumber Dealers' association; Oscar W. Rosenthal, president of the state body, and others. Although all the speakers were optimistic for 1932, they were unanimous in declaring an improvement would come only through hard work.

ADOLPH PFUND.

Mr. Wheelock, well known Chicago architect, frankly placed the blame for the present construction standstill on the mortgage bankers.

"I've been greatly discouraged this last year in trying to devise ways and means of returning the good old real estate mortgage bond to practical use so that our building operations might continue," he said. "But I've found the bankers and loan men so busy endeavoring to salvage their building bonds and trying to refinance same, that they absolutely refuse to consider the subject.

Not Willing to Talk.

"They're not willing or not ready even to talk with one about taking the first step to restore public confidence in loans. The result is that the building industry, large as it is, has been crushed to earth, stopping the machinery of manufacturers and labor throughout the land."

Mr. Wheelock paid a tribute to Mr. Rosenthal, president of both the Illinois Builders' league and the Construction Investment trust. He declared that it was only to him and his new investment trust that Chicago can look for relief in our local building industry. He also spoke a word for the Rochester plan.

"If they can raise $6,000,000 in a city of 370,000 population for alterations and repairs, Chicago should raise $55,000,000," he said, "and the state of Illinois a total of $75,000,000. This easily could be raised to $100,000,000 by adding the value of normally new building work. Wouldn't that start the machinery going again?

Dollar Goes Further.

"Don't you know that a dollar invested in employment of labor does more than a dollar given as charity? Don't you know that of every dollar given to labor 90 per cent goes immediately into circulation? So that not only is the material and building industry set in motion but the merchants immediately will realize the real value of putting so much capital into circulation."

Adolph Pfund declared that, although he couldn't see any signs of immediate prosperity, he believed 1932 would be a better year if we made a fight for it.

"There'll be no compromise between the fighter and the do nothing," he said. "If you don't fight, quit. It's better to stop now. The field is there; 1932 offers real opportunities for the fighter. There's a pent up mass of construction business of vast proportions. But we've got to fight to break down the dam and get things moving again."

A. John Berge of the Construction Investment trust and John N. van der Vries, manager of the north central division of the United States Chamber of Commerce, also spoke. President Rosenthal presided. Sessions will continue today and tomorrow.

Mexican Debt Moratorium Extended 2 More Years

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 11.—(AP)—President Ortiz Rubio revealed in congress tonight that a moratorium on Mexico's foreign debt had been extended to Jan. 1, 1934, by agreement between the ministry of finance and an international bankers' committee in New York.

The original agreement was signed in New York on July 25, 1930. A two year moratorium was granted from that date by mutual consent of the signatories. Under the new agreement, which the president said was signed last Dec. 22, the debt funding agreement was further postponed for 18 months on account of Mexico's depleted income and inability to pay.

Lincoln Motor Co. Force Is Largest Since 1928

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 11.—(AP)—The Lincoln Motor company announced today that employment at its plant here reached 3,600 men last week-end, the largest number employed since 1928. The January schedule calls for production and shipment of approximately 1,000 units, the announcement said, and the plant is working a full five day week. Seven hundred and fifty men were added during the last month.

DETAILS OF SINCLAIR-PRAIRIE OIL MERGER REPORTED FINISHED

New York, Jan. 11.—(AP)—Details of the merger of the Sinclair Consolidated Oil corporation, of Prairie Pipe Line company, and Prairie Oil and Gas company were authoritatively said today to have been completed and to be ready for consideration of boards of directors of the three companies meeting next Wednesday. Assets of the combination approximate $800,000,000 on the basis of book values shown in latest balance sheets.

At the same time reliable sources confirmed a report that Herbert R. Gallagher, vice president of the Shell Oil Company of California, is slated to be named head of the new organization, which will be known as the Consolidated Oil corporation.

Following the meeting of the boards Wednesday, which are expected to approve the terms of the merger, it was said the stockholders of the three companies will be asked to vote on the consolidation.

While no announcement was made from the Sinclair offices, it was understood that 14 shares of the new corporation's stock will be exchanged for each ten shares of the Prairie Pipe Line company and one share for each share of Sinclair Consolidated and Prairie Oil and Gas. The companies will operate as subsidiaries of the holding corporation, with headquarters probably in New York.

Outstanding stock of the new holding organization will approximate 14,190,000 shares on the basis of the exchange agreed upon by the negotiations. Mr. Gallagher was said to have been chosen to head the new corporation because of his success in oil merchandising in California. He has been with the Shell organization for several years and is well known in the western oil industry.

COTTON WELL ABSORBED

Weak spots in the cotton market brought out sufficient buying to absorb all offerings and eventually make a stronger market yesterday, with prices up around 10 points at the extreme and net gains reaching up to 6 points in Chicago and 2@6 points in other markets. Spot cotton advanced 5 points in New Orleans to 6.40c, while New York was unchanged at 6.55c, with Galveston 6.35c and Houston 6.30c. Liverpool closed 3@4 points net higher, with sterling exchange lower.

The late strength in the grain and cotton markets had a good influence toward the last. Manchester reported plenty of textile inquiries as indicating small stocks abroad but aggregate results were unsatisfactory, bids in the main being too low. The political situation in India restricts business.

Heavy print cloths and broad cloth yardage moved at advancing prices in Worth street. Exports of cotton for the week were 227,630 bales against 187,670 bales the previous week and 177,686 bales last year. For the season to date exports were 4,276,583 bales compared with 4,301,605 bales last year. Prices follow:

WALGREEN GETS CONGRESS AND WABASH CORNER

Across the Alley from New Sears Store.

Concrete evidence of how the rehabilitation of the old Leiter stores building into a modern metropolitan department store by Sears Roebuck & Co., although not yet completed, already is beginning to affect the nearby area, was evidenced yesterday when it was announced that the Walgreen company had leased the store in the building at the northwest corner of Wabash avenue and Congress street. This seven story structure is in the same block with and across the alley from the new Sears loop store.

Cerf & Ehrenhalt, the only brokers in the transaction, report that the 40x65 store and basement space in addition were leased for twenty years at an undisclosed rental. Extensive alterations are contemplated with the expectation of opening the new Walgreen drug store about May 1.

CAREY SEES AID TO BUSINESS IN OPEN MARKETS

Gov't Interference Hit in Board of Trade Speech.

A return to open competitive markets for the farmer's grain, with removal of artificial restrictions would be an important step in the nation's struggle back toward prosperity, Peter B. Carey declared late yesterday in accepting the presidency of the Chicago Board of Trade.

"All the commodity exchanges ask of the government and of congress is an opportunity to function normally," he told members in annual meeting.

"We seek the right to distribute the farmer's produce and surpluses without the blighting influence of attempts at government price fixing and unfair competition with private business."

He said for years the world had looked upon American exchanges as the scientific perfection of low cost marketing, and had turned here for hedging and for purchases of future supplies.

Watch With Dismay.

"In the past two years foreign nations have watched with dismay the steady destruction of these invaluable facilities," Mr. Carey added. "Their amazement has been reflected in comment of their economic journals."

The yolk of politics and government, he declared, should be removed so the exchanges "may again obtain for the farmer the highest possible price in open, competitive markets whose show windows are not bulging with government surpluses that frighten the foreign buyer."

"This freedom, based on the eternal principles of justice and liberty, is asked of our government in behalf of the American farmer and in behalf of his exchanges whose gigantic task is to spread his produce over the face of the earth."

Duty to Nation.

"It is my solemn belief," he said, "that we have before us a patriotic duty to the farmer and to the nation in general. That duty is to strive for return of open markets where prices are permitted to reflect true conditions, where surpluses may flow normally into consuming channels, and where we may once again regain our foreign markets, lost to other nations through the ill advised attempt at government price fixing."

He declared normal markets must again be made broad and liquid, with trading in sufficient volume to absorb hedges of country elevators, millers, exporters and others.

Taking office with President Carey were Siebel C. Harris and Fred Uhlman, first and second vice presidents respectively, and Francis L. Schreiner, John G. McCarthy, Louis T. Sayre, Kenneth S. Templeton and James A. White, directors.

Why pay more than Household's low rate?

The nationally known Household Loan Plan offers cash loans of $50 to $300 to husbands and wives at reasonable rates.

Household's rate on all loans above $100 is almost one-third lower than the maximum permitted by the small loan law. We voluntarily established this low rate in 1928 and our customers have benefited ever since. This rate remains the same until the loan is paid off. It does not increase as the unpaid balance decreases.

FOR EXAMPLE:
The average monthly cost of a $200 loan repaid in 20 equal monthly payments is $2.63. This is the lowest cost in Chicago.

Get the Cost in DOLLARS Before You Borrow.

Commonwealth Customers Pay LESS for LOANS

$2.93 is the average Monthly Cost of a $225 loan under COMMONWEALTH'S Reduced Rate. This allows 25 months for repayment. There is no lower cost than this in Chicago.

THE personal property which nearly every family owns and the signature of husband and wife enable one to secure any amount up to $300 quickly and easily.

THERE ARE NO fees or deductions. You may take 25 months or pay all or part sooner. Interest at the Reduced Rate is charged only while you keep the money.

Also Salary and Auto Loans.
